Electricians in New York Strike—By the Associated Press

All electricians in New York City called a strike for today effective throughout the five boroughs, and some union officials predicted that the walkout ultimately might tie up 250,000 construction workers.

Immediately, the action involved about 8,000 skilled electricians, the brotherhood said. A spokesman said the strike was voted as a protest over a controversy between the union and the Consolidated Edison company concerning the right of union members to perform electrical construction work on an Edison power plant in Manhattan.

At Key West, Fla., construction of new naval bases was shut down yesterday when some 600 AFL-affiliated carpenters, painters and plumbers walked out in sympathy with 800 laborers who had struck for a wage increase from 40 to 62 cents an hour.

Another strike of AFL laborers continued to impede construction of an $89,000,000 ammunition plant at St. Louis, Mo.
