Every state, county and city official or board that handles public money should publish at regular intervals an accounting of it, showing where and how each dollar is spent...

A FEW years ago the State of Oregon embarked upon a program of advertising. The plan, and it has been quite successful, was to attract more tourists to the state and to point out the beauties and vacation spots with the purpose of selling travelers upon staying longer in Oregon...

At about the same time that the advertising plan was adopted the state highway commission also determined to construct a second pass over the Cascades from Eugene made their plea to the commission and it was granted. The state has great confidence in the judgment and integrity of the highway commission...

But now there arises, at least in the minds of numerous southern Oregon residents, a doubt as to the sagacity of the commission. Traffic is being routed enthusiastically by Eugene and the cities north, over the new highway. In California they are sending the tourists north over the new route. It is so much faster that the tourists can be shot through the state quickly.

The advertising plan is successful—so is the Willamette pass route—but the two do not go well together. The one aims to bring the tourists in, the other hurries them out. Another thought too is that the rebuilding of the Pacific highway would serve 150,000 people whereas the vast sums spent to construct the Willamette route benefit the relatively small population of south central Oregon...

Why was the Willamette pass road built when there already was a pass highway up the McKenzie? The correct answer seems to be that Eugene and Klamath Falls kept after the highway commission until it yielded. Thus the old "greatest good for the greatest number" plan gives way to the "squeaky wheel gets the grease" policy of allocating highway funds.

But stop! Are we unfair? What squeaky wheel squeaked to get the commission to build that mysterious section of super highway on the south side of the Rogue-Umpqua divide on the Tiller to Trail route? Roseburg did not request it. Grants Pass abhors the very thought of it. How about Medford? Ah, could it be that this very expensive mountain construction has been made so that Douglas county logs may be hauled to Medford sawmills? At any rate, that is the way it will work out.

CHURCHILL, addressing the British people in the midst of the battle's din, says: "The German air attacks so far have failed conspicuously. The royal air force is stronger than at the start, while the Nazi force is being worn down by Hitler's attempts." What he is attempting to do is to BRACE BRITISH MORALE for if Britain's will to fight is broken the battle will be lost. What he says in this hour of Britain's supreme trial is more convincing and therefore more heartening because in the past he has not hesitated to tell the British people the stark truth.

Food Will Win the War, Turkey Growers Told

CORVALLIS, Sept. 13—(AP)—The old catchphrase, "Food will win the war," is as true now as it was 22 years ago. Dean W. A. Schofield of Oregon State college said yesterday. Dean Schofield, addressing the sixth annual Oregon Turkey Growers convention, said Europe will be forced to call on American food resources regardless of the war's outcome. The turkey men were told that the Oregon Poultry Improvement association is now in a position to give them the same breed improvement and disease control service as has been available to chicken breeders for the last six years. Poultry breeders opened their 16th annual convention today.

OREGON EVENTS FLASHED FROM WIRE SERVICE

PORTLAND, Sept. 13—(AP)—Reports of a "world-record" 31-year-old grandmother do not impress Mrs. Margarette Smith of Portland. Mrs. Smith, who recently became a great-grandmother at 57, says she cuddled her first grandchild when she was 30. "My first child was born when I was 14 and my daughter Myrtle, when I was 16," she said. "Myrtle married Lester Grant of Grants Pass when she was 13 and at 14 presented her husband with a daughter."

PORTLAND, Sept. 13—(AP)—CCC job training will open shortly for more than 1900 Oregon men between the ages of 17 and 25. The state public welfare commission said men may enroll from October 1 to 31 at county welfare or state employment service offices.

SALEM, Sept. 13—(AP)—The city council will vote Monday night on whether to let Salem's voters decide in November whether to adopt a city manager form of government.

SALEM, Sept. 13—(AP)—The state tax commission estimated today that 1940 income tax receipts would total $6,909,000, compared with $1,594,000 last year. Second half payments are due October 1.

GUIDANCE TO RECREATION

Fishing prospects, highway and forest conditions summarized in week-end bulletin of the Umpqua National Forest.

