SMALL IN SIZE . . .

Great in Power!

The "Caterpillar" Diesel D2 Tractor is small. It can easily be moved on a light truck or trailer—BUT it's powerful when sure-footed, dependable traction is needed.

It handles easily and is amazingly thrifty. It will work hard for 8 hours on approximately 10 gallons of low-cost Diesel fuel. Where else can you find qualifications like that? See us today for further facts.

We announce our appointment as wholesale distributors for Budweiser

Our business has taught us a lot about people and what they like. We have learned that they like to devote a part of each day to the good things of life—and that fine beer is one of these good things.

Our retail dealers confirm what we long have suspected—that the one fine beer which people everywhere consider outstanding is Anheuser-Busch Budweiser. Since we are in business to make a success of it, we want to supply dealers with the beer that most people want—and we are, therefore, happy to announce that we have obtained the wholesale distributorship for Budweiser beer—in bottles, in cans and on draught.

LET'S GET ACQUAINTED WITH THE NEWS-REVIEW

By PAUL JENKINS

Most people who visit the News-Review seem to get their biggest kick out of watching the newspaper press and the mailing crew at work.

The linotypes attract their wonder, but the action of these machines is so intricate and marvellous it's just not much use for a fellow to try to see into 'em much; but the big press and the little labelling device and the work being done by the busy crew there is more understandable.

Briefly, after the forms of type are in place in the bed of the press and the latter starts rolling its endless sheet of white paper over them to deposit the printed pages, folded neatly in a closely packed upstanding row, they are taken to the mailing table. There they are labelled—with the little familiar yellow stickers bearing the subscribers' names, addresses and the expiration dates; bundled and dumped into mail sacks and taken to the postoffice. Those papers intended for carrier delivery in Roseburg aren't labelled, but are stacked separately to be counted out to the carriers who deliver them to their customer's door.

In the photograph appearing above showing this operation, Walter Fredrickson, pressman, is standing by the press; beyond him at the "stuffing" table is Thelma Peterson, inserting second sections; beyond her to the left is her husband, Olaf Peterson, mailer, operating the hand labelling machine; to his right Roy Smith, bundler and deliveryman and to his right Bill Chalmers, who at the moment is assisting him but who now is out collecting Bargain Rate subscription money from News-Review city carrier subscribers.

This crew works at top speed every second of time the press is running. It has to, to make the north- and south-bound afternoon stages. If anything "busts," it sometimes misses them—for there are only minutes to spare at best. It's a gruelling job while it lasts.
