

Roseburg News-Review

Member of The Associated Press
The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for publication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper and to all local news published herein. All rights of reproduction of special dispatches herein are also reserved.

HARRIS ELLSWORTH, Editor

Entered as second class matter
May 17, 1920, at the post office at Roseburg, Oregon, under act of March 3, 1879.
New York—271 Madison Ave.—Chicago—360 N. Michigan Ave.—San Francisco—220 Bush Street—Detroit—3081 W. Grand Boulevard—
Los Angeles—125 S. Spring Street—Seattle—303 Stewart Street—Portland—520 S. W. Sixth Ave.—St.
Louis—411 N. Tenth Street.

Represented by

WEST-HOLIDAY

OREGON NEWS-REVIEW
PUBLISHERS ASSOCIATION

Subscription Rates

Daily, per year by mail, $5.00
Daily, 6 months by mail, $2.50
Daily, 3 months by mail, $1.25
Daily, by carrier per month, .75
Daily, by carrier per year, $7.50

Every state, county and city official or board that handles public money should publish at regular intervals an accounting of it, showing where and how each dollar is spent. This is a fundamental principle of democratic government.

News of 4-H CLUBS

County Club Agent Britton will show the Douglas county motion pictures at the South Deer Creek grange hall Wednesday evening of this week at eight o'clock. The program is being given by the school and the 4-H club members of the South Deer Creek community. No admission charge.

The "Coca Cola" program will be given in the Oakland school auditorium on Thursday evening of this week. Members of the Oakland school and 4-H clubs will have half of the program ready and present it along with that of the "Coca Cola" program. Proceeds will be used for the 4-H club scholarship fund.

The monthly livestock meeting for 4-H club members and parents and friends is to be held next Monday evening, March 24, in the court house in Roseburg. O. M.
Nelson, of the animal husbandry department, Oregon State college, will be present to discuss sheep and sheep problems with those interested. Following the discussion, motion pictures dealing with sheep and turkeys will be shown. The meeting will be of special interest to those carrying sheep and turkey projects.

Four new clubs were enrolled during the last week. Two of these are marketing clubs, one at Camas Valley, with 11 members, led by Norman R. Sting, teacher of the school, and the other five members at the Nonpareil school, led by Miss Gladys Williams.

Mrs. M. F. Miller, of the Edenbrower school, turned in an enrollment for a health club of nine members.

Thirteen pupils of the Tennile school have formed a camp cookery club with Miss Florence E.
Allis, teacher, listed as leader.
This group has carried other projects through the winter months and will carry the camp cookery as a spring project.

Brookway 4-H Club News

(By Patricia Calkins)

The "Healthy, Happy, Husky Herd" met March 11. Our reports for class discussion were on the "values of a good breakfast." Each member had a suggested menu, on a good breakfast. Our next meeting will be devoted to our books and weighing the members.

Edenbrower 4-H News

(By Patricia Calkins)

On Friday the regular meeting of the homemaking club was held at the residence of the local leader. A birthday gift was presented to Marcelene Moore. The four members present joined in the song "The More We Get Together" and one yell, followed by the club pledge, led by Mrs. Hess.
Marcelene Moore and Patricia Calkins were appointed to serve as a refreshment committee for the next meeting. Most of the girls reported working on their dresser scarfs. After the adjournment, the leader served cinnamon rolls to the girls.

Correction: Last week it was published that Marcelene Moore and Patricia Calkins gave a demonstration at the sewing club meeting. This was a mistake. The latter and Thelma Graham put on the demonstration.

The Bachelor Sewing club also held a meeting on Friday. When the roll was called, each member named a flower. Duane Pope and Earl Baquet were appointed as a committee to have entertainment for the next meeting. The vice-president warned the members that if at the next meeting they did not have their work completed and with them, they would be obliged to return home after it.
After adjournment, Arthur and Dean Bartlett cut out their camp aprons. Entertainment was furnished by a game of softball after the meeting.

Mrs. Cecil Harris' home was the scene of a business meeting of the Cricket Sewing club Friday. The members were instructed to have their pin cushions completed and work started on their sampler by the next meeting.
The group participated in several songs and yells. Zolamie Raynor and Margie Harris were to be the next refreshment committee. Atter the meeting, games and refreshments consisted of punch served by the leader and angel food cake furnished by Colleen Moore.

