Every state, county and city official or board that handles public money should publish at regular intervals an accounting of it, showing where and how much money is spent. This is a fundamental principle of democratic government.

THE business of preparing the United States to properly defend itself against any and all aggressors, is properly a federal task. The states will do their part, but the great organization for defense must be created and operated by the government.

There is always the danger, however, that such a necessity as that which exists now for the expansion of our defense, may provide the means for a greater expansion of the rapidly growing tendency toward centralization of all government in the federal authority.

Those who have made a careful study of the subject declare that during the period of 140 years since the establishment of the capital at Washington, the machinery of the federal government, as measured in administrative personnel, has expanded roughly 700 times faster than the population of the country.

In the year 1800, when the seat of government was transferred from Philadelphia to Washington, a weekly newspaper published at the latter place recorded the fact that "the whole force of office clerks, totaling 54 persons, and all of the books and papers of the government, in seven small and five large boxes, were transported from Philadelphia."

During the past ten years, the number of people on the payroll of the executive departments of the government has been doubled and now stands at more than a million. How many freight trains of 100 cars each would be required to transport the records of the federal government to some new location, like Topeka, Kansas, for example, nobody knows!

So long as the states continue to acquiesce in the concentration of power at Washington that has long been in progress, the greater the federal bureaucracy will become. If the time ever comes when all power is lodged at Washington which God forbid — it necessarily follows that no power will be left to the states, or to the people.

Oregon's Mineral Output Last Year Sets New Record

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Oregon's production of gold, silver, copper and lead in 1940 was larger than in any year since mining started in the state in 1852 and the gold output set an all time record in quantity and value.

The bureau of mines, in making public a report compiled by its San Francisco office, said the state's total production was worth $4,094,018 during last year. Gold production totaled 112,700 fine ounces, silver 178,000 fine ounces, copper 180,000 pounds and lead 52,000 pounds.

The production in 1939 was 93,372 ounces of gold, 155,388 ounces of silver, 96,000 pounds of copper and 30,000 pounds of lead, all worth $3,350,950.

The gold produced in 1940 was worth $3,944,500; silver $126,578, copper $20,540 and lead $2,500.

The bureau said the major outputs were recorded for Baker, Grant, Josephine and Jackson counties. The copper and lead, the report continued, were produced as by-products of concentrates smelted principally for gold.

At Portland, Ore., the state department of geology and mineral industries reported that quicksilver production added another $1,700,000 to the metallic production of Oregon in 1940.

Production of non-metallic minerals last year totaled approximately $5,500,000, the department continued, increasing Oregon's overall figure to $11,291,018.

Artist Keeps Promise to Wife to Make 'Nice Exit'

SEATTLE, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Last September Sidney Laurence, former Los Angeles artist, famed for his painting of Mount McKinley and the cold blues of his northern seascapes, walked into an Anchorage, Alaska, barber shop, climbed into a chair for a shave and haircut.

"My last," he told the barber. "Make me look good." To his wife, he said: "I've always wanted to make a nice exit, I'm going to the hospital. A hotel is no place to die."

She protested; he kissed her a "Goodbye—kid"; saluted himself in a mirror; grimaced wryly, walked to the hospital.

Next morning the 64-year-old artist was dead of a stroke. His widow, the former Miss Jeanne Kumath, Frenchwoman and, herself, an artist, arrived yesterday, en route to Los Angeles, with her famed husband's last 30 canvases, and 250 of her own oil paintings of Alaska wild flowers which she plans to publish in book form.

She said she would return to Alaska again next June.

Scout Who Sent Word of Custer Massacre Passes

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 17.—(AP)—The Indian scout who sent word of Custer's last stand to the world will be buried Saturday.

Lorenz Chapman, 98, in the advance frontier forces from Civil war times to the days of Hollywood, died at his home here Wednesday.

He fought in the Civil war, then went west to serve as scout guide and interpreter. With Custer's 1876 expedition on the Little Big Horn river in Montana, he was but a mile and a quarter away at the time of the massacre.

