Jack of All Trades?

FOR once, believe it or not, President Roosevelt and most of the newspapers are in agreement. The subject is Charles (Colonel) Lindbergh and his flight in to statesmanship. All the editorials we have seen say, (a) he doesn't know what he is talking about, or (b) he shouldn't say it anyway. Yesterday the president called (by implication at least) Lindbergh a "copperhead."

When the noted flyer first began solving our economic, social and international problems by means of radio talks and press interviews we trailed along in our own small way with our own opinion. When he enunciated concerning economic conditions and told what was wrong and how to fix it, we said in our editorial that we thought Mr. Lindbergh was a great flier—a very great flier indeed.

Later when the Colonel took a fling at politics and made a few speeches—we again opined that Colonel Lindbergh is a noted aviation expert and that his opinions on airplanes and flying are exceedingly valuable.

Shortly after the war began the flying colonel again broke into print with information concerning the strength of air forces in general and the German air force in particular. This was an exceedingly valuable contribution but it was generally disregarded. Again we stated that his opinions on military aviation are worth careful attention by our military heads.

Lately Lindbergh has been sounding off on the subject of our international policy, how the war cannot be won by England—was lost before it started—etc.

Once again we say: Lindbergh is a good flier and knows a lot about airplanes. Furthermore, if he does not relax pretty soon, and confine himself to talking on subjects about which he is well qualified to speak, and stop talking, as with great authority, upon all phases of the war and international relations, his standing as an expert on the one subject will slip downward. An expert on any subject, if he is to keep a top rating, is expected always to exercise all around good judgment.

"Buy at Home"

(Salem Statesman)

ALL the evidence that the public is likely to get has been submitted in the case of the Oregon Grange Bulletin, official publication of the state grange which is now being printed in Seattle. In response to the rather general criticism of this patronage of out-of-state printers—sharp criticism in view of the grange's past advocacy of the "use Oregon products" slogan—Master Ray Gill explained the organization has acquired membership in a cooperative printing establishment and an editorial in the Bulletin recently asserted that it expected to receive a $1000 dividend as a result of this association.

Oregon printers have challenged this statement, insisting that a $1000 profit on this comparatively small printing "job" was preposterous. But it is not likely that anyone outside the grange will see the final figures and it now develops that even they will never know the actual amount of the saving, if any. For the Roseburg printer who previously had the contract, and who had remained silent while the controversy raged, has disclosed that he was not asked to bid on a renewal. He has indicated, however, that loss of the contract saddened him, not because of the small profit it had entailed but because it became necessary to dismiss two printers.

It does not seem probable, in view of Seattle's high wage scale for printers, that the grange will realize any saving. The opinion was expressed here when the issue arose, that the change was made because of Master Gill's enthusiasm for cooperative endeavor as opposed to private enterprise for profit. Nothing has developed since to change that opinion.

It remains to be pointed out, however, that the Oregon Grange Bulletin solicits advertising patronage from private enterprises in Oregon which are operated with the hope of profit. Thus there is a dual inconsistency here which will be difficult to explain refused to leave, preferring to stay and die with the Spartans. They were joined by 400 Thebans, making a total Greek force of 1400.

These 1400 remained, and after a rear-guard battle whose glory will never perish DIED TO A MAN.

TWO of Leonidas' Spartans were at the rear, sick of ophthalmia. One of them, Aristodemus, was too ill to move. The other compelled his helot (slave) to guide him to the battle, where, blind (ophthalmia is an eye disorder), he struck about him with his sword until he was killed.

Aristodemus, blind and helpless, was carried away by the retreating troops, ultimately returning to Sparta, where he was known as Treasas, "the man who retreated." A year later, unable to bear the disgrace, he rushed into the thickest of the fight at the battle of Platea and got himself killed performing deeds of reckless courage.

Those ancient Greeks were MEN. Their tough modern descendants come by their stamina honestly.

THE Persian host trickled through the narrow pass of Thermopylae. Crushing weight of numbers carried them on to Athens, which was deserted, its people taking to the ships, pausing only to bury their sacred objects, statues, etc., in the Acropolis.

Proud Athens was sacked and BURNED.

FOLLOWED then the naval battle of Salamis, in which the smaller Greek navy defeated the vastly larger but more clumsily handled Persian fleet. The ancient Greeks, like the modern British, were hardy sea fighters. Athens, freed of danger, was reoccupied.

It would be fascinating to tell here the story of the battle of Salamis, fought under the eye of Xerxes who was seated on a high point on the land. But newspaper columns must be kept short if they are to be read.

Tomorrow, perhaps—or later.

Yanks Cling To Lead Despite Bat Slump of Di Mag

By SID FEDER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The New York Yankees are bouncing along in the American league driver's seat and Joe DiMaggio hasn't had much to do with the streak that put them there. Yesterday's 6-0 whitewashing of the Washington Senators, fashioned with nifty three-hit pitching by Bonham, left the Yanks with a three-game winning string and one full game in the lead.

Yet, in those three games, dynamic DiMag, the pitchers' poison, collected the grand total of one hit in 12 batting chances, drove in exactly two runs and fell out of the No. 1 spot among the league's apple-knockers.