Work has been carried on every day during the past week in the woodworking and arts craft clubs. Both groups are now ready to begin work on waste baskets which is the next project.

Several of the children from these different clubs helped out when the "Coca Cola Entertainers" were featured at the Edenbrower Community club. The program of the entertainers was greatly enjoyed by everyone.
Cake, pie, coffee and hot dogs were sold after the program.

Glendale 4-H News

(By Joan Carpenter)

Thread was basted by the mem-

OUT OUR WAY

Poppy Day Plans Being Arranged By Legion Auxiliary

Making of memorial poppies is going forward rapidly in government hospitals and special workrooms in many parts of the country. Mrs. C. E. Rosebush, poppy chairman of Umpqua unit of the American Legion auxiliary, reported today. The poppies will be distributed by the auxiliary on Poppy day, May 24, to be worn in honor of the world war dead, and to raise funds for the welfare of disabled veterans and needy families of veterans.

Poppies which the local unit will distribute here are being made at the Veterans' facility, under the direction of the welfare department of the auxiliary. The unit is completing plans for a large force of volunteer workers of the Cookery III Wednesday afternoon, but no regular meeting was held because of practice of the one-act plays. 4-H projects were passed out to the members of the club.

Members of Cookery II enjoyed hot cocoa and deviled eggs on Wednesday afternoon which was prepared by the members.

Betty McPherran, the leader of Cookery I, made fudge for the members' Wednesday afternoon while some of the members themselves made applesauce.

Posters were handed out in both the sewing III and IV on Wednesday during the regular meetings. Slips were being made in Sewing III and Mrs. Place showed the girls how to make tailored trunks in sewing IV.

In the 5th grade 4-H the pupils have been studying how to tie different kinds of handkerchiefs and studying two-man carriages in case of accidents on camping trips.

Days Creek 4-H News

(By Margie Wright)

The Woodworkers Forestry club and their local leader, Chas. Mackenzie, held a meeting at the school Thursday. Norval Ferguson will give his report at the next meeting on Thursday of this week.

The 4-H Clover club, which consists of the 8th grade marketing club and its local leader, Marjorie Church, held a meeting at the local school recently. The meeting was opened by the club singing several songs led by song leader, Berdian Perrine. After regular business session, the club discussed and studied lesson eight "Marketing Agencies and Their Functions."

The 4-H Clover club and their leader held two meetings at the school last week. The first one, on Tuesday, held a discussion of lesson nine, "Methods of Business Organization--the Cooperative." At the second meeting, on Thursday, lesson ten was studied and discussed. The club plans to have the essays completed in the near future and look forward to the marketing day to be held in Roseburg Saturday, April 12.

County Club Agent Britton, his son Jim, and a couple of other Roseburg boys were out to Days Creek and Canyonville on Saturday conferring with forestry club members.

Fullerton 4-H News

The sewing club met at Fullerton school Tuesday and planned and prepared to embroider a picture for our rooms. After we had finished our pillows, we started at the beginning of the club. Mrs. Bellows, our leader, served dainty refreshments at the close of the meeting.

ers to offer the little red flowers of memory on the streets here on May 24. Because of the poppy's patriotic significance, the auxiliary is expecting more to be worn this year than ever before.

Many hundreds of disabled veterans are being given employment by the auxiliary in the poppy making program. The flowers are being made in 81 government hospitals and 41 workshops maintained by the auxiliary for the disabled men not confined to hospitals. More than 12,000,000 are expected to be completed before the work ends in May.

Earnings from poppy making are helping keep many veterans' families supplied with food, clothing and shelter during the father's illness. Mrs. Rosebush explained. The work is given only to those receiving little or no government compensation, with preference going to those having families to support. In addition to the earning, the poppy work is valuable as occupational therapy and helps speed recovery. Money contributed for the poppies goes entirely into the welfare funds of the American Legion and auxiliary where it works throughout the year for the benefit of needy veterans and their dependents.

