DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHAS. A. EDWARDS

The leaders of the first century church were cruelly persecuted by the Sandleirid for healing in the name of the Risen Christ, and for witnessing with great power to the resurrection of the Lord Jesus. After hearing the threats of those in authority Simon, Peter and John went to the small band of believers and a remarkable prayer was prayed by these men and women of great faith. They did not ask to be removed from persecution, nor did they ask God to use them, but they asked Him to stretch forth His hand and heal. They did not believe in their prayer or power, but in His power, and many were healed as God stretched forth His hand in answer to their prayer. God is able to heal today. If we will pray and if we will witness to lame men and women as the early church did, "Thy touch has still its ancient power." But we must have their faith that God's hands are more powerful than our hands. The men and women who have blessed the world have been those who were obsessed with a great faith in God, who is able to do abundantly more than we can. Amen.