Indians had captured him, but he escaped. The Sioux tribe at Custer's camp as Chapman returned to it, and he sent another scout to carry word of the "last stand" to an army post.

He also took part in the campaign against Chief Joseph of the Nez Perce tribe in 1877.

Early motion picture thrillers attracted him and he appeared in several. Later he became an advisor on Indian pictures.

Violinist in Draft Gets 90 Days to Finish Tour

LEGISLATOR, (AP), Jan. 17.—(AP)—Yehudi Menuhin, 23-year-old renowned violinist, was placed in class 1 under the selective service training act yesterday but his draft board voted him a 90-day leave to complete a tour of South America. The vote was 3 to 2.

Meanwhile, the board decided to ask for a federal ruling as to the proper classification for the musician, whose sensitive fingers some have claimed not Menuhin himself would be damaged by army duty.

Lease-Lend Bill Backed by Assn. of Dry Goods Dealers

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP)—The National Retail Dry Goods association, one of the largest business groups in the United States, went on record as a body in favor of President Roosevelt's "lease-lend" bill for aid to Great Britain.

The convention, representing 5,700 stores throughout the country adopted by a voice vote a resolution proposing "support of the present program before congress for the full implementation of our national defenses and for maximum aid to Great Britain and its allied democracies in the struggle against totalitarianism."

No dissent was expressed from the floor.

The resolution continued: "We recognize the new departure in our democracy in the grant of such extraordinary power to the chief executive while this country is at peace but believe it to be the most effective step to positive arrest of dictator effort to destroy democracy in the world."

"We believe, in keeping with the democratic process, that certain reasonable limitations on such grant of such power, particularly as to time, should be established but that they should not in any way restrict the full and immediate assistance for which this world crisis calls."

Husband's Problem

"When a wife's 'old flame' rekindles the fires of an early romance, what should the husband do?" This is the striking true-life question in the "I Want a Divorce" play, starring Joan Blondell, to be broadcast from Hollywood on Friday, January 17, over the Mutual network and station KRNR at 8:30 p. m.

An entertaining, fast-moving play, replete with surprise situations, the story deals with the dilemma confronting Henry, when his wife's girlhood "flame" reappears. When he sees that his wife is evidencing a more than casual interest in the "old flame," Henry takes novel means to solve the problem.

Sunday Churches at the

DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHAS. A. EDWARDS To proclaim liberty to the captives is the task of the church. Jesus is forever our great door-opener. Many of us feel we are imprisoned by lack of money, lack of friends, lack of education, lack of physical strength, inferior complexes and other barriers as effective as stone walls. We would be glad to minister in the spiritual home of God and in His kingdom, but we are bound on every hand. With His keen insight into human heartache, Jesus read in His home town from the Prophet Isaiah, opening of the prison to them that are bound. Prison walls vanish for He is the door of old hymns says, prisons would palace prove, if Christ would dwell there, fortresses from which we sally forth to victory. The Bible is full of it. His chains fell off, open door, door of hope. Mountains shall become a plain, thirsty land, springs of water, rough places smooth and crooked places straight and the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose. That is what the prophet meant would happen if the church faithfully performed her task in this wayward and wicked generation. Amen.

Navy Asks Authority to Build 400 Small Vessels WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The navy asked congress today for authority to build 400 small vessels, including sub chasers, mine sweepers and torpedo boats, and asked also for extra facilities to construct them.

Rear Admiral Samuel M. Robinson, chief of the bureau of ships, informed the house naval committee that 280 of the vessels were "urgently needed" and that congress would be asked immediately for $310,460,000 for their construction and armament and $25,000,000 for expansion of building facilities.

The 280 vessels include 36 165 foot sub chasers for use as escort vessels; 30 110-foot wooden sub chasers; 24 motor torpedo boats; 18 165-foot mine sweepers; 32 fleet mine sweepers; 90 motor mine sweepers and 50 coastal mine sweepers.

Earlier in its session, the committee unanimously endorsed the navy's request for a $300,000,000 strengthening of the fleet's anti aircraft power.