On Wednesday evening Mellis, vocational coordinator for the Roseburg schools, attended a meeting of coordinators held in Portland at which time plans were completed for the annual junior safety congress sponsored by the state industrial accident commission, the state apprenticeship commission, the state department for vocational education, and the Future Craftsmen of Oregon. The usual contests in safety firsts, first aid, parliamentary procedure, and public speaking will be carried on, as well as several interesting tours of industrial plants in the Portland area.

The junior safety congress is scheduled for April 3, 4, 5 with headquarters at the Imperial hotel. The annual banquet attended by Governor Sprague, members of the state industrial accident commission, the state apprenticeship commission, and the state board of vocational education and the Future Craftsmen will be held Friday evening, April 4.

Delphin Club to Meet—The Delphin club will meet Wednesday at two o'clock at the home of Mrs. Raymond Parslow on East Lane street with Mrs. J. C. McCallister, program leader, on the subject, "Rudyard Kipling."

PARADISE APPLE

Answer to Previous Puzzle

HORIZONTAL
1 Common fruit.
7 It is a — of the tropics.
12 God of war.
13 Spurred with a rowl.
16 Mitten.
17 Conjunction.
19 Skirmish.
20 Health spring.
21 Foundation.
23 Biblical priest.
24 Ledge.
25 Disorganized retreat.
26 Sheep's coat.
28 Natural power.
31 Meantime.
34 Dutch (abbr.).
35 Married.
37 Cravat.
38 Ancient.
39 Hawaiian food.
40 Long poem.
42 Inclined.
44 Office.
45 Ranted.
47 Pattern block.

48 Resinous.
51 Timid.
53 Right.
54 Fish.
56 Form of "a".
57 It is — d or grown in many climates.
60 The shank.
61 Condition.
VERTICAL
1 Palm lily.
2 Spoken.
3 Gold house.
4 Transposed (abbr.).
5 Uncle.
6 Its ripe fruit is either red or —.
7 Born.
8 Advertise-ment (abbr.).
9 To investigate.
10 Glass bottle.
11 And.
14 Tiny.
15 Rumanian coins.
18 Destiny.
20 Root.
21 It has a yellow 59 Preposition.

Roseburg Men Attend Future Craftsmen Meet

Bruce A. Mellis and Jim Hess represented the Roseburg Future Craftsmen at the annual employer-apprentice banquet given by the Grants Pass employers for the Grants Pass Future Craftsmen, at the Cave shop in Grants Pass last Friday evening. Following the banquet an interesting program was given.

On Wednesday evening Mellis, vocational coordinator for the Roseburg schools, attended a meeting of coordinators held in Portland at which time plans were completed for the annual junior safety congress sponsored by the state industrial accident commission, the state apprenticeship commission, the state department for vocational education, and the Future Craftsmen of Oregon. The usual contests in safety firsts, first aid, parliamentary procedure, and public speaking will be carried on, as well as several interesting tours of industrial plants in the Portland area.

The junior safety congress is scheduled for April 3, 4, 5 with headquarters at the Imperial hotel. The annual banquet attended by Governor Sprague, members of the state industrial accident commission, the state apprenticeship commission, and the state board of vocational education and the Future Craftsmen will be held Friday evening, April 4.

Delphin club will meet Wednesday at two o'clock at the home of Mrs. Raymond Parslow on East Lane street with Mrs. J. C. McCallister, program leader, on the subject, "Rudyard Kipling."

Delphin club will meet Wednesday at two o'clock at the home of Mrs. Raymond Parslow on East Lane street with Mrs. J. C. McCallister, program leader, on the subject, "Rudyard Kipling."

PARADISE APPLE

Answer to Previous Puzzle

HORIZONTAL
1 Common fruit.
7 It is a — of the tropics.
12 God of war.
13 Spurred with a rowl.
16 Mitten.
17 Conjunction.
19 Skirmish.
20 Health spring.
21 Foundation.
23 Biblical priest.
24 Ledge.
25 Disorganized retreat.
26 Sheep's coat.
28 Natural power.
31 Meantime.
34 Dutch (abbr.).
35 Married.
37 Cravat.
38 Ancient.
39 Hawaiian food.
40 Long poem.
42 Inclined.
44 Office.
45 Ranted.
47 Pattern block.

