Stephen Foster, Song Writer, Gets Into Fame's Hall
By TOBY WIANT
NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(AP)—A song writer who died penniless, obscure and broken in spirit at the age of 38 has just been elected to the Hall of Fame.
A commemorative tablet and best honoring his memory will be placed among those of 72 other great Americans next spring.
The name on it will be "Stephen Collins Foster."
He's the first musician ever named one of America's immortals.
He wrote down-to-earth, folksy, easy-to-sing songs. He wrote them to pay the rent, to buy a few meals. And for most of them, he got only a few dollars each.
They were never-to-be-forgotten songs. Such as "Old Black Joe," "Old Folks at Home," "Jeanie With the Light Brown Hair," "My Old Kentucky Home," "Oh Susanna," and "Massa's in de Cold, Cold Ground."
At the age of 14, he wrote "Tioza Waltz." From then until his death in New York City January 13, 1864, he turned out more than 200 songs, a dozen instrumental compositions and several musical arrangements.
Last night, Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase, chancellor of New York University and director pro tem of the Hall of Fame, announced that Foster was the only one of 141 nominated candidates to receive the required three-fifths vote of the 119 distinguished Americans who comprise the college of electors. It was the first time, since the founding of the Hall of Fame in 1900, that only one nominee was selected.
The song writer who died thinking he was a failure received 86 votes.
