FENLEY-SOLOMON RITES READ AT EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Miss Jearldene Fenley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Fenley, of Elkton, became the bride of Forrest Solomon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Solomon, of Elkton, at the Episcopal church in this city December 22. The ring ceremony was read by Rev. Perry Smith, of this city.

The bride was gowned in a lovely pale orchid gown and carried a bouquet of tiny pastel shaded rosebuds. She was attended by Mrs. Verne Solomon as matron of honor and the bridegroom was attended by his brother, Vern Solomon as best man,

The day also marked the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Solomon, parents of the groom and Mr. and Mrs. Claude McDonald, cousin of the bride. Mr. McDonald had attended the wedding of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fenly at the Episcopal church twenty years ago.

Only close relatives attended the wedding and present were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Solomon, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Fenley, Douglas Fenley, Mr. and Mrs. Claude McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Fenley, Mrs. Ella Fenley, Mrs. Wardie Snook, Mrs. Eugenia Solomon, Mr. and Mrs. Verne Solomon, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Solomon, Janice Gill, Dean Gill, Frank Gill, Ronald Solomon, Richard McDonald and Gay McDonald.

Christmas day all the guests except Mr. and Mrs. Claude McDonald and family and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Gill and family attended a Christmas dinner at the S. A. Fenley home. Also present were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Duke, and family, of North Bend.

FRIENDS ENJOY NEW YEAR'S DINNER

WILBUR, Jan. 3.—Mr. and Mrs. D. P. McKay entertained at a lovely noon-time dinner on New Year's day. Green tapers and crimson cacti and holly decorated the rooms. Covers were placed for Mrs. D. E. Moon, Misses Irene, Mazie and Olive Walker of Roseburg, and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. McKay.

SUNDAY DINNER HONORS BRIDAL PARTY AT TILLER

DAYS CREEK, Jan. 3.—Sunday afternoon Miss Anna May Manley entertained at a delightful four-course turkey dinner at her home at Tiller, complimenting her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Manley, of Canyonville, who were married Christmas day. The guests were seated at a most attractively appointed linen covered table. Tall red tapers in crystal candlesticks were spaced through the center length of the table, while slender branches of evergreen interspersed between them, further carried out the holiday theme. At one end the table was flanked by a gorgeously decorated Christmas tree.

Covers were placed for the guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Manley and Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Colby of Pasco, Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Ady and daughters, Miss Joyce and Miss Betty, of Myrtle Creek, Mrs. Alice Manley of Canyonville, Sgt. James Manley of Camp Murray, Maurice Madison and the hostess, Miss Anna May Manley.

POET'S CORNER

SEE WHAT YOU HAVE DONE

Let's take us a pen
And a paper white,
And dim it with lines
Like the still creeping night.

Out to the sun-set
Back in the shade,
Beckoning the shadows
Till twilight is made.

Covering the white
With a vanishing wave;
Catching the moon
As tho' from a grave.

Just the moon and the pen
As still as the night.
Sweeping the sun-set
Far out of sight.

Catching the treetops
As they wave at the sun,
Oh, shadows of night,
See what you have done.

—G. M. Leeper.

FIND NO TASK DONE

A tree grows old
When its shut from the sun,
But the heart grows old
When its task is done.

I would say to the heart
Find no task done,
But rise like the tree
That reach for the sun.

—G. M. Leeper.

When's An Oyster Stew? Problem On Oregon Coast

—(AP)—It became apparent today that oyster stews would be gone into critically at the forthcoming meeting of the Oregon Coast Highway association here.

The association, as proud of the oyster stews produced at the innumerable restaurants along the highway as it is of the highway, was cut to the quick last year by a Hood River paper's editorial questioning of certain stews which the editor had purchased along the coast.

The Hood River editor made two accusations: 1. That some of the stews lacked oysters. 2. That some of them were manufactured from oysters that came out of cans.

The association took up the challenge and promised to see that a woman connoisseur of the art of oyster cookery accompanied by another good judge of oyster flavors, eat their way along the Oregon coast from California to the Columbia river on oyster stew. Every leading cafe and roadside inn is to come under the stew scrutiny.

The stew sippers are to report on: 1. Stews containing fresh oysters; 2. Stews containing canned oysters; 3. Stews, if any, containing no oysters.

Remedial Reading Class Forming Is Plan in Roseburg

Persons interested in formation of a class in remedial reading, either for college or university credit or only for experience, are invited to attend a meeting at the junior high school at 7:15 p. m. Wednesday, Jan. 8, according to W. G. Beattie, Eugene, assistant director in the general extension division of the Oregon state system of higher education.

Twelve applications have been received for establishment of the proposed course in Roseburg, but 28 persons in all must be registered if the class is to be carried on, Mr. Beattie states. The class is to be conducted by L. Kenneth Shumaker, in the event a sufficient number of interested persons are registered.

The meeting on Wednesday will be given over to a lecture, illustrated with stereopticon slides, demonstrating recent results of research in the field of remedial reading and will preview the course planned for the term. The first meeting will be open to all people who are interested enough to attend. A representative of the assistant director's office will be present to receive registrations and to accept the required enrollment fee of $5.

Nearly 1,000 persons in Oregon are attending extension classes for their own information and development, without credit, while about 2,000 are working for college or university credits, Mr. Beattie reports.

War Supply Leak Worries Britain

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Hugh Dalton, minister of economic warfare, said today that the "Vladivostok leak" of war supplies, including American cotton, through soviet Russia into Germany was a source of worry to Britain.

Britain's Atlantic blockade of Germany still is "extremely effective," the minister said in an interview, but he indicated that American shipments of cotton and rubber scraps to Vladivostok, Russian Siberian seaport, still are "very large."

Cotton, he explained, could be used in the manufacture of high explosives and rubber scrap is needed for making "buna," Germany's rubber substitute.

Dalton refused to say whether current shipments of these products across the Pacific were larger than pre-war shipments across the Atlantic.

He suggested it would be better if "neutral nations" store such products, especially cotton, for sale to "recently-freed nations" when the war is over.

Activity of British and French naval units in the Pacific cut into shipments to Vladivostok last February, Dalton said, but he declared they had increased since the fall of France.
