

Willkie Mingles With Common Folks in London

LONDON, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie had his way today, paying an unescorted call on London's oft-quoted man-in-the-street and man-in-the-pub, drinking and talking with the "boys" and playing darts—the last with a losing score.

The American visitor jammed considerable of London into his tour. He is curtailing his visit, starting for home next week.

He said he would be "delighted" to appear before the United States senate committee hearing on the aid-to-Britain bill when he was told that Senator Nye, isolationist leader, had said Willkie should be heard.

At one place Willkie visited, the public house (saloon) proprietor, Harry Phillips, watched Willkie play darts with a loafing laborer and, in celebration of the occasion, broke out a bottle of 1929 champagne.

The man easily defeated Willkie who commented: "This guy's too good."

Then the champagne was produced. "I was going to keep this for Armistice day," the pub proprietor said. "But you are as good as Armistice day and we'll open the bottle together."

The dart-throwing laborer stood by, almost unable to comprehend his victory.

"Blimey! I'm going all international," he said.

At the first place visited, also a pub, Willkie was readily recognized by a group of soldiers and other customers. The proprietor invited him behind the bar.

Three Said Lost In Ship Grounding

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Thirteen seamen, including the ship's captain, remained today on the wave-battered U. S. army transport Kvjachak on British Columbia coastal rocks while authorities awaited definite clarifying information on whether three or four persons lost their lives in the Monday night grounding.

Meanwhile, the arrival of the U. S. S. gunboat Charleston, flagship of the navy's Alaskan contingent, was awaited here. It had aboard the Kvjachak's 23 passengers and 21 members of the crew who reached the rocky shore safely in lifeboats in the face of stormy seas at the time of the wreck.

The coast guard, whose cutter Nemaha was standing by the Kvjachak, reported here that shallow water kept the cutter from getting in close to the grounded transport, on which Capt. W. W. Williamson and a dozen of his men remained voluntarily.

Waves flooded over the deck at high tide, but the cutter reported the ship's condition appeared to be remaining sound and it was "not breaking up." Two salvage tugs and a barge were expected at the scene this afternoon.

Planned Army Maneuvers Will Call 350,000 Men

HATTIESBURG, Miss., Jan. 29.—(AP)—The army is planning war games in the south this summer for 350,000 soldiers as part of the nation's expanding defense program.

Major General R. S. Beightler, Sr., commanding the thirty-seventh division of Ohio national guard troops in training at nearby Camp Shelby, described the peacetime maneuvers as the largest in the nation's history.

The troops, now in training or en route to the chain of army camps in southern and southwestern states, will go into action in June or July in an area yet to be chosen.

General Beightler indicated, however, the area might be the DeSoto national forest, which spreads southward over millions of acres between here and the Mississippi coast on the Gulf of Mexico.

Lloyd Lillie Named Scout Head for Wallamet Area

EUGENE, Ore., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Lloyd Lillie, formerly assistant executive in the Portland area council of boy scouts, today was named chief executive in the Wallamet area, comprising six west Oregon counties.

Lillie, 32, a graduate of Oregon State college and a veteran scout and scout worker, will assume his duties February 1. He succeeds H. B. Sallee, who recently resigned the position.

Camas Valley

CAMAS VALLEY, Jan. 28.—Piling work and several small mills are starting up in several sections of the valley. Frank Brown is getting out piling on his place this week. Neal Brown is yarding out piling with his tractor near the C. W. Peery place.

Escol Johnson has a crew of men cutting piling on timbered areas about the valley. Several workmen have moved into the cabins at the Richter camp ground.

Diek Martindale has rented his house to a group of piling cutters. The Owen's lumber mills at Twelve Mile creek expect to start operations soon.

There is a rumor that a small lumber mill is going in near Bradford station and those operating the mill will want to rent houses. At present there is hardly a livable house left vacant in the valley.

Knute Holt returned to the valley Saturday and went to work for Harmon and Wakefield Monday getting everything ready to start the mill running soon. He and his family have been in Minnesota since last summer. Mrs.

Back-Sliding Charged to 2-Thirds of Church Folks

PORTLAND, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Two thirds of church memberships have back-slid, Rev. Charles W. Sheerin of New York asserted to Oregon Episcopal clergymen at their annual meeting here today.

The vice-president of the National Episcopalian council declared the "church can't create any public opinion in behalf of Christianity when faced with the fact that only one-third of its membership is active."
