war industries, have created a serious labor shortage in Douglas county, and

Whereas; unless farm workers can be secured immediately there will be great damage to crops; and

Whereas; there are a great many WPA workers in Douglas county who are capable of handling this work if this labor is so diverted;

Therefore:

Be it resolved, that all WPA workers who can secure such work be given immediate temporary release to help save Douglas county crops, and

Be it further resolved, that all WPA workers engaged in farm work at this time or hereafter be allowed to retain their WPA status without reclassification if and when this emergency ceases; and

Be it further resolved, that all WPA workers refusing to accept this employment when offered be stricken from the roll;

That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the state and local WPA directors.

Workers Perturbed

Judge Busenbark reported today that he had been visited by a delegation of WPA clients who are greatly perturbed by the situation. They claim, he reported, that, contrary to the claims of a labor shortage, few jobs are available at present. While some work is available in hayfields, the county judge said he was told, this work is only of a temporary nature and little farm work would be available until the fall harvest.

The county judge said he had inquired into the method of the WPA in dealing with clients who accept temporary outside employment and had been informed that it was the policy to restore them to the rolls when such employment ended. He said, however, that workers had informed him that in some cases, at least, this policy had not been carried out in actual practice and that some workers had been forced to wait several weeks for reclassification and reemployment after having taken outside work for a brief period. For this reason, he said, some of the workers were reluctant to accept temporary jobs.

Status Assurance Given

Judge Busenbark said further inquiry will be made into this phase and an effort made to assure every WPA client that his status would be unchanged upon conclusion of outside employment and that an endeavor would be made to provide release of workers for harvest duties in the event of any emergency.

With 100 or more men needed for the airport project, he said, there is little danger of any complete closure of the WPA agency, and the county court probably will not ask any restrictions on classification of workers unless it is shown that outside work is available, and, furthermore, that if such work is accepted that the worker shall have the right to return immediately to the WPA employment roll when temporary outside employment is ended.

NOT For Rent

...but YOURS For Rent Money!

No matter how far or long you look, you could not find a home as lovely as this for rent. But, supposing you could—you would really be unwise to rent it. In doing so, you would merely supply temporary shelter for yourself while you paid for another man's investment.
