Cordon For Congress

It will not be news to those who read this column in the News-Review, that we think, most emphatically, that Guy Cordon, Roseburg attorney and attorney for the Association of Oregon Counties, should be sent to congress as the representative from the newly created Oregon fourth district.

Mr. Cordon has spent a great deal of his time in Washington, D. C., these last few years. Last Friday he returned to his home after two months in the nation's capital. He has been working with the Oregon delegation there toward the passage of legislation favorable to Oregon and the county governments of this state.

After considerable deliberation, and as the result of experience covering many months in Washington, Mr. Cordon has determined that he can be of more service as a duly elected representative in congress than as an unofficial representative of the state. Accordingly he announced Saturday that it is his intention to become a candidate for the office of representative in congress from the new fourth district.

There is one point that should be made clear at the very outset. Guy Cordon is not offering himself as a candidate because he wants or needs a job. He is a very successful attorney with a growing practice. Since the necessary personal expenses of a member of congress are quite heavy it is more than likely that Cordon's actual net income as a congressman would be less than the present income from his legal practice.

But Guy Cordon is, and always has been, a hard fighter. The effort now occupying most of his time will, if he is successful, result in great and lasting benefits to the people of the state of Oregon. Cordon has the problem well in hand but, as stated above, he has concluded that one more voice in congress plus the fact that membership in the congress will give access to persons and committees and bureaus that he cannot have as an individual citizen, makes it necessary to the cause that he seek election.

What is this benefit for the Oregon counties that Guy Cordon is working for? Space here is not adequate for a complete discussion. Briefly the problem is that the counties of Oregon are required, at considerable expense, to administer for all civil and local purposes, vast areas of federally owned lands. This places a great and unjust burden upon the remaining privately owned and taxable property.

The association of counties, through the work of Mr. Cordon and the Oregon delegation in congress, is endeavoring to secure the passage of legislation that will result in federal payments to the counties in lieu of taxes on these lands thus easing the present unusually heavy burden upon taxpayers in Oregon.

There will be numerous other candidates for the office of congressman from this district. Doubtless many or all of those seeking this office will be able men. But none, and we can make this statement without the slightest fear of being successfully contradicted, have either the definite reason for seeking to serve the state or the fine background of experience that Guy Cordon has.

Cordon is planning to become a candidate because he believes that is what he should do. It will be up to the people of this county who know him well and who understand why he is needed in area so that no single defeat by an enemy could cripple her hopelessly.

THAT brings us back to the original issue of this German-Russian war.

Defeat of the red army and the red air force and capture of Leningrad, Moscow and Ukraine will not be sufficient for Hitler's purposes. To win as he wants to win, he must DEMOLISH AND DESTROY Russia's fighting forces so that no striking power will be left in Russian hands.

If he fails in that purpose—the red army and air force are able to retire in some semblance of order to the mountain barrier of the Urals and carry on the struggle from there—Hitler's spectacular Russian adventure will prove to be unprofitable.

TODAY'S rumor as to Japan: Foreign sources in Shanghai report that Japanese reservists in undetermined numbers, including men discharged from the army in China as long as a year and a half ago, are being called to the colors.

The port of Kobe (in southern Japan), the most likely embarkation point for a south-bound Japanese expeditionary force, was closed to foreigners on July 15 for a ten-day period.

(The implication of the rumor is that Japan is getting ready to do something.)

KONOYE, the premier who resigned, has been instructed by the emperor to form a new cabinet. Into his new cabinet he has already (on Thursday) taken back several of the men included in the old one.

It looks as if he is merely casting somebody out. (It may be Matsuoka for whom the skids have been greased.) It was Matsuoka who negotiated both the axis and the Russian neutrality treaties.

That still tells us little as to what Japan is going to do. We ordinary people (without inside sources of information) will have to wait till she starts shooting.

Roseburg Legion Juniors Capture District Crown

Second Game of Twin Bill With Marshfield Won, 10-2, After Losing First, 9 to 7

By EVERETT CROUCH The Roseburg American Legion Juniors won the District No. 4 baseball championship Sunday by trouncing the Marshfield Juniors 10 to 2 in the second game of a double-header played before an enthusiastic audience at Friday night. Marshfield won the first game 9 to 7.

The first game was a seven-inning affair until the last inning. Marshfield started the scoring with three tallies in the first inning, but Roseburg capitalized on two hits and three errors to score four runs in their half of the inning.

The local players added another in the second to take a 5 to 3 lead, but Marshfield tied the score in the sixth and went out in front in the eighth with a three-run spurge. Roseburg rallied desperately in their half of the eighth but fell short of tying the score, while Marshfield added another in the ninth to clinch the game.

