Canning Industry Hurd's Subject At Lions Club Meet

J. P. Motschenbacher presided over the Lions club 6:30 dinner meeting last night at the Umpqua hotel in the absence of the president, Frank Long, and vice-president, Thomas Hartfield.

Fred A. Hurd, of this city, and Henry Harth, of Los Angeles, were guests of the evening, with Mr. Hurd as the principal speaker. Mr. Hurd gave a brief resume of the canning industry in Oregon, which started in 1903 at Newberg, and is now the third largest industry in the state, with the canning center being at Salem. He also talked about his specialty industry here of canning turkey and stated that while this is a comparatively new industry, it had worked out successfully from a commercial standpoint.

H. D. Palmer was appointed to represent the club at the meeting of workers on the infantile paralysis drive for funds. Plans were made for the February 12 meeting, at which time Attorney H. A. Canaday will be guest speaker on "Lincoln's Birthday." The February 19 meeting will be ladies' night, and Judge R. W. Marsters will be guest speaker.

U. S. Troops Show Their Stamina in Near-Blizzard

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Jan. 30. (AP)—Fourth infantry officers had proof today, after an impressive demonstration in a near-blizzard, that United States army troops stationed here could hold to a field schedule under adverse conditions.

A unit of 120 men from company B braved the severest storm here in many years yesterday on a maneuver five miles into the wilderness. A heavy snowfall rode a 40-mile wind. The test, under Capt. R. G. Emery, was the toughest the troops have experienced since they came north several months ago. The infantrymen set up a tent village in the snow fields for their noon meal. They were equipped with snowshoes, parkas and other northern equipment.

Utilizing tractors, the field artillery took their big guns through wilderness snowdrifts to establish them in shooting positions. Army officers reported all the work proceeded on schedule.

Douglas Pension Forum to Discuss Legislative Bills

A meeting of the Douglas County Pension forum is announced for 1:30 p. m. Saturday, Feb. 1 at the courthouse in Roseburg by Henry Anderson, president. The meeting is to be made particularly interesting through consideration of reports on pension activities at the state legislature. Mr. Anderson states. Copies of all measures dealing with pensions have been furnished through the courtesy of the county's legislative delegation and copies of proposed bills, not yet introduced, also are in the hands of officers and members of the forum. Information on national legislation also will be given. Mr. Anderson is urging all members to attend and is inviting all other pension-minded persons to be present.

Returns to Salem—Mrs. Samuel
Rose and small daughter, Eleanor, have left for their home in Salem, following a visit here with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Brown, in Laurewood. Mrs. Rose was formerly Miss Allena Brown of this city.
