

Several Three-Day Holidays in 1941 to Gladden Motorists

New Traffic Mark Looms At Year End

"Summer-Proof" Plan of Mobilgas Dealers Puts Cars in Safe Condition

Motorists who have been studying the calendar have happily discovered that there are many three-day holiday trips in sight for 1941. Already plans are being laid for these eventful times. Cars are being prepared for long journeys during these extra vacation periods, because it costs less to prepare than repair.

First, comes Decoration day, which falls on Friday, May 30, giving many folks the opportunity to get away for Friday, Saturday and Sunday to enjoy good roads and natural beauties at the best time of the year.

Next is the Independence day period, July 4, also falling on Friday and affording opportunity for the enjoyment of Friday, Saturday and Sunday in the open.

Looking farther along on the calendar it is discovered that Labor day, Monday, September 1, will be the last day of another triple period of happy travel days—a Saturday, Sunday and Monday in which it will be possible to cover a big itinerary and see many interesting sights.

But this is not all. Both the Thanksgiving and Christmas periods will then be in the offing. On these two occasions—both of which happen to fall on Thursday this year—there are thousands who will stretch these holiday periods another day, thus taking a Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday in each instance.

First: Be Safe. As a result of these many three and four-day holidays—plus a heavy gain in good-road mileage—it is anticipated that 1941 will be the record-breaking year for automobile travel, even beating the all-time highs of the past two years.

As their contribution toward making this record holiday year a safe and satisfactory one, Mobilgas dealers are now offering to give motorists a fresh start through the many car inspections included in what is known as "summer-proof" lubrication and check-up, announced this week.

Sutherlin
