New Responsibilities for Labor

MONDAY, the day after tomorrow, is annual Labor day. It is observed as a holiday all over this nation.

Labor day has always been a sort of combination of Thanksgiving day and Demonstration day for organized labor. Labor met, paraded, celebrated to mark its progress and demonstrate its strength.

On both counts there is special reason for it to mark the day this year. More men are organized in labor unions than ever before, the best estimate being about 16,000,000. With their families and dependents, that makes a sizable chunk of the whole people. Organized labor's strength was never so great.

On the other hand, never has organized labor owed so much to the society in which it has its being. The high state of organization which has been achieved is due in large measure to the favoring climate established by the federal government. It is under the social conditions set up by our democratic republic that organized labor has been able to reach its present stature.

It need only look across the ocean to see the condition of its brothers in toil when free democratic government has been overthrown. The workers of a whole continent are either bound to the iron whel of nazism, without freedom to organize or have a voice in their own conditions, or else are ground beneath that wheel in a condition which comes so perilously close to slavery as to make one shudder.

Labor therefore on its own day, when it celebrates its own power and achievements, owes a sober thought and a moment of dedication to the republic whose principles of freedom have made and kept labor free.

Organized labor is coming into a period when, its chief obstacles surmounted, it must think increasingly of its place in the social order, its duties and responsibilities toward the people as a whole, and toward the free institutions which have favored its development. There is every sign that it is preparing to play with responsible effectiveness the part it has won in the future of the American people.

hoped to turn to HER OWN uses.)

Such is propaganda.

THE spotlight, which has been playing on Iran, shifts today back to the Far East.

Russia warns Japan it will regard as an UNFRIENDLY ACT any attempt to hinder trade relations with U. S. via Far East ports. The trade relations referred to involve several tankerloads of aviation gasoline now en route from Los Angeles to Vladivostok.

Japan, having been denied permission to buy aviation gas in the United States, is protesting this shipment.

MOSCOW tells Tokyo that Russian purchases of U. S. gasoline were destined in the FIRST PLACE for use on the German front.

"Destined in the first place" is the stinger. Japan is being told that since she persists in her partnership with Germany this U. S. gasoline may be held at Vladivostok and used to power bombers to bomb Japan.

In other words (Churchill having declared Britain will back U. S.) a showdown with Japan is on the way. The showdown will come when these Russian-bound tankers reach Japanese waters—through which they must pass to get to Vladivostok.

THE situation has German diplomats in Japan worried, and they're warning the Japs against letting U. S. and Britain "divide and conquer" the axis—telling them that "unless we hang together we may hang separately," etc.

Japan must be shrewd enough to know that Hitler would cut her throat and throw her carcass in the sewer at any moment it suited his purpose to do so.

FROM Vichy, as these words are being written, comes a report that Former French Premier Laval has been shot by an anti-collaborationist (a long word meaning some Frenchman who doesn't like playing with Hitler.)

Meanwhile sabotage in Paris goes on in spite of German threats to start shooting suspects.

If there's anything to this Laval report, the embittered French (sold out by their leaders) are doing some shooting on their own account.

DAILY DEVOTIONS
DR. CHAS. A. EDWARDS

I would rather be defeated in a cause that will ultimately triumph, than triumph in a cause that will ultimately be defeated. When Jesus died on Calvary, it did not look hopeful for His cause. There were three crosses—they are not standing there now. But they left their mark, not on that hill, but on the heart of the world. Artists have tried to paint that hour of unutterable agony. Poets have tried to weave its tragic story into moving lines. Authors have written volumes in an attempt to explain what was happening on the central cross on that tragic day of days. But the half has not been told — for the half can never be told. Light and darkness were in deadly conflict. The forces of Satan were doing their worst. The force of Heaven was going its best. It was a battle royal. It seemed for a moment Satan had won. But now we know that a conqueror died on the Cross that day, and our task is to lift Him up. Truly, I would rather be defeated in a cause that will ultimately triumph, than triumph in a cause that will ultimately be defeated. Then let us stand with the conquerors. Amen

Boucock's Defeat Dunham's To Take Second Half Title

The city softball season ended last night with Boucock's Butchers beating the Dunham Transfermen 12 to 11 to even the honors between the traditionally rival teams, Dunham's holding first place for the first half of the season and Boucock's taking the second half leadership. By mutual consent of the managers and players the season ended with last night's game, and no playoff for the city championship is contemplated. The action was taken because of the lateness of the season and the fact that several of the players will not be able to participate in further competition.

