Photo by Film Shop. Mrs. and Mrs. Marlowe Dee McKay

Miss Eileen Marie Kleist, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Daniel Kleist, of Coos Junction, became the bride of Marlowe Dee McKay, son of Mrs. Ethel McKay, of Roseburg, at an impressive ceremony Sunday afternoon, October 13th, at the First Christian church in this city. Dr. Walter Placost, of the Northwestern Christian college of Eugene faculty, performed the ring ceremony in the presence of two hundred relatives and friends at two-thirty o'clock in the afternoon.

Tall Woodwardia ferns, pink gladioli and white petunia blossoms formed a beautiful background for the altar, which was flanked by banks of white lily-of-the-valley and gold standard daisies. Baskets of roses, gladioli, zinnias and ferns completed the church decorations.

Mrs. Frances Lintott, organist, played softly on the organ preceding the ceremony and accompanied R. M. Church, who sang, "Be content with the things which you have." Mrs. Lintott played Johann Sebastian Bach's Wedding Reconciliation for the bride party to advance to the altar and at the close of the service played Mendelssohn's Wedding Reconciliation.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was beautiful in a floor-length wedding gown of white, heavy brocade satin, fashioned with a train. A fitted jacket encircled the bodice of the gown, which had long sleeves with points over the wrist, while tiny buttons were used from the neckline to the waistline. Her full-length tulle wedding veil was held in place by a coronet of fluted tulle and fastened at the back of her hair by a spray of orange-blossoms and white chrysanthemums. Her wedding bouquet was of deep, fiery rosebuds and gardenias, tied with white satin ribbon.

Miss Virginia Winston, maid of honor, was charming in a blue chiffon floor-length frock with matching head veil. She carried a sheaf of pink deep-pink chrysanthemums. Martin Hoffman, of Eugene, acted as best man. The bridegroom and best man wore dark suits with white ties. In the lapel, flowers wore Lynn Hamilton, of Eugene, and Robert Harding, and James Bewley, of Roseburg.

The bride's mother wore a black silk crepe dress and a corsage of gardenias and the bridegroom's mother wore a green silk crepe dress and a corsage of gardenias.

Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents at Coos Junction at which time one-hundred and twenty-five relatives and friends called.

The serving table, covered by a very lovely lace cloth, was centered by a three-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature altar of flowers with a bride and bridegroom standing by the tiny altarway. Pink roses and tall lighted tapers completed the table decorations and beautiful bouquets of bright autumn blossoms were attractively arranged about the rooms.

The wedding cake was cut by the bride and was served by Mrs. Robert Harding, a sister of the bridegroom. Mrs. Clarence Adamson and Miss Peggy Azev poured and assisted in serving and about the rooms were Mrs. LaVerne Spangh, Mrs. Kenneth Lawrence, Mrs. Kenneth Ellison, Miss Mari Joan Parkinson and Miss Peggy Azev.

The marriage of Miss Kleist and Mr. McKay, united two of Douglas county's oldest families. Mr. McKay's maternal grandparents, Robert and Sarah Kent, settled in the early
