Every state, county and city official or board that handles public money should publish...

THE large plane manufacturers have been sending "scouts" out into the country areas to talk to young men...

It seems like an unusually good idea to search out the likely young men in the smaller towns to work at these skilled jobs in defense factories...

There has been some discussion in newspapers of late as to the privations suffered by the people of this country as a result of the conflict in Europe.

Added up, the troubles we are caused apparently are pretty much on the gastronomic side. What, for example, are we going to do for caviar...

Attention is also called to the fact that there will shortly be a dearth of shuttlecocks for the game of badminton!

In a more serious vein, however, we should realize and be very thankful for the fact that we have plenty of food and plenty of all of the other necessities of life here in the United States of America...

We have mighty little to complain about. We have life so easy, so comfortable and so secure that some of the members of our society go around making themselves and others miserable by finding fault with things as they are...

For the time being, at least, we could very well accept what we have as reasonably good enough and devote our entire effort and attention to preserving what we have and preventing our land from getting into the same fix as so many others.

WHEN British archers learned how to shoot through plate armor, the knights began to buy suits of chain mail. Always new methods of attack have brought new methods of defense.

It is expected to take between two and three years, which won't meet any emergencies this spring. We are looking forward.

HARMONICA BANDS RECEIVE AWARDS

The harmonica bands in the vicinity schools, a division of the Silver Star Harmonica school, 424 Perkins building in Roseburg, have just earned their "Green Star Awards," which show that they have graduated from students, as beginners, to students who can now play songs. They have worked hard for these awards which have been given to about 130 children who had never played the harmonica before. Those schools included in the awards are Brockway, Edenbowler, Riverside, Oakland, Dillard and Tenmile, with Glide, Sutherland and Yoncalla ready for the awards next week.

The students of the Roseburg studio have not received theirs because they started so much later than the outside schools. Also, the private students are lagging for the same reason. Mr. Woodward, the harmonica school director, invites anyone to come up and see the new studios who might care to, and a special invitation has been given to any adult interested.

SERIAL STORY

CONSCRIPT'S WIFE BY BETTY WALLACE

YESTERDAY: Kindly strangers help Martha and Paul after the crash. Paul is unconscious. Martha is not seriously injured. At the hospital, doctors report Paul has concussion, fractured collar bone. When Martha goes home, Eugene censures her for parking on the side road. Next day she learns Bill has called, is coming to spend the week-end. She is terrified by the thought that Suzanne may have seen Bill, that he is following Paul here.

Martha Marshall dressed very carefully for Bill's eyes, that Saturday morning after the accident. She croaked and powdered her face, trying to obliterate the long red scratch on her cheek. All the while, her fingers trembled with anxiety.

Was it only because he wanted to see her that Bill had managed to get this unexpected pass? Or was it because Eugene told him that Paul had come?

Eugene said Bill had been surprised. A chill little shiver crawled down her spine. Surprise was probably mild as a description of what Bill felt.

Then she brought herself up sharply. Surely Bill wasn't going through the suspicions and the doubts and the fears that she'd lived through herself! It would never occur to Bill to imagine anything
