Now What Will The "Commies" Do? CONSIDER the plight of the communist in America. If it were not for the fact that his doctrine is so inimical to the tenets of democracy, he might, indeed, be an object for pity.

Communist in the United States suffered its first great blow just at a time when it was beginning to show a depression of growth. That was when the Great Father Stalin climbed in bed with Hitler. American communists stammered and faltered with their alibis, while a great many of the fellow travelers washed out the henna and reverted to their straw blonde stage.

But the sterner communist, reeling from the major blow, finally succeeded in a rationalization of his new position. He revamped the organization for a new campaign. Father Joe was now a friend of Hitler. The United States was embarked upon a great industrial campaign to provide arms for Britain to beat Hitlerism.

Now with all the finality of a home run with the bases loaded comes the break between Germany and Russia. Russia will want American aid—the very aid that the communists have been trying to sabotage. What will they do now? Must they completely reverse their former labor stand and go all the way out to stimulate defense industries to save communistic Russia?

Perhaps that communist-nazi hook-up is the secret. Perhaps a little judicious prodding and chip-on-shoulder methods might precipitate a wee bit of internal strife that would eliminate both groups in this country.

country is definitely to be reckoned with. So the president tells CONGRESS (not Germany) that the Robin Moor sinking was "ruthless" and the "act of an international outlaw" and adds that the United States does not yield the use of the high seas to Germany.

That is intended as a warning to Hitler not to do it again. Having warned him, we will wait to see what he does now—thus passing the buck back to him.

LONDON "informed quarters" describe the RAF's nine-day series of bombing blasts at channel invasion ports and German industrial areas as an all-out attempt to smash German preparation for invasion of England, which is "expected as soon as Germany settles matters with Russia." British officialdom, you see, is encouraging no wishful thinking. Wishful thinking undermines morale, and Britain needs to be unfailingly tough in these critical days.

BRITAIN'S No. 1 problem is to protect the British Isles, come what may. If they are lost, the war will be irretrievably lost.

BRITAIN'S probable strategy is to get Germany spread out as thin as possible over as much of the world as possible.

Getting spread too far and too thin ultimately caused Napoleon to crack. It may cause Hitler to crack.

IVESTIA, of Moscow, soviet government newspaper, says today: "Neither through the forests nor the steppes, the mountains or the seas will the enemy ever step across the forbidden border."

Words—and, as Octavus Roy Cohen says, "they don't mean nuffin'!"

What will count will be Russia's deeds.

CIVIL WAR BATTLE FLAG NOW FAMILY HEIRLOOM

Editor News-Review: I read with interest the article by Paul Jenkins about the old flag with 38 stars.

I have a flag that is said to have been in my family for 76 years. It has only 34 stars. It was carried on the battlefields of the Civil War and is still stained with the blood of the young federal soldier who was shot down while carrying it.

RECALLS ADMITTANCE OF LAST 10 STATES OF U. S.

Editor News-Review: In Paul's "I Saw" column recently describing the flag with 38 stars, there was brought back to my memory scenes of my boyhood days.

About 1880 I was presented with my first flag which I proudly hung from a front window on the fourth of July. It contained 38 stars, and my mother explained to me that each star represented a state in our country—the United States. When I studied geography at school I learned that there were 38 states and eight territories besides the Indian territory, included in the United States.

Under a great pressure made by the land-hungry white people, the United States government made a new treaty with the Indians in the eastern part of the Indian territory, whereby a certain strip should be opened to settlement; the Indians were to receive a certain amount of land given to each family prior to the general settlement.

The first "opening to settlement" was in 1880. The people had been secluded from the territory and were allowed to enter only upon a signal given. There followed perhaps the greatest rush for land locations ever recorded in history.

The Oklahoma territory was organized in the eastern part of the territory. Later the whole original Indian territory became the state of Oklahoma, the 46th state and still later New Mexico and Arizona were admitted as the 47th and 48th states, thus ending our territories in "United States proper" and giving our flag 48 stars.

Columbia Power Authority Bill Given Congress

WASHINGTON, June 24. (AP)—An administration bill to create a Columbia power authority to market power from Bonneville and Grand Coulee in Washington and Oregon which would be a regional agency under the interior department was introduced in the house yesterday by Rep. Hill (D., Wash.) at request of Secretary Ickes.

The measure would give the secretary of interior entire control of the project through authority to appoint a Columbia power administrator at $10,000 a year without regard to civil service laws and two administrators, a chief engineer and a general counsel under civil service laws at salaries to be determined by him.

The measure provides also that the interior secretary shall appoint a Columbia power authority council consisting of six residents of the Pacific northwest to serve three year terms to advise the administrator. It provides the council shall meet at least every two months and the administrator shall be chairman of the council. It also provides official membership on the council of representatives of other agencies of the government interested in conservation and development of the resources of the northwest.

