Our Development Will Be Permanent

MANY residents of Roseburg and surrounding area have been bemoaning the fact that Douglas county is getting none of the national defense industries that are bringing about mushroom growths in cities more ideally situated for certain types of industrial development.

While there is little prospect that the Umpqua valley will become an important center of factories producing the actual equipment of war, there is every evidence that it is soon to become the world's greatest lumber center and that day is being greatly speeded by the national defense program.

Heretofore the lumber industry, since its inception in the United States has hugged tide water, because of the advantage offered by water transportation. Today, with the need for cargo vessels to handle the vital supplies of war, the lumber industry must rely on rail transportation, and soon must move to points where merchantable timber may be obtained in close proximity to railroads.

The Coos Bay Lumber company already has announced its plans to provide an outlet at Roseburg for a large part of its lumber. Representatives of some of the largest timber, plywood and logging concerns have been investigating resources, mill sites and other important factors of the Roseburg area and may soon announce their decisions.

While the Umpqua valley may have to wait impatiently for this forthcoming period of industrial development, there is an assurance that, once established, the industry will be far more permanent than those developed to supply the materials of war.

Long after the factories producing arms and armaments have returned to peacetime operations, the lumber industry will be working at top speed to provide the materials for reconstruction in war torn countries. There is an assured long-time market for lumber and timber products.

A perpetual raw supply for the mills, plywood plants and by-product factories expected to locate in the Umpqua valley in the near future is assured by the sustained yield program adopted by the federal government which owns and manages more than one-half of the Umpqua valley's great timber resource. Conservative estimates are that five great mills, each with a daily capacity of a half million board feet, can operate continuously at full blast and still only match the rate of timber growth on lands subject to the sustained yield program.

The Umpqua valley may not now be sharing in the great prosperity of the national defense program, but there is every reason to believe that the eventual development to be speeded by that program will be of far greater and more lasting value.

S. Umpqua Falls CCC Unit Waits New Commander

Lieutenant Theodore H. Ebbert, who has been serving as company commander at the South Umpqua Falls CCC camp, has left the company on final leave prior to entering active army service. It was announced here today. The company is temporarily under the command of Lieutenant Clarence Crow. Final appointment of a commanding officer, it is reported, will await the shift of officers following the closing of five of the 30 camps in the Medford district. Two of the camps to be closed are in Oregon and three in northern California. The two Oregon camps to be closed are at Alkali lake, northeast of Lakeview, and Prescott, five miles east of Medford.

The South Umpqua Falls camp also has lost the services of Dr. Robert S. Kinoshita, who has served for the past four years as camp physician. Dr. Kinoshita has been promoted to the post of assistant district surgeon for the Medford area and will make his headquarters at Medford. For the present, Dr. Barnes, physician at Steamboat camp, will supervise both of the camps in Douglas county.

LETTERS to the Editor

WOULD DEPORT ALIEN STRIKE AGITATORS

ROSEBURG, Ore., June 10.—Editor News-Review: It is too bad that it has become necessary for the United States government to take over the North American aviation plant; but needs be. Apparently President Roosevelt and the United States congress have now come to the realization of the perilous labor situation.

The government would be justified in taking over all national defense plants, and operating them in the best possible manner. Furthermore, the government should right now put a stop to all strikes in this country.

When labor strife can be laid at the feet of foreign agitators, and they stand condemned at the feet of justice, they should be deported.

SEES PROPAGANDA SMEAR IN MUCH OF WAR NEWS

Editor News-Review: Rastus asks: "Mandy, what is this propaganda they is all talking about?" "Don't you know, Rastus?" replies Mandy, "it's jus this here way—ain't Ise a good wife to youse? I cooks yonse meals, wash's yonse clothes and mends them and does all those things; Ise a propogandee but youse ain't done nothin' and you ain't no propogander."

Other people are asking the same question. A newspaper article a few days ago said 95 per cent of all war news is propaganda. Webster says: "Effort directed systematically toward the gaining of public support for an opinion or course of action." Even the definition makes us wonder.

We take up a paper and read a headline which shocks us, then read the article and find the very opposite set forth, or perhaps the reverse is the case. We hear something over our radio which shocks us and we say "propaganda." Then we hear it again, then we see it in print and we feel it must be so. Such was the case when the radio was the bearer of the news that our government had ordered one and one-half million caskets. But by the time one hears or sees it in print, five or six times the temptation is to believe.

I wanted to be sure for I do not want ever to condemn wrongfully, so I wrote a senator, who, after a thorough investigation, kindly writes me that there is nothing to confirm such a report.

There are patriotic men and women, true Americans, true citizens of this U. S. A., who honestly express an opinion gained from experience and expert knowledge, to save this country's being humiliated. Then the war lords and warmongers cast before the public propaganda in the form of smear. Why can't we realize that it is not a crime to ring a door-bell and tell a man his house is on fire or in danger of being destroyed by a raging forest fire not so very far away and all war supply has been cut off. A warning is an act of friendship and loyalty. Of course in these days of international radios and broadcasts there seems to be no opportunity for secret warnings.

Draft Amendment Gets One Okay

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(AP)—The house military committee has approved draft amendments providing: 1. That all men who reach the age of 28 by July 1 must be deferred from military service. 2. That President Roosevelt shall be empowered to order resumption of production at any strike-bound defense plant and to use the armed forces to protect any employe voluntarily returning to work.

The bill approved by the senate last week provided merely for government seizure of plants where mediation failed to restore production and would permit the president to defer men over 28 from the draft. The legislation thus took its place on the house calendar, but the bill probably will not be up for action until next week. If passed in its present form, it faces possibly still further alteration at the hands of a joint senate-house conference committee which probably will have the task of effecting a compromise.

Conservation Of Rubber Impending

WASHINGTON, June 20.—(AP)—Government action probably will be taken within the near future to force conservation of rubber, defense officials said today. Concern over shipping difficulties, uncertainties in the far eastern situation, and increased domestic consumption have prompted a decision to require economizing on the use of rubber, but officials at the office of production management asserted that there is no present short age.

Severe curtailment of the manufacture of tires or other rubber products is unlikely, they asserted. Since there is no immediate difficulty in filling defense needs as in the case of aluminum, zinc and other materials, officials said that the conservation order would take some form different from that of previous priority regulations which placed defense uses ahead of civilian requirements. More than 80 per cent of the crude rubber used in the United States comes from British Malaya and the Netherlands East Indies. Consumption has risen from approximately 600,000 tons in 1939 to a current rate of about 800,000.

DAILY DEVOTIONS DR. CHAS. A. EDWARDS

The thought of war will sit like a giant over all human affairs for the next two decades. It will say to all of us: Set your house in order. If you squabble among yourselves, waste time, litigate, muddle, snatch profits and shirk obligations, I will certainly come again. I have taken all your young men between eighteen and fifty and killed and maimed such as I please. Millions of them. I have wasted your substance contemptuously. Now you have multitudes of male children between the ages of nine and nineteen running about you, delightful and beloved boys, and behind them come millions of delightful babies. Of these I have starved and smashed a paltry million. But go on muddling, each for himself and his parish and his family, and none for all the world; go on in the old way; stick to your rights, stick to your claims, each one of you; make no concessions and no sacrifices; obstruct, waste, squabble and presently I will come again and take all that fresh harvest of life, and those millions that are now sweet children and dear little boys and youths, and I will squeeze it into a red jam between my hands and mix it with the mud of the trenches and feast upon it before my eyes even more damnably than I have done with your grown-ups and your young men.—H. G. Wells in 1915.
