Red Cross Activities

By MRS. ALAN L. REICH The Gray Ladies

One of the most looked for affairs at the veterans hospital is the annual Christmas dance given by the Gray Ladies. This year it was held on Friday, December 27.

The auditorium of the Recreation building, where the dances are usually held, was artistically decorated. A large, beautifully trimmed Christmas tree was placed in the center of the front end of the hall. Above this tree hung a very large star made up entirely of white bulbs. Throughout the auditorium festoons of green and red paper rope were hung from wall to wall. All the decorations were done by the men at the hospital under the able direction of Miss Hulda Gjevne, the recreational director.

The women, dressed in lovely dinner gowns enhanced the holiday picture, as they danced against this colorful background. Though there was a smaller than usual attendance of women because of the prevalence of "flu," a good time was had by both the men and the Gray Ladies and their invited guests.

Cassey Jones' Fireman's band provided lively music for the occasion. Besides the modern music, the orchestra also played a number of old-fashioned waltzes which the veterans always enjoy. One or two Paul Jones dances helped to get everyone acquainted and put everybody into a true holiday spirit.

At nine o'clock, there was a half hour's intermission. The Gray Ladies then furnished and served refreshments.

The Gray Ladies present at the dance were Mrs. Leonard Coleman, Mrs. L. W. Jesse, Mrs. Arthur H. Mountford, Mrs. John M. Raish, Mrs. E. F. Tandy, Mrs. Thomas Parkinson and Mrs. Alan L. Reich.

The next meeting of the Gray Ladies will be held at the home of Mrs. E. F. Tandy on Friday, January 10. It will be a 7:30 dessert-supper and all members are cordially invited to attend. Mrs. Velle Broadway, chairman, will preside at the business meeting.

Production

Every woman and young girl who sympathizes with the plight of the refugees in the stricken European countries and the unfortunate made homeless in England, can do her bit to alleviate their suffering of those innocent men, women and children. All that is required of those of you who can sew, cut, knit or embroider is just a little of your spare time. All the materials are furnished by the Red Cross.

As it has been proven that women enjoy doing this sort of work most when in groups, we are trying to get as many groups to organize as possible. Any groups of women who are sincere in their sympathy and willing to give a little of their time can get more details about what is required of them by going down to the Red Cross sewing room, which is located in the basement of the South Methodist church on the corners of East Lane and Main streets, on Wednesday any time between 10 and 4 o'clock. Mrs. Leonard Coleman, who is the production chairman for the Douglas county chapter of the Red Cross, will be there at that time, and will reserve the sewing room for the exact time the particular group will find it convenient to meet. And in the case where groups or individuals can only do work at home, Mrs. Coleman will furnish the necessary materials and instructions to take home.

Each individual worker will get a card upon which will be recorded the type of garment she is making, the material she is responsible for, and will be given credit for the number of hours she has worked.

There is a long list of things that women can sew or knit. Just a few things are women's and girls' dresses and skirts, layette, boys' shirts, overalls and shorts, convalescent robes, hospital pajamas, bed shirts, men's, women's and children's sweaters, mufflers, socks, afghans, shawls, beanies and knitted suits for children under six. Every one of the garments made by the women and girls of Douglas county will have a specially woven label sewed into the garment. On that label is woven, "American Red Cross, Douglas County Chapter, Roseburg, Oregon."

If anyone has a sewing machine that she can loan out to the Red Cross, it will be greatly appreciated, and will receive the very best care.

Those who would like to knit but cannot, will be able to learn now, as the Red Cross will furnish an instructor.

The women and girls who like to sew will especially enjoy their work. The money that the government recently donated to the Red Cross was used to buy surplus stocks from the mills. This made it possible to get exceptionally fine material for a minimum cost. The material is so lovely, it will inspire good work from even the beginner.

Let us see how deep the sympathy of the women of Douglas county really goes. Let us see how many groups can be organized. The sooner we get to work, the sooner we can fill our chapter's quota. As soon as our quota is filled, the garments, bearing the Roseburg, Oregon, label, will be sent directly to the Red Cross warehouse in New York. From there the garments will be put on a Red Cross boat which is respected by all nations, and the garments will be rushed to the needy refugees. And that which we have formed with our fingers will be keeping some man, woman or child warm and comfortable.