SERIAL STORY

DUDE COLLEGE

BY OREN ARNOLD

COPYRIGHT, 1940.
NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: Returning home after the fire, Wes stops at the stables, learns Lona has gone for an early ride. She was carrying a bulky package, the horse wrangler tells him. Wes borrows a rifle and an automatic, sets out to trail Lona. He sees the border patrol's autogiro, and in a few minutes, Lona rides down the trail toward him.

WESLEY SPRINGS A TRAP CHAPTER XXVI

The sudden turn of events found Wesley unprepared. He wasn't at all sure what to make of the autogiro's presence. He guessed, though, that it had settled down first near Lona Montoya herself—it could land on and take off from a flat space not much bigger than a back yard—and then had dropped down to where the fliers had identified him.

He knew the ship was a new unit in the equipment of the United States border patrol. Now he saw Lona riding back up the trail toward him and he could only surmise that the plane had caused her to turn back.

She was still several hundred yards away, so he rode slowly on toward the pretty Mexican girl. She recognized him in a moment and spurred her horse.

"Weslee!" she cried out happily when she neared him. "You are out riding, too!" Her smile was bright.

"Yes! I— I thought I might do a little shooting. Jackrabbit or coyote maybe. Haven't seen anything, though. I like to ride in early morning." He hoped his explanation didn't sound as lame to her as it did to him.

"I come out often to paint and sketch. But today I just ride. You saw the autogiro?"

"Yes."

"They stop near me to ask if I have seen any aliens—imagine, Weslee! If I see any extranjero I would faint!"

He smiled with her. But he had appraised her equipment, too. She had a gun, and small saddle packs and canteen and rope. But there was definitely no large package such as the horse wrangler said she carried. He wondered if she had already been to the Rainbow canyon cache and left her parcel. But, no, she couldn't possibly have had time. "I would shoot some with you, no?"

She said it so sweetly, so engagingly, that no man could have declined. Reins, dismounted and dropped reins. Morning sun was a spotlight now that shone on a white rock they struck in cacti. Together they fired first pistols, walking to inspect the results of each shot. It was fun, really, fun for any man thus to do target practice in the zesty autumn morning with a beautiful girl.

Very conscious of her presence (as any man as shy as Wesley York would be), he studied her face when she was shooting, studied it closely and in minute detail. It occurred to him that she didn't appear as Latin as most Mexican señoritas.

A Mexican is, theoretically, half Spanish and half Indian; many are just touched with the Indian blood. In every case, however, they have a definite skin hue and a racial something about their eyes.

It seemed to Wesley, now, that Lona lacked these subtle but significant things. Trained to observe details and weigh them in his work as an archaeologist, he began to wonder why Lona was tame.

When they had exhausted most of their shells Lona suggested they sit a while and talk. She found a niche big enough for two in a granite boulder and invited him to join her. Of necessity, he sat close.

"Your home you said is near Vera Cruz, Lona?" He asked then.

"Yes. An old, old rancho, Weslee. You would love it!"

"Surely. A ranch in old Mexico! It's romantic to think about."

She laughed, low and musical. "I like romantic-minded men, Weslee."

"Mexico is a beautiful country, no es verdad?" He lapsed into Spanish.

"Si señor! Usted habla Español!"

"Some," he smiled. "Let's speak it together; I need the practice."

They talked at length. Lona, oddly enough, lost a bit of her vivacious manner and she appeared to concentrate on her words now. Wesley's first Spanish was the purest of Castilian, but presently he shifted to the several Mexican dialects that he knew. Mexican folks do speak differently in different states, just as English is spoken differently in London, New York, Atlanta and Albuquerque; the idiom of one place may be hardly recognizable in another.

But Wesley York was a scholar. Reared in the southwest, he had specialized in Spanish, and because his archaeological studies had taken him often to the ancient ruins in Yucatan, Campeche, Chiapas and other Mexican states, he had become intimate with the dialects in almost every section. In truth, few Americans knew Mexico better than young Wesley York.

Several times he looked at Lona as if in surprise, but in a moment she shifted back to English.

"No, no," she smiled again. "Is better to speak English and learn to use it perfectly. It is more difficult than Spanish, and I want to know. Otherwise—you professors shall make it hard for me in college, eh?"

