Spreading Work, Deliberately

THE defense job naturally gravitated into the hands of the large companies best equipped to grapple with it directly, immediately, and on a large

Materials vitally needed for defense naturally were assigned to and unable to get defense con- today tracts, face shutdowns. Pools of unemployment are beginning to mura said in Washington Saturappears in the flood of defense day that some such solution is Something has to be done.

The office of production management is facing the problem Already it has moved to remedy the situation by forcing the spreading out of defense work among smaller companies. The OPM proposes to proceed along

Special efforts to get defense work assigned to communities already feeling the loss of jobs through lack of priority materials for their smaller industries; requirement that in all contracts over $50,000 a definite percentage of the work be "farmed out" to there first will be useful subcontractors; negotiation of some contracts without competitive bidding, so that some small shops can get contracts even though perhaps the large firms might outbid them.

Obviously this is not the most economical way to proceed. It seems perfectly clear that some work is going to be allotted to certain towns and plants deliberately to alleviate unemployment, rather than on a strict economic The taxpayer will pay, again, but it will be a price cident to defense. So with negotiated contracts instead of competitive bids; there will be instances in which Bethlehem Steel might be able to bid lower on a job, yet the Doakes Manufacturing company be given the contract as a means of relieving the unfilled-order list of Bethlehem and spreading the work.

Time and morale are both elements in defense, just as ma-chine guns and tanks. The proposed OPM plans look like a way to buy some of both by spending more money than production of the actual goods would cost if the lowest bidder were always to get the lob regardless of the effect on the morale of smallplant employes thrown out of

It might well be economy in long run to buy some time and morale in this way along 10:00—Alka Settzer News.

Army Ordnance Assn. Demands Strike Outlawing

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. AP) The Army Ordnance asso ciation, a semi-official body, to day condemned strikes for a "disgraceful blot" on the record of defense progress and listed as a companion debit the lack of single administrative head for armaments production.

On the subject of defense strikes, the association asserted flatly: "They should be outlawed once and for all in order that the vast majority of willing hands may do their share in defense production."

The ordnance organization also found reason to deplore the delay in fixing "a ceiling on all prices" a delay which it said "has add ed millions to the cost of national defense and points the way to monetary inflation which may defeat the very purpose of the de-lense effort."

The opinions of the association the spinots of the association there set forth in an editorial analysis of the accomplishments and defects of the defense effort which appears in the current is-

Christianity speaks to the human race of the nearness. availability and power of God's love. This was fully illustrated by Christ when He was here on the earth, and his victory over sin and death and the grave. There was a trans-forming effect upon the morals of all peoples who heard and received the gospe. message. As light dispels darkness, so the clear under-standing of God reveals the unreality of materiality. Such as the power of evil over good Man is a spiritual being, and by the power of grace divine can overcome all things through Christ who strengthens. The great need is to be come aware of that truth, and that is the way out of our limitations, into the fullness of the riches of glory in Christ Jesus, our Lord, St. Paul ex-claims: "Thanks be unto God," for He giveth us the victory. It is a song of tri-umph. His life teaches us to count as real only that which reveals the nature and charac ter of Christ. Trust in the Lord, and do good. "Then fully expect God to do His part Acknowledge Him and shall direct thy paths," and that path will be as a shining light, that shines more and
