Russia's Great Gold Supply Makes Her Credit Good

AP Feature Service
WASHINGTON — When Jesse Jones, who has loaned more money than any man in U. S. history, says Russia is "a good credit risk," it's another way of saying Russia is one of the few nations left with any gold in the family sock.

The soviets haven't been giving out with the sums buried under the loose bricks in the Kremlin, but it should be plenty. In 1938, the last year for which figures are available, Russia was second only to South Africa in total gold production. That year the red government gleaned a tidy 5,236,000 ounces of gold from Russian mines, valued at $183,260,000.

Gold Production High
Since then, Russia has expanded her gold production. Best estimates put her annual production at between $250,000,000 and $300,000,000 annually. A rich "strike" has been made on the phrey's company E, 1st regiment, 2nd brigade, on July 4, 1878, and was discharged on August 24, 1878. He spent the greater part of his life in Oregon but had made his home at Crescent City for the past several years.

Surviving are his widow, Deliah May Wheeler of Crescent City.

Military services will be held at the Veterans' cemetery Friday morning at ten o'clock. Arrangements are in charge of the Douglas Funeral home.

Kolyma river in Siberia, and a new town has gone up there to house the miners.

Geologists say formations on the Russian side of the Bering sea, across from Alaska, are much the same as the fabulous gold-bearing deposits in the Alaskan area. Exploration has only recently been undertaken, but already new placer sands have been found.

Have Huge Trade Balance
Check on foreign exchange figures for the last few years shows the soviets have been hoarding for a rainy day. Despite heavy purchases, Russia hasn't shipped much gold, having held a relatively favorable trade balance. For instance, the Russians now have some $40,000,000 in trade credits on deposit in the United States to pay for any military knickknacks we can spare.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.