Huggins, Marshfield hurler, was nicked for 10 hits and issued seven walks while striking out four.

Main, Roseburg hurler, also allowed 10 hits, but had eight strikeouts, walked two and hit one batter.

Ford led the Marshfield hitters, rapping out two hits in three trips to the plate, closely followed by Huggins with two to four.

DeBernardi, Stephens and Baker, led the Roseburg hitters.

In the abbreviated second contest, the local Juniors took to the pitching of Murray, the Marshfield hurler, like a duck takes to water and pounded out 11 hits for an easy 10 to 2 victory. As for the locals needed only one game to assure first place in the district elimination series, the victory gave the locals the right to play the southern Willamette valley district winner from which contest the winner will go to the state finals.

Brooklyn's Lead Slashed; Yankees Increase Runaway

By GAYLE TALBOT (Associated Press Sports Writer)

The St. Louis Cardinals yesterday completed a smashing tour of the seaboard with a double defeat of the Boston Braves yesterday by scores of 4 to 2 and 7 to 3. That made it seven victories in their past nine games.

Brooklyn, by doing no better than breaking even against Pittsburgh yesterday, saw its lead over the Cardinals sliced to a game and a half. The Dodgers have played only 500 ball in their past 10 contests at home, and their pitching staff is showing alarming signs of falling apart.

Wyatt, the team's ace, lost his third straight start when the Pirates beat him, 5 to 1, in the nightcap. Fitzsimmons, reliable veteran, was struck on the arm by a batted ball and forced to retire early in the first tilt, which Curt Davis went on to win, 5 to 1.

Higbe, another of the Dodgers' "big three," is in a hospital with a bad appendix and will not accompany the club west.

The Cincinnati Reds, who haven't yet lost hope of winning their third straight flag, climbed within two percentage points of third place by thumping the Phillies twice, 7 to 1 and 3 to 2. Derringer broke a five-game losing streak in the first, in which he left 12 Phils stranded.

The New York Giants won the first from Chicago, 7 to 5, Hubbell scoring his ninth victory, but the Cubs came back to take the second, 7 to 4, behind Olsen.

Yanks Win 17-Frame Game. The Yankees exploded for six runs in the 17th inning to win a 12 to 6 decision over Detroit. Deadlocked 6-6 at the end of nine frames, they battled four hours and five minutes before the blow-off.

The victory increased the Yankees' lead to seven full games over the Cleveland Indians, who divided a brace with Washington. The Senators beat them, 8 to 4, in the first behind Sundra, but a rash of errors in the late innings by the Washington infield enabled the Indians to take the second, 5 to 1.

The St. Louis Browns swept their second double-header in two days over Boston's diving Red Sox, 6 to 3 and 10 to 0.

McQuinn had a gay day of it at bat for the Browns, busting three homers and two singles. Veteran Ted Lyons pitched Chicago's White Sox to a 2 to 1 win in their first bout with the Philadelphia Athletics, but the A's came back to win the second, 4 to 1, in 13 innings.

Defense Quiz

Q. I cannot find the word "Defense" anywhere on the Defense Savings Stamps I have bought. Are they merely Postal Savings Stamps, or does my money invested in these Stamps go into the Defense Program?

A. The money you use to purchase these Stamps goes definitely into the Defense Program. The Stamps bear the words "America on Guard," which indicates that they are an integral part of the Defense Program.

Q. Are Defense Savings Stamps registered, and are they transferable?

A. Defense Savings Stamps are not registered but they are transferable.

Note—To buy Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office or bank, or write to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C., for an order form.

Bible Contest Won by Local Christian Church

The Bible school of the local First Christian church yesterday won by a large margin a contest which has been in progress for several weeks with the church at Cottage Grove. The local school yesterday added a great many points to win by a margin of 323, after the contest had been extremely close until the past two weeks. Credit was given for attendance, contacts and offering.

Ex-Major Leaguer Dies in Old-Timers' Game

PORTLAND, Ore., July 21.—(AP)—Ralph Wesley "Red" Krotz laced out a single in an old-timers' baseball game and felt like a kid again as he raced for first base.

Halfway there, the catcher for the Chicago White Sox from 1910 to 1912 collapsed. He died a few moments later of a heart attack.

Krotz, 55, had lived at Hillsboro, Ore., in recent years.

Archery Tourney Held at Umpqua

Archers from Coquille, Eugene, Cottage Grove, Roseburg and Umpqua participated Sunday in the Six Gold meet held at Umpqua under sponsorship of the Umpqua Archery club. The meet was so successful and so thoroughly enjoyed that participants urged it be made an annual affair.