The walloping Washington was handed yesterday left the Yanks looking back at two deadlocked rivals in second place—the Boston Red Sox and the Cleveland Indians. Heber Newsome made his first start for the Sox and chalked up a five-hitter to whip the Athletics 3-1, with the help of Foxx's first homer this season. The Indians went all out with a three-run rally in the ninth to knock off the Chicago White Sox 5-3.

York's two-run single in the ninth inning gave the defending champion Detroit Tigers a 12-11 decision over the St. Louis Browns.

The National league leading New York Giants had to score five runs in the ninth to flail the Phillies 7-4. Chief damage in the rally was done by Arnovich, who pinch-tripled with the bases loaded.

Another Phillies graduate, Higbe, finally won his first start as a Dodger by pitching a four-hitter to give Brooklyn a 5-0 win over the Boston Bees.

Like the Giants, the Chicago Cubs pulled one out of the hat with a four-run outburst in the ninth inning to nip the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-7.

The St. Louis Cardinals cuffed the Cincinnati Reds around 8-4.

Beavers Wallop Padres; Rainiers Lose to Sactos

(By the Associated Press)

The Pacific coast league seismograph detected rumblings of moderate intensity today in the vicinity of the circuit cellar.

Cause of the disturbance was indicated to be a relative rampage by the Portland Beavers, who for the second time this season and one of the few times in recent history had stretched a winning streak to two games.

They did it, too, at the expense of the highly regarded San Diego Padres, appending a 7-3 decision last night to their 4-0 shutout of the night before.

Steady pitching to complement their never-questioned batting power appeared to explain the Portlanders' sudden revolt.

Gonzales allocated a measly six hits in San Diego's Thursday night blanking, and Hilcher distributed only a half dozen more last night, although he was guilty of a wild pitch and six bases on balls.

Escobar cracked a fourth-inning home run with two aboard to maintin the Portland reputataion for strength at the plate.

If this sort of thing persists, the Beavers may soon find themselves in a position to challenge others than seventh-place Los Angeles. That is the more likely because their present low estate has resulted from collision with the league's upper crust and they have yet, in large part, to take on the softer touches.

One of these is Los Angeles, nipped 7-6 by Hollywood for the third time in four starts. There are also San Francisco and Oakland, which have been playing leap frog with one another all week. Last night it was the Seals' jump, 5-4, in ten innings.

Still well out of Beaver reach, besides San Diego, are Seattle and, particularly, its current rival Sacramento, which last night tripped the Rainiers, 4-0, for a 2½ game grasp on first place.

Munger limited Seattle to four hits, in registering for the Sacs in their third victory of the week. Blattner, who accounted for three of the winners' seven safe blows, homered in the second for the first and only needed run.

Relief Pitcher Joe Berry, concurrently, found himself with two legs on permanent posesssion of the Los Angeles doghouse.

Wednesday the righthander served up a home run ball to Harman with the bases loaded in the last of the ninth, and Hollywood won 10-6. Last night, also in the last of the ninth, he dished out another toss of the same variety, and Kahle poked it over the fence for two runs that lifted the Stars from behind into victory.

San Francisco, after a bad start, scored twice in the eighth to tie Oakland 4-4, then hung on until Luby, Oak second baseman, threw wild in the tenth to let Jennings in with the deciding tally.

Reported Ill—David Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Morgan, is reported to be ill of measles at his home in Laurelwood.

Schedule Drawn For 6 Teams Of Softball League

Six teams will compete in a 10-week schedule, starting May 20, it was announced following a meeting of the local committee in charge of softball arrangements. The split season plan is to be followed again this year with a final playoff between winners in each of the season divisions. Two games will be played on each of the three week nights according to the schedule which was adopted last night.

Texaco, Dunhams, The Hub, Glide, Montgomery Ward and Boucock's will make up the teams to compete this season.

It is planned to have a preliminary opening on the night of May 19, when all six teams will meet in short games in order to provide an introduction to the public.

The softball league is sponsored by the Lions club which is represented by a committee composed of Howard Stucky, Ivan Pickens and H. D. Palmer. Mr. Stucky is general chairman. The rules and regulations will be handled by a committee composed of the managers of the six teams.

DAILY DEVOTIONS
DR. CHAS. A. EDWARDS

Christ told his disciples, the best things are to be had by renunciation. The student loses much in order to gain scholarship. The gold-hunter loses much for the sake of his treasure. Both of these, however, are measurably selfish. Let us come up higher. Here is a soldier leaving home. What has he gained? It is not a question of what he gains, but of what the cause for which he fights may gain. Who is it that loses his life? Really it is he who knows not the meaning of sacrifice, he of the self-centered life. There are two ways of treating life. One is to look upon it as a possible field for adventure or exploitation. The other is to look upon it as a grain-field with tough sod to be broken up, dry places to be irrigated, and swamps to be drained, seeds to be planted, weeds to be watched and uprooted, in order that when the harvest comes life may be rich. This is the loss that pays in the end. The heroes of the world are those who have not considered loss, they have endured the Cross, despising the shame, that they might lay hold of the joy that was set before them. Amen.
