

State Senators Named On Interim Service Groups

SALEM, May 21. (AP)—Governor Sprague and President of the Senate Dean H. Walker announced yesterday their appointments to interim committees which will submit reports to the 1943 legislature. Speaker of the house, Robert S. Farrel, Jr., announced his appointments several weeks ago.

To the industrial development committee, which will study industrial taxes and other factors which might influence industries in locating in Oregon, the Governor appointed Dr. W. H. Dreesen of Oregon State college; C. C. Chapman, Portland editor of the Oregon Voter; Fred Shepard, Bend farmer; C. L. Starr of Portland; and Rep. Vernon D. Bull, (D-Union).

Senator Walker appointed the following men to the same committee: Sens. W. H. Steiwer (R-Wheeler), Howard C. Belton (R-Clackamas) and Ronald E. Jones (R-Marion); Claude Buchanan of Corvallis; and Dean James H. Gilbert of the University of Oregon.

Members of the committee on interstate cooperation, appointed by the governor, are Budget Director David Eccles, chairman; attorney general I. H. Van Winkle, Deputy Secretary of State George Flagg; C. M. Rynerson, chairman of the state industrial accident commission; and Daniel J. Fry, secretary of the state board of control.

Walker's appointments to the same committee were Sens. Harry N. Kenin (R-Multnomah), J. N. Jones (R-Maitheur), William E. Walsh (R-Coos), Marshall E. Cornett (R-Klamath), and James A. Best (R-Umatilla).

The following were assigned by Walker to write arguments on proposed constitutional amendments for the voters' pamphlet: Sen. Walter E. Pearson (D-Multnomah), on the amendment to repeal the rural credit act; Sen. Dorothy McCullough Lee (R-Multnomah), on the proposal to remove double liability of bank stockholders; Sen. Thomas R. Mahoney (D-Multnomah), on the proposal to increase legislators' pay; and Sen. Marshall E. Cornett (R-Klamath), on the proposal to prevent diversion of the highway funds.

Other interim committee appointments by Walker: To study conditions in the Columbia river area: Sens. P. J. Stadelman (R-Wasco) and Coe A. McKenna (R-Multnomah).

To confer with Washington and Idaho delegations on Columbia river fish problems: Sens. F. M. Frantsevovich (R-Clatsop) and Stadelman.

To study roadside improvement: Sens. Charles Childs (R-Linn) and Lee.

To study the truck and rail taxes: Sens. Douglas McKay (R-Marion) and C. H. Zecher (R-Wallowa).

To study state institutions: Sens. W. H. Strayer (D-Baker), Pearson, and H. R. Kaufman (R-Lineoln).