The bill provides the authority may acquire in the name of the United States by purchase, lease, condemnation or donation electric utility systems operating in the territory, the acquisition of which will improve the operation of the government's electric facilities. It is authorized to sell such distribution systems to public bodies or cooperatives as well as distribution systems and generating plants acquired by it.

Defense Quiz

Q. What is a U. S. Defense Savings Bond?

Q. Why should I buy Defense Bonds?

Parents of Sub Victim Ask F. D. R. For 'Safety' Move

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., June 24. (AP)—Thomas W. Tillery, rancher of Stauffer, Ventura county, California, said today he had sent the following letter to President Roosevelt: "My son, Thomas Winslow Tillery, Jr., has just been crushed to death in submarine O-9. He died without a chance to resist in an outdated, unseaworthy craft. His mother and I find little comfort in knowing that the modern products of America's defense effort are being given to a foreign power. Our remaining son becomes eligible for draft in July.

"Tom was a valuable man to his country. For seven years he worked loyally to earn his rating of machinist's mate, first class. You, too, have sons who have acquired rank and position in the armed forces. If they are serving on sister ships of the O-9, or are dependent upon obsolete equipment, I beg you, one father to another, transfer them to positions of safety. Then, if we are attacked, they may die honorably in the face of the enemy, rather than helplessly at the hands of their own government."

Summer School of 4-H Wins Highest Appreciation

By PATRICIA CALKINS. Another 4-H club summer school has come and gone and was voted by all attending as being the best ever. More than 2100 boys and girls from all over the state were in attendance. Around 65 Douglas county club members were there this year.

Every morning was given over to classes of a number of different kinds. The girls had instruction in many lines of home economics and simple crafts, while the boys' classes were held in the interests of farm crops, livestock and forestry. On Thursday, the last day, the whole morning period of both groups was given over to judging contests. Club members were given their choice of what line of work they wished to judge.

The assemblies were held every afternoon and evening. There was always a number of very interesting speakers, a few entertainment numbers, and quite a bit of group singing at the afternoon assemblies. In the evening either a stage program or a moving picture was enjoyed. One evening two radio plays written by 4-H club members were given over the air.

The afternoon period was more eclectic. There was a choice among moving pictures, puppet shows, museum tours, reading, sports and crafts classes. Swimming was also enjoyed on some days.

One of the especially interesting features was the exchange of dinners between boys' and girls' houses. On one evening half of the boys from a house went to a girls' house and half of the girls took their places at the boys' house. Then they chose partners and went to dinner together.

On the last evening a formal dance was held in the ballroom of the Memorial Union building. This was one of the big events of the season, looked forward to by nearly everyone. There were parties for those who do not dance but the dance was the main attraction. Truly, a grand time was had by all, and everyone returned home determined to attend summer school another year.

Jesus used the stranger and our attitude toward him as a test of Christian virtue. He judged our religion by our relationship to a stranger. "I was a stranger, and ye took me in." In other words, I can tell what kind of a Christian you are by the way you treat a stranger. How would you rate in such a test? What reactions take place when a stranger appears on the scene? Is it one of resentment, or jealousy or self-fishment—or do you respond with a desire to help? It is noticeable the businesses and banks and commercial concerns do not fail to cater to the stranger. They see in him a potential customer and with a more or less selfish motive, they receive the stranger with open arms. The church is a place where we need to be more concerned about the stranger. There is often a sort of aloofness and coolness toward them. People are satisfied with things as they are, and a lack of interest in the stranger within our gates. Love ye therefore the stranger. See in him a potential friend, and an opportunity to express Christian fellowship. "I was a stranger and ye took me in." Amen.

Has your car LOST ITS ZIP? IF IT HAS, MAYBE CARBON'S THE VILLIAN! You see, excessive hard carbon throws finely tuned modern motors "out of balance". How can you help avoid excessive carbon? By using Triton Motor Oil. For, most carbon is formed from motor oil. But Triton is so pure it forms very little carbon. That's because it's refined by Union Oil's patented Propane-solvent process—which produces a 100% pure paraffin-base oil. Triton gives you as fine a lubricant as money can buy—PLUS freedom from excessive power-stealing carbon. Try it and see. At any Union Oil station or dealer.

Everyone takes the telephone for granted That's it exactly. The telephone is such a natural everyday thing. It isn't unusual for anybody, anywhere, to have one or, at least, be able to use a telephone conveniently near by. You don't give much thought to it. You don't have to because other people, lots of them, are thinking and working all the time to keep your telephone working just so that you may take it for granted.