Boucock's came from behind twice last night to win the second half playoff and went ahead in the scoring only twice in the contest prior to pushing across the winning run.

Dunham's opened with two tallies in the first inning as the result of a single by Plin Laurance, a three bagger by Kenny Laurance and a single by Scherner. The Butchers failed to score until the third inning when two errors and a double by Morgan allowed Campbell, Morgan and Shinn to cross the plate, to bring the score to 3 to 2 for Boucock's. Dunham's however, promptly went out in the lead in the last of the third as the result of a hit and an error.

Meyers' Double Decisive.

The Transfermen lashed out seven hits off Campbell in the fourth inning to tally six runs, making the score 10 to 3. The Butchers kept plugging away, however, and added four runs in the fifth and a like number in the sixth to pass the Transfermen 11 to 10 only to have the score tied at 11-all in the last of the seventh, when Witters drove out a three-bagger to score Kenny Laurance after two were out. In the first of the eighth inning, Morgan led off with a double, Shinn walked. Baughman went down swinging and Meyers poled out a double to score Morgan. Heinz and Pengra grounded out.

Trying desperately to stay in the game, the Transfermen got Puckett on second base, in their half of the frame, but fast fielding cut off the run.

Campbell started on the mound for Boucock's, but having pitched 10 innings Thursday night surrendered the pitching duties to Shinn in the seventh inning. Kenny Laurance, pitching for Duham's was not up to his usual form and was rapped for 13 hits.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Boucock's ... 003 044 01—12	13	1
Dunham's ... 202 600 10—11	13	3

Hebert's Hurling Leads Padres To Victory Over Sacs

(By the Associated Press)

Sacramento batters couldn't seem to see Southpaw Hebert's offerings last night and the Padres won, 7-1, to gain a 3-1 edge in the series over the faltering leaders of the coast league.

It was Hebert's twenty-first Coast league victory, putting him one game behind Terry, outstanding Padres pitcher, whose recall last week-end by the Boston Red Sox caused the Padres' fans plenty of grief.

Second-place Seattle split a doubleheader with Portland, Portland winning the first, 2-1, and the Rainiers taking the 10-inning nightcap, 1-0. The net result of this was to put Seattle up a half game on Sacramento, now only five games ahead of Seattle and six ahead of third-place San Diego. Portland hurlers were Reid and Gonzales, each allowing nine hits in their games.

An eight-run splurge in the second inning by the San Francisco Seals gave them a 12-4 victory over Hollywood. Joyce, Seal hurler who became the father of a boy only a few hours before the game started, was nicked for 13 hits, but he kept them well scattered.

Los Angeles, dropping its fifth straight game, skidded into seventh place to swap position with Oakland. The Oaks' new pitcher, Chelini, recently from Indianapolis, kept the Angels well under control. The final score showed Oakland ahead, 5-3.

Medwick Fattens Brooklyn's Lead

By GAYLE TALBOT
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Joe Medwick, elderly outfielder who cost the Brooklyn Dodgers something more than $100,000 last season is the "solid man" of the Dodgers these days. He is crowding the league leaders with a batting average of .316, has hit 17 homers, and has slugged 74 runs across the plate, including the two that proved the eventual undoing of the Giants yesterday.

In yesterday's encounter, with the Dodgers clinging worriedly to a 5-4 lead in the ninth, Bartell of the Giants whammed one far into left field that looked like the business, but Medwick made a running, leaping stab of the pellet and wrapped up victory for Pitcher Wyatt.

It was an important win for the Dodgers, as it fattened their lead over the idle Cards to a game and a half.

The Dodgers won yesterday's game (the only one played in the National league) by jumping Schumacher for six hits and five runs in the fifth inning.

The American league also was busy changing partners, and in the only contest played the St. Louis Browns smote the Chicago White Sox, 5 to 2, as Auker recorder his 13th triumph. Berardino's double with the bases loaded in the third put the Browns in front 5-0.
