Gasoline Shortage Relief Proposal Given by Senator

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Senator Maloney (D.-Conn.) proposed today that all unused railroad tank cars be set to rolling in an effort to relieve shortages of gasoline, fuel oil and other products.

"I have the feeling that we may press the now unused tank cars and other tank cars not needed otherwise into immediate service," Maloney said. "I know that the cost of transportation by rail has been considerably greater than by tanker and pipe line."

To offset this added cost, the senator suggested that railroads might "move whole trains of tank cars at one time," and thus reduce costs substantially.

Maloney is chairman of a special committee appointed yesterday to begin a senate investigation of the shortages tomorrow. Meanwhile, a plan of action against gasoline profiteering was drafted in government quarters.

Leon Henderson, price administrator, indicated he would proclaim forthwith a ceiling for motor fuel prices, to protect the 10,000,000 Atlantic seaboard motorists against unwarranted price increases.

President Roosevelt yesterday forecast that the problem of supplying the east with oil would be eased substantially by spring, through launching of new tankers and by building of two pipelines from the southwest to the eastern seaboard.

The trend of discussion in oil circles indicated the gasoline investigation would hinge on four questions:

1. Is there a bona fide shortage?

2. Does there exist an organized effort by certain persons or interests to circulate false information to confuse the public?

3. Was there justification for transfer to Britain of one-fifth the tanker fleet hauling oil from gulf ports to the eastern seaboard?

4. How effectively are railway tank cars being used to meet the emergency, and how many surplus or idle tank cars are available?

McNary said he could not spare time from other duties to serve on the senate subcommittee investigating gasoline shortage on the eastern seaboard, but asked the group to gather data for the west coast as well.

The office of production management was optimistic today that final returns from the recent aluminum collecting campaign would total 14,000,000 pounds of scrap.

When refined this will yield about 10,500,000 pounds of aluminum. And that is the equivalent of the amount of pure aluminum needed for 2,800 fighting planes.

The figures to date indicate an estimated average collection of almost a half pound per occupied dwelling, which would mean 10,500,000 pounds of aluminum for the nation if the average is sustained. Rhode Island has the best showing thus far, with an average of almost 1.1 pounds of scrap per dwelling.