"If you promise to speak Spanish when I visit your home, Lona, would you some day go with me to the ruin of Chichen Itza, in beautiful old Sinaloa? Just sight-seeing?"

"I would love it! I have been there many times, Weslee, but—"

"You have? Bugno! Hagame usted el favor de—"

"Yes! But to go with you—oh, Weslee—"

She said that last with such fervor as to startle him. Obviously she wanted very much to avoid further Spanish conversation; and besides, she had made a statement that—

His thoughts were interrupted here because Lona had actually snuggled closer to him! And in all his life few if any women had ever snuggled close to Wesley York.

Already sitting very close to him, she had made a slight movement to get even closer. Her soft shoulder wiggled his, and she laughed just a little—deep and intimately, with a knowing look. All at once he was conscious of her as a most attractive girl.

He glanced at her costume. She had worn a riding outfit consisting of turquoise-green jodhpurs and a crimson shirt. Boots were short, cowboy style, and strong. She had a belt of hand-tooled hide strings, and a pistol holster belt over her hips. She was definitely pretty.

"Weslee, we could be friends, no?"

"Of course, Lona. I—uh, wish every one to be—uh—"

He realized he wasn't going very smoothly, but he was ill at ease. He had come out snooping, not courting, and the mystery surrounding her had been enhanced. She had flatly tripped herself in discussing the famous ruin of Chichen Itza, which is not in the state of Sinaloa at all; and she, a self-avowed Mexican, had shied off her own language after musing common dialects and idiomatic phrases.

But all at once she broke up his thoughts again; indeed, she paralyzed them.

Before he realized it Lona had slipped her arm around his shoulder, had lifted her face and was kissing him gingerly on his lips.

"Weslee!" she murmured.

Dr. Wesley York, Ph.D., was utterly appalled.

(To be continued)

KRNR

Mutual Broadcasting System
1500 Kilocycles

REMAINING HOURS TODAY

4:15—Ma Perkins, Oxydol, MBS.

4:30—Sands of Time, MBS.

5:00—American Legion Auxiliary Program.

5:30—Varieties.

5:45—Cap't. Midnight, Ovaltine, MBS.

6:00—Interlude.

6:05—News, Calif. Pacific Utilities.

6:10—Dinner Music.

6:15—Fulton Lewis, Jr., MBS.

6:30—John B. Hughes, MBS.

6:45—Melodies Modern.

7:00—Raymond Gram Swing, MBS.

7:15—Dance Time.

7:30—Wytche Williams, Star Blades, MBS.

7:45—Talk by Jack Starr Hunt from Mexico City, MBS.

8:00—Morton Gould's Orch., MBS.

8:30—Laugh N' Swing Club, MBS.

9:00—Alka Seltzer News, Glen Hardy, MBS.

9:15—Freddie Martin's Orch., MBS.

9:30—BBC News, MBS.

9:35—Ray Heaton's Orch., MBS.

10:00—Haven of Rest, MBS.

10:30—Sign Off.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 19

6:45—Eye Opener.

7:00—News, Los Angeles Soap Co., MBS.

7:15—Stuff and Nonsense.

7:40—State and Local News.

7:45—J. M. Judd Says "Good Morning."

7:50—Rhapsody in Wax.

8:00—Haven of Rest, MBS.

8:30—News, MBS.

8:45—BBC News, MBS.

9:00—Interlude.

9:05—The Plainsmen, MBS.

9:15—Man About Town.

9:30—Wayne West, Songs, MBS.

9:45—Keep Fit to Music, MBS.

10:00—Lady of Millions, Copco.

10:15—Muse and Music, MBS.

10:30—Helen Holden, Govt. Girl.

10:45—Bachelor's Children, Old Dutch Cleanser, MBS.

11:00—Friendly Neighbors, Alka Seltzer, MBS.

11:15—Wheel of Fortune.

12:00—Luncheon Music.

12:15—Sport News, Truck Sales and Service Co., Owned by L. R. Chambers, and the Dunham Transfer Co.

12:25—Rhythm at Random.

12:35—Parkinson's Information Exchange.

12:40—Five Minute Melody Time, Golden West Coffee.

12:45—News, Hansen Motor Co.

12:50—News-Review of the Air.