In the Double American event for men, Forrest Lemley of Eugene took first place with a score of 1150. Kenneth Clayton, Umpqua, was second with 1102.

In the Double Columbia event for women, Alice Clayton, Umpqua, was first, with 1036 and Lois Mode, Umpqua, second, with 649.

The Clout shoot for men was won by Henry Burr Coquille, 228, with Kenneth Clayton, Umpqua, second, 188.

Kathryn Roadman Roseburg, won the Clout shoot for ladies, with 209, and Kathryn Ulrich, Roseburg, was second with 197.

SERIAL STORY

LOVE POWER

BY OREN ARNOLD

Copyright, 1941, NEA Service, Inc.

YESTERDAY: Bob Hale's work zone. A city is built in the shadow of the mountain. Scientists come to aid his research. X-999 is put to work as a power source. Leana is busy, cold to Carolyn, but secretly planning. At last she has an idea that will give her all she wants, an idea that can be put into effect at once.

PREPARATIONS FOR MURDER CHAPTER XXI

THE practical, direct mind which had made Leana Sormi distinguished as a scientist, was brought into use now in her personal affairs.

She had tried one or two round-about ways of accomplishing her end. She had tried to make Robert Hale aware of her as a woman, with all the implications of companionship and "love" as she knew it.

Next, more desperately, she had tried to corner their priceless supply of X-999 for herself, and with the power it entailed, force Robert, and the world in general, to her feet. But in each case a contemptible, little violet-eyed stenographer had wrecked her plans! It was enough to infuriate any woman.

Wherefore, Leana calmly plotted to attain her goal in the way that would bring most satisfaction. She didn't formally recognize it as a revenge motive; her plan to do away with Carolyn Tyler was colder, more practical than that.

"Revenge" would have sounded melodramatic to Leana. But the Tyler person was in the way, and just as she would have taken pains to eliminate any obstacle in a pursuit of science, Leana would stop at nothing to eliminate Carolyn as an obstacle in her personal pursuit. Neither morals nor sentiment entered into her calculations. She was a woman gone brilliantly mad.

Most potent weapon at hand was the X-999 itself. Leana put down as point No. 1. Only three people had actual access to the X-999, there deep in Tonto Mountain. They were Robert Hale, Carolyn, and Leana.

Now, out-and-out murder is both messy and dangerous. But if the objectionable Tyler girl were the victim of an accident—

FROM the store of materials already brought here, and from her unlimited privilege of ordering things, Leana constructed a relatively simple device while working six nights in the privacy of her home. In effect, it was merely a compact radio receiving set, but tuned into high sensitivity and strength. Moreover, it was so arranged that a small built-in electric generator could be set in motion by it, from considerable distance away. Initial impulse could be radiated from a small transmitter which she built to serve this one particular need. The transmitter was easily portable. Entrance to the old mine shaft, deep in which the X-999 was now safely stored, was guarded in shifts by three men. These three stayed in an old refurbished shack that had once been the control station for the narrow-gauge railway into the mine. It was near the track, 300 yards or so around the solid granite side of Tonto Mountain.

Because the track lay there on a narrow ledge, no one could approach the actual mine tunnel entrance without being seen from this house.

Leana Sormi had free access, hence was not interrupted when she came quietly along there one morning carrying a wrapped parcel. As she had done before, she stopped at the guard shack only to pick up an electric hand lantern. Complete electric lighting had been strung in, but lanterns were carried for emergency use.

She remained in the shaft for more than an hour. Then she returned the lantern. If the guards noticed that she came out without her package, they had no occasion to think that fact important.

Actually, Leana had concealed her improvised radio receiver and generator under small stones a few feet from the box and the leaden insulators where the X-999 rested. Then she buried insulated wires that ran from the generator directly to the main box, up to the heavy leaden cases. With extreme care, then, she lifted the lid of one leaden case, inserted an ordinary percussion cap such as workmen use constantly to explode dynamite, and left it there connected to her two wires.

It was ticklish business, really, but she experienced no fear; a scientist has no "nerves," and certainly Leana Sormi worked with calculating precision.

She knew that the whole installation here would not likely be seen for months even if she did nothing more about it. But her plans called for spectacular action within the next few hours.

"Now," she told herself with calm satisfaction, "I have but to get the stupid girl in here. And that won't be hard!"

SHE had decided to complete all the preparations this morning because she was absent from normal laboratory duties tomorrow. Another hour or two couldn't possibly excite any suspicion. Interest mayhap—somebody might inquire positively if she had been ill—but nothing of suspicion. That she could now take the setting apparatus, the transmitter tuned care-
