Every state, county and city official or board that handles public money should publish at regular intervals an accounting of it, showing where and how the dollar is spent. This is a fundamental principle of democratic government.

WE have not kicked much, down this way, about the fact that the state highway commission has erected a huge sign at the Willamette pass highway junction near Goshen. Even though placing this sign represents a radical departure in policy so far as highway signs are concerned there has been little protest.

But there is one thing about that billboard at Goshen that should be corrected. The implication of the sign is that there is one city on the pass route, Klamath Falls, and one city on the regular route—Roseburg. The advertising may be worth something to this city to be thus singled out, but the information given the traveler is not complete.

There is a perfectly good and practical reason for making this suggestion which comes originally, by the way, from the Roseburg chamber of commerce. Strangers to the Oregon country might wish to see some of the southern Oregon communities but observing no mention of them on the great sign could easily mistakenly assume they were beyond the southern junction. Anyone who has motored in distant states knows how easy such an error could be made.

Furthermore, and quite apart from highway commission business, the attractions of southern Oregon, Crater lake, the Oregon caves and the Redwood highway should be emblazoned on a large and attractive board at the Goshen junction. Such a sign should be placed and paid for by the communities and business people on the Pacific highway. We must advertise if we are to get our share of the tourist business from now on we have competition and serious competition at that, and the sooner we realize it and do something about it, the better.

Speaking of highways, the unusual bit of work done by the Roseburg Rotary club toward urging a military highway system for the nation is worthy of mention. The Rotarians decided that the lack of military highways, not only on the Pacific coast but throughout the entire nation, should be called to the attention of the members of the 77th congress. They realized that the Oregon delegation is all working for such a program—not much use to further urge our congressmen and senators, they reasoned. So a letter was sent to each and every member of the congress—both in the house and in the senate, urging the adoption of a military highway program and citing the condition on the Pacific slope as an example of need.

Quite likely the letter will be waste-basketed along with countless other material received by congressmen—but some will read it and some good can come of it, and certainly no harm.

in proportion to the number of men engaged when compared with the losses in our own war between the states—the Battle of the Wilderness, for example.

The historians tell us that when the emperor Claudius defeated the Goths at Naissus more than 50,000 Gothic warriors PERISHED—not to mention the wounded. At Cannae, Hannibal's troops took from the fingers of dead Romans many large baskets of gold rings.

AS use of mechanized weapons increases loss of life in battle goes down—IF ARMAMENT ON BOTH SIDES IS EQUAL. If one side is modernly armed and the other is not, the loss of life on the poorly armed side becomes terrific.

The factory's job is to provide the armament. Inefficiency in the factory (including lack of skilled man power) is practically sure to RESULT IN DEFEAT.

THE factory, of course, has always been important. About 250 A. D., the Emperor Claudius wrote to the Roman senate from the frontier he was defending against the barbarians: "We are sadly in want of darts, of spears and of shields."

Darts, spears and shields could be fashioned, even in ancient Rome, with comparative speed. Guns, tanks, planes and ships TAKE TIME.

Entire Troop of Scouts At Camas Is Advanced

Before a large audience at the Camas Valley school, eleven members of the Camas Valley boy scout troop, No. 23, were last night advanced from the tender foot grade to that of second class scout. The boys were: Marcus Brown, Everett and Jack Church, Donald Coon, Donald Lawson, Neal McFall, Guy Moore, Jr., Robert Perry, Leslie Siegel, Oliver Standley and Dick Thrush. This includes every member of the troop. This promotion on a 100 per cent basis is very unusual.

Wallace Cloake Goes to Florida for Air Course

Wallace Cloake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Cloake of Roseburg, left Wednesday for Jacksonville, Florida, where he is to receive advanced training as an aviation cadet in the United States marine corps reserve. A graduate of Roseburg high school and Oregon State college, he completed his primary training at Sand Point, Washington, in August. He had previously secured a solo license as a member of the Umpqua Flying club.

He has been ordered into advanced training and will enter the class now being formed at Jacksonville.

Bonneville Story Told To Roseburg Rotarians

The story of Bonneville, in words and pictures, was told the Roseburg Rotary club at its regular weekly meeting yesterday, W. C. Brazil, district administrator, gave a brief talk concerning the great dam and the power distribution plans of the administration, following which the club adjourned to the picture projection room at the Umpqua hotel and viewed reels of talking pictures showing the project from its beginning down to the completed plant. It was accompanied by T. C. Smith, transmission expert.

Student Paradise

BERKELEY, Calif.—Fifteen hundred University of California students jammed south hall to enroll in Prof. Frederic L. Paxton's new course in American civilization. Four students fainted in the rush. Police were called to help maintain order. Finally, the class was transferred to the two largest lecture rooms on the campus. The rooms are linked by a public address system.
