Role of Farms In Defense Plans To Be Discussed Here

Agricultural leaders of the county will meet Thursday, February 6, to consider how the agricultural industry of the county may aid in national preparedness. Similar meetings are being held in all counties of the state to give consideration to the same question. The conference is being held under the general subject "The Agricultural Outlook and Its Relation to National Preparedness." The committees on land use, livestock, crops, and home and rural life, which participated in the 1938 agricultural outlook conference will again take an active part in the conference.

Committees have been enlarged to insure that all phases of the agricultural industries in the county will be represented. D. N. Busenbark, general chairman, urges the members of each committee to be present and participate in the program. The conference will be held in the L. O. O. F. hall in Roseburg, beginning at 10 a. m. February 6.

Trade Questions Listed.

With new demands being made on agricultural industries to meet the preparedness program, the conference will give special attention to three main questions: 1. To study past recommendations in the light of changing world conditions; 2. To recommend such further adjustments in the county's agricultural industry and in conditions affecting farm home and rural life as seem desirable; 3. To consider the contribution which rural people can make toward national preparedness.

The committees will review the recommendations made at the 1938 agricultural outlook conference and make such recommendations and additional suggestions as are felt in line and necessary with the rapidly changing conditions resulting from present needs, and recommend a method for meeting readjustments which are certain to follow at the conclusion of the present war and the discontinuance of the armament program.

Following the general meeting in the sixth each committee will prepare its report, which will be presented for final adoption at a similar meeting to be held on February 19 in the L. O. O. F. hall in Roseburg.

News of 4-H CLUBS

The 4-H local leaders are holding their monthly meeting this evening at the junior high school. The meeting will begin at 7:45. Leaders are to discuss plans for the Marketing day program, which will be held early in April; and also for the 4-H spring fairs, which are to be held early in May. Mrs. P. O. Ackley, president, will lead a discussion on demonstrations.

The news writing scrapbooks sent in by Betty Lou Weseman of Glendale and Josephine Wright of Days Creek were entered in the state news writing contest, and have been returned to County Club Agent E. A. Britton by the judges. However, the scores have not yet been sent out, so it is not yet possible to announce the state winner. These books will be available in the office of the county club agent during the next two weeks to those wishing to see them.

The leaders' meetings held for the leaders of the south and north ends of the county Wednesday and Thursday evenings of last week were well attended and interesting. H. C. Seymour, state club leader, was present at each meeting and contributed much to the help and enjoyment of club leaders in their projects.

The Kiwanis club is preparing a program ready to be taken to granges under the leadership of L. W. Josse, chairman of the agricultural committee. Dates already set are as follows: February 23, Riversdale grange; March 4, Glide grange; March 11, Azalea grange; March 18, Boys Creek community club; March 25, Melrose grange; April 8, Lookingglass grange; April 15, Umpqua community club; and April 29, Kellogg grange. There are four dates remaining yet to be filled in. These programs are given in the interest of 4-H club scholarships to summer school.

The "Coca Cola" program will begin its regular schedule Thursday evening, February 20, and run through Thursday, April 24. Dates already given are to Glendale 4-H clubs Thursday, February 27, and to the Oakland 4-H club Thursday, March 20. The program will be taken to P. T. A.'s, community clubs, and schools, and will consist of forty-five minutes of sound motion pictures and accordion solos by Alton Cordon, who will also do a magic number. Ruth Ann Ruff will give a tap dance, and tenor solos will be offered by Millard Magness. La Britton will accompany at the piano. The time required for this program will be about an hour and twenty minutes. It is expected that groups having this "Coca Cola" program will have some number of their own to add to the program. Dates may be had for this program by addressing the county club agent, E. A. Britton.

Roy Bellows, Allen Cordon and County Club Agent E. A. Britton are going to Smith river for a program Friday evening, February 14. A converter has been secured so that sound motion pictures can be shown. Roy Bellows will do some magic and Allen Cordon will play accordion numbers.

Wednesday, there will be a turkey breeders' school in the L. O. O. F. hall in Roseburg for 4-H club members, as well as adults. According to county Club Agent, Britton, all 4-H club members who are interested in the turkey project should attend this school if at all possible.

During the week enrollments were received for two livestock clubs. One is a sheep club at Lookingglass, led by Ben Jacoby, and includes the following members: Alvin Heard, president; Lee Redding, vice-president; Dean Ekes, secretary; Kenneth Andrus, Joe Green, Ivan Matthews, Ovid Rogers and Felix Zoeter.

The other is a dairy club led by J. F. Bonebrake of Melrose and Ray Doerner of Cleveland. Members of this club are: Grant Bonebrake, president; Dick Bonebrake, vice-president; Dick Stark, secretary; Bob Hatcher, Robert Topping, John Hart, Harry Hatcher and Melvin Hoffman.