Don't forget. You have a date to be down at the South Methodist church on Wednesday afternoon between 10 and 4 o'clock.

First Aid Such a large demand for first aid instruction in Roseburg and the surrounding towns, that an instructor's course was given in December. Dr. Frank E. Hull of San Francisco gave the course and those who successfully completed it were Ray Parslow, first aid chairman of Douglas county, Jack Robertson, Ray Lang, Gordon Lang and Alan Reich.

First aid classes are now being organized. The classes will be open to anyone over 16. A minimum of twenty hours instruction is required for the standard course. Upon completion of the course, the graduates will receive first aid cards. The course will be given over a ten-week period. Classes will be held one night a week with an approximate two-hour session each meeting night.

Those interested in registering for the course can leave their name and address with the Red Cross office at the courthouse. It would also be a good idea to mention what night would be most convenient for you, so that you can be placed in the appropriate class.

DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHAS. A. EDWARDS The prophets of old were great men. They lived close to God, and thereby were able to guide Israel. One who is to tell good tidings must live above doubts and fears that dull the vision of God. If one is to be the person whom God can use to help others he must be able to see good as well as bad on every side. Isaiah saw Christ eight hundred years before He came to save men. In spite of the lions den, Daniel saw God, and had confidence in His power and willingness to deliver him. There is a certain peak in the northern part of the Adirondacks from which summit on a clear day one may see other peaks many miles away, and the entire outline is beautiful to behold. It is also wonderful what one may see in spiritual things if one gets near to God, for we cannot act wisely, live holy and useful lives unless we see clearly and do faithfully the will of God. St. John in exile envisioned a new heaven and a new earth, and we may not cease our efforts until every knee shall bow and every tongue shall confess that Jesus Christ is Lord. Amen.

the Medford Rotary club. He is reported to be a very entertaining speaker.

Snake Destroys Pests

A full-grown gopher snake, on a midwest farm, is estimated to be worth $40 annually as a pest destroyer. They are valuable to farmers because of the great number of harmful rodents that go to make up their menu.

POET'S CORNER

THE HERMIT By ALDEN HARNISS Where mighty cedars in the breezes nod On summits of these mountain peaks I learn Not in books but in the Truth that I discern, The mental and immortal chemistry of God.

When I left the noisy city and came here, Where stillness and the hush of ages brood And the forest seems like God's infinitude, Sweet, holy peace forever hovered near And I knew her great white wings were over all. In these deep, vast solitudes I heard the call Of eternal Spirit from afar; Then all things, not as they seem to be, To mortal sense, but as they really are, Were by the laws of Truth revealed to me, And then it also was to me revealed That God is not a man up in the skies. I saw that evil, wearing a disguise, Down through the long, long ages had concealed This fact and had made us think and live such lies As the reality of mortal life, Including sin and suffering and strife.

Beyond the Adam man I clearly see That the real and perfect and the only me Is birthless, ageless, sinless, deathless, free, And is controlled by force that forever give The power to rightly think and rightly live Throughout all eternity.

New Storm Hits West Slope; High Areas Get Snow

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The Pacific slope was in for more bad weather today, with rainstorms whipping the coastal regions and heavy snow falling in the mountains.

Storm warnings flew from Port San Luis, Calif., north to Cape Flattery, Wash., because of "very disturbed weather conditions" centering about 500 miles off the Washington coast.

Gales along the coasts of northern California, Oregon and Washington reached a velocity of more than 50 miles an hour at times yesterday when the storm struck inland. The high winds caused some damage in the San Francisco bay region.

A blizzard in the Mount Shasta area and deep snow in the Sierra marked the passage of the disturbance into the mountain country.

The deluge of the rain that drenched San Francisco yesterday increased seasonal precipitation to nearly three inches more than normal. It was the 18th day out of the past 23 in which San Francisco has had rain. Other California cities reported their seasonal rainfall from two to five inches above normal.

A powerful gust of wind ripped the roof from a hangar at the emergency airport at Concord, in Contra Costa county. The roof fell on a near by cottage, wrecking it. Another roof was blown from a summer cottage at Rockaway beach, south of San Francisco.

Rainfall caused the Southern Pacific railway line to be flooded for a quarter mile at Richmond. The storm delayed train schedules in some sections and airline schedules were cancelled out.