Fishing: In the North Umpqua river the steelhead fishing is still reported to be fair. Expert anglers are able to take fish fairly consistently, but amateurs are fortunate to strike a fish at all. Very few fishermen are on the river. Trout fishing is good with limit catches of small fish the rule for those who understand fishing the river. The Idlewild-Honey creek section reports indicate that this week-end should see very good fishing for large trout and cutthroat. Little river and other tributaries below Copeland creek are too low for satisfactory fishing. However, the creeks flowing into the upper reaches of the river still offer excellent fly fishing, especially in places remote from roads and trails. Coachman, blue speck, quill, professor and the various types of gray hackle flies are reported to be bringing the most fish to net. At Diamond lake, this will be the last week-end for lake fishing as the season closes the twentieth. Fishing is reported to be much improved, with but a few campers at the lake. In the South Umpqua district, stream fishing is reported poor, and at Fish Lake it is fair.

Weather: With thunder storms forecast for the week-end, the forest fire prevention and suppression guards are all on duty ready to keep the fires small and the forest green. Humidity is fairly high and there is no acute fire danger; nevertheless, the fire season is not yet over and sportsmen and forest visitors are urged to remember and observe the forest rules of safety: No smoking while traveling; no careless flicking away of matches or burning tobacco; obtain campfire permits and never build a fire near logs, duff, roots, or in any places except on safe mineral ground; when leaving camp, be sure the last spark is out; make stop of the ashes and stir with a stick; feel dead embers with the fingers; be sure the last spark is out.

ROADS: The time of year has arrived when it is wise to carry chains when traveling the most remote forest roads. It takes only a mud-erately heavy rain to make some of the dirt roads dangerously slippery; particularly is this true in the South Umpqua district. The North Umpqua road is closed at Copeland creek from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. on work days. It is open overnight and on Saturday and Sunday. In case of rain, it will be advisable to stay off this road above Copeland creek, as some spots are still without gravel. It is anticipated that all bad spots will be graveled by September 20. Another bottleneck on the North Umpqua road is between the pavement end near Dixonville and Rock creek. To put it mildly, this stretch of road is very, very bad.

BARBS

Maybe all we need to wake this country up to an emergency is something along the lines of the old seventh inning stretch, when you either start hitting, or else. Men are hesitant about drinking from the community cup at the town pump, but they'll stand in line all afternoon to kiss the bride. Nazis continue to shower bombs on London, but King George is still holding on to his reign check. Dog licensing costs more than marriage license in some Pennsylvania counties. The bridegroom probably finds the dog house is more expensive, too. Freedom of choice is not dead in Italy. One may wear the national "standardized" shoe or go barefoot. That New York hair stylist who was to fly down to take care of the duchess might be referred to as the Yankee Clipper who joins the Royal Air Force. Our new battleships will have modern soda fountains, opening the way for new naval rankings of soda-joy, first, second, and third classes. All the Nazis have to do to dispel this talk about a famine in Germany is to shove Herr Goering in front of the lens again.

DAILY DEVOTIONS DR. CHAS. A. EDWARDS: How thankful we ought to be every day to feel the presence of God with us, and thus to hope for the eventual establishment everywhere of God's dominion of righteousness and peace and love. With sincere gratitude we may thank God for giving to us whatever is best for our development—even the tribulations. As evidence of our appreciation of God's forgiveness, the least we can do is to keep ourselves in readiness to forgive anyone who seeks our forgiveness. We ought to be thankful also that in the necessary temptations that come to us, and in our unceasing war against injustice, we are permitted to overcome evil with good. Also, we need to appreciate daily our deliverance from all that can harm personality and, while conserving the supremacy of the spiritual, we can be grateful for the opportunity to help as many people as possible to enjoy with us an endless growth in power and wisdom, and love. The worst moment for the atheist is when he is really thankful, he has nobody to thank. It is possible for us to transform any sort of tribulation into an opportunity to help some one else in a similar strait. Amen.