Another enrollment received was that of a woodworking club of Elgarose under the leadership of Mrs. Dora Ritzman. Members of this club are: Paul Backlund, president; Arthur Backlund, vice-president; Leonard John, secretary; Freeman Williams and Ray John.

A woodworking club consisting of a group of Wilbur boys has been organized under the leadership of Rev. L. G. Weaver of Sutherland. The boys are: James LaRaut, president; Domingo Sabala, vice-president; Eugene Holcomb, secretary; Elmer Russell, Vincent Holcomb, Robert Irving, Benjamin Irving and Melvin Holcomb.

An Art club has been enrolled at the Cold Spring school with Mrs. Betty Voley as leader.

A health club enrollment has been sent in from South Deer Creek school. This club has Mrs. Rose Kelly, teacher of the school, as leader.

The Happy Cookers and their local leader, Miss Josephine Wright, held a meeting at the school on Thursday. They decided to adopt the constitution and by-laws which are in the secretary's book. Alice Mae Welch and Hazel Welch will give a demonstration on salads at the next meeting. Lavina Perdue will give a report on soups.

A county local leaders' meeting was held at Canyonville Wednesday, E. A. Britton, county club agent, gave a report on "How to Conduct a Demonstration." H. C. Seymour, state club leader, was present and discussed problems with the local leaders. Marketing day was discussed, and it will probably be held the first or second Saturday in April. At the next south end meeting each school is to have a demonstration. Leaders present from Days Creek were Mrs. C. L. Miller, Miss Marie Cook, Mrs. Fritz Snyder and Chas. Mackenzie.

The meetings of the Days Creek Foresters have been postponed until the return of Representative C. C. Hill. Since he is on the forestry committee, he will probably present us with some new ideas upon his return.

White Clover and Orchard Grass Seed Crops Advised

White clover and orchard grass seed offer good promise as Oregon seed crops in the next year or two, says E. R. Jackman, crops specialist of the O. S. C. extension service. White clover is normally imported to the extent of a million pounds or more a year, and orchard grass has also been largely imported. Imports of both have both been completely shut off by the war.

These seed crops do well in

High Bush Cranberry Bark Sought by Medicine Firm

A large eastern medicine company is seeking bark of the Viburnum opulus L. var. Americanum, commercially known as the high bush cranberry, reports the state department of agriculture, Salem. The department has been unable to locate any area where this particular bush grows, but if Oregon residents know of any section, the eastern concern would like to contact them and indicates that collection of this material should be a profitable little sideline.

Home Conference Planned at O. S. C.

Oregon's eleventh annual conference for the study of home economics, sponsored by the home economics division of the extension service, will be held this year February 25 to 28, inclusive, Mrs. Azalea Sager, in charge of home economics extension, has announced.

This annual conference, which always draws a capacity attendance of more than 800 persons from all parts of the state, will be conducted again on much the same plan as used in the last few years. The program will open Tuesday evening, February 25, with a reception and banquet in the Memorial Union building, where Governor Charles A. Sprague is to give the principal address.

The three days that follow will be devoted to both general assemblies and group meetings designed to provide inspiration and education for the delegates attending, either as individuals or as representatives of community home economics clubs. The conference this year will be held during the period of the first annual Oregon State school for missionaries, which will add to a notable list of visiting speakers already on the program.

Interest Growing In Reforestation

An increasing interest in reforestation on private land in western Oregon is reported by Dr. George W. Peavy, president-emeritus of Oregon State college and a member of the state board of forestry, who has just taken part in a series of meetings on this subject.

At these meetings, held at Minerville, Dallas, Albany, Eugene, Roseburg, Coquille and Newport, hearings were held on the classification of approximately 40,000 acres of logged-off lands as reforestation lands. Under the state law owners of cut-over forest lands may have their holdings classified as reforestation lands, explained Dr. Peavy.

During the period of such classification, taxes of only 5 cents an acre per year are collected. When the new crop of timber is removed, owners pay to the counties 12 1/2 per cent of the value of the logs removed as a yield tax.

County officials are generally in favor of this classification program, said Dr. Peavy, and are cooperating with state forestry officials in making the law effective.

Turkey School To Be Held Feb. 5th

Turkey growers of the county will hold their annual turkey school in the L. O. O. F. hall in Roseburg Wednesday, February 5, beginning at 10 a. m. In addition to discussions of production problems, two moving pictures will be shown, one on the brooding and rearing of turkeys, and the other on the management of breeders.

Dr. E. M. Dickinson, poultry pathologist of Oregon State college, will discuss turkey diseases, their prevention and control. N. L. Bonheim, extension poultryman of Oregon State college, will explain the Oregon turkey improvement program and answer questions on feeding and care of breeders.

The turkey school is held for the purpose of keeping turkey growers in touch with the latest developments in the turkey industry, such as the prevention and control of disease, feeds and feeding, and the trends in the production and marketing.
