Every state, county and city official or board that handles public money should publish at regular intervals an accounting of it, showing where and how each dollar is spent. This is a fundamental principle of democratic government.

It is customary for the president of the United States to make an address at the opening of congress, to both houses assembled. He talks, on this occasion, upon the state of the union. President Roosevelt made this traditional address yesterday. Aside from being delivered at the customary time, there was nothing traditional about what he said.

To those who heard the previous talk, the Sunday fireside chat, the address yesterday, was a second chapter. For those who had not heard the previous one, it summed up what he said at that time and added further observations in similar vein. Both were great speeches and the two constitute an excellent analysis of our national policy in the present war period.

The very best epigram of the current season was this one by the president, which drew a mighty cheer yesterday: "Beware of those who would clip the wings of the American eagle in order to feather their own nests."

When you come right down to it that terse observation just about adds up the whole situation.

But with all of the woe that is elsewhere in the world today we may be more thankful that here we are preparing as usual for the annual dinner meeting of the Roseburg chamber of commerce. There is something reassuring about that. It is a reminder that we have peace, good food and peaceful work to do, for the chamber of commerce is a working organization.

According to the advance notice of the meeting, a speaker of outstanding ability, Dr. Victor P. Morris, dean of the school of business administration at the University of Oregon, will make the address of the evening. But in addition to the speaker there will be a musical program of local origin.

As the regular annual report will show, the Roseburg chamber of commerce is concluding a year of hard and effective work. We will not recite here the accomplishments, leaving that to the formal report itself, but we can say that there has been done much valuable work of a lasting nature.

During the 12 months just ahead the chamber of commerce faces not only the usual tasks of such an organization but it will have two additional problems to struggle with. First and foremost, the national defense and wartime activities will tend to more and more take the time and attention of the organization. We know about that, for it was the same during the previous world war. On top of that, indications point to an expanding industrial activity here. Whether this activity materializes or not the chamber of commerce will be very busy doing what it can to help it come about, and rendering service to such new enterprises as may be established as well as to those in existence.

The Roseburg chamber of commerce is ready now, as always, to do its part in national defense and for the community it specifically serves.

budgets, and the big problem of the next generation will be balancing public budgets.

It may be that they are coming into the legislative picture at exactly the right time.

D. R. E. L. THORNDYKE, Columbia University psychologist, concludes as the result of a nation-wide study that: "American newspapers are impartial journals of world news, regardless of their political affiliations or the size of the cities in which they are published."

There is probably not an important newspaper in the United States that does not want Britain to win the war, but there is not a legitimate newspaper in this country that will not report as fully and as accurately as obtainable the news of a German victory.

With all its faults, the American press is the only press in the world today of which that can be said.

One of those bowling rarities, a tie game, occurred last night in the match between Dunham's Transfer and Sandy's Place. Each team rolled 887 for the first game. The extra frame rolled to break the tie created much excitement as the score remained tied until the last bowler for each team faced the foul line. Cecil Black won the contest for the Transfer-men when his double beat Thompson's spare.

Three Games in 5 Days on Card For R. H. S. Hoopsters

Indians Drilling Hard for Tilts With Opponents in Southern Oregon Conference.

By "HAP" APPLIGATE Rested from their recent successful invasion of northern California, the Roseburg Indians buckled down Monday to practice for three home conference basketball games in five days. These games, in order, include Medford Friday night; Grants Pass, Saturday night, and Ashland next Tuesday night.

The Indians have won six out of seven of their pre-season clashes, beating Drain, 30 to 10; Rosevelt high of Portland, 26 to 22; Springfield, 50 to 25; alumni, 36 to 20; Crescent City, 35 to 18; Chico, 20 to 18. The lone defeat was a 34 to 18 shellacking at Klamath Falls. The chief weakness shown by the Indians of late has been in converting free throws, making only two out of 19 attempts in the game at Chico.

Medford Team Strong In the district race, has played few practice games, their chief win being a 39-to-38 decision over North Bend, won by the Bear Pickers because an inexperienced timekeeper allowed too much time during which Medford tossed the winning basket. All indications point to a very strong Medford team which might possibly give the Indians some trouble in the game here Friday night.

Grants Pass is stronger this year than last season, having retained most of its 1939-40 team which split a pair with Roseburg last season. The Cavemen have played better than 500 ball so far this season.

Ashland Seeks Revenge The most eagerly awaited battle, however, is the one with Ashland next Tuesday as members of both teams played ball as rivals in their junior high year, when Roseburg won two games. Ashland, with four veterans back from the state tournament team of last year, will be out to avenge the losses of the junior high play. Undefeated so far this season, the Grizzlies hold a 42-to-21 win over Vancouver, 46-to-25 over Albany and two wins over Chemawa, 48 to 29 and 55 to 15.

The Roseburg B team, under Coach Jim Davis, will open its season Saturday night, playing Myrtle Creek as a preliminary to the Roseburg-Grants Pass game. The B squad also will play a preliminary to the Tuesday night game, meeting the Oakland Gobblers in that contest. Saturday night's preliminary will start at 6:45 o'clock and the Tuesday preliminary will start at 6:30 p. m.

Members of the B squad are Tony Anderson, Lloyd Anderson, Mickey Campbell, Sam Shoemaker, Gerald Denny, Harold Coey, Melvin Baker, Lee Wimberly, Bruce Barker, Charles Single.
