American Legion Auxiliary Activities

By MRS. CLAUDE BAKER
Tuesday night at eight o'clock the combined groups of post and unit will meet for their first fun festival. The armory will echo with the fun we know. That veritable whirlwind of pep, J. E. Pounds, will lead the groups. This is only the beginning of many such meetings.

You are urged to watch your papers for time of radio programs coming from the national convention in Milwaukee. President Roosevelt, Mayor La Guardia, Lord Halifax and many other notables of the country will address the delegates. There will be music, beautiful music. The unit is emphasizing the importance of music this month.

Now is the time for music, Mrs. Enid Lemstra, national president states. Now is the time to join in a mighty chorus of faith and courage. Now is the time for all Americans to look about them, to see their blessings, to resolve never to give them up, and to join in a mighty hymn to America and all it stands for, a hymn that will ring around the world, bringing to every ear that hears it the knowledge that freedom is not dead, and will live forever.

Did you hear that organ recital of mighty music played by Florence Grow at the console of the Indian theater organ? That is a sample of the many other lovely and stirring radio programs which you will hear from the American Legion auxiliary this year. Sue Parkinson is radio chairman again. Her programs were so outstanding last year that Roseburg received much favorable comment from the state convention. The auxiliary is indebted to the personnel of KRNR for helping to make these programs outstanding. If you have enjoyed these will you drop us a card and let us know?

School has begun. As never before the Legion and its units are stressing Americanism. The critical conditions which face the world today offer an unprecedented challenge to the schools of the nation. Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of Chicago schools has urged for his teachers a teaching program of positive Americanism. Never before in the history of this country has a crisis appeared in the world, he says, which more directly affects education than the present day assault upon the ideas and ideals of the democratic way of life. Every teacher who enters the classroom, he states, must accept as a sacred mission the use of American ideas to teach American ideals to America's children. One question which he submitted to his teachers was:

In what way or ways is your teaching of your subject or class so centered as to inspire a real respect for American institutions and the American way of life?

These big, stalwart fellows who were being initiated into senior high Friday, who looked so provocative dressed in their debutante clothes, with their rosy cheeks and lips are a good example of our American way. We of Roseburg and America are developing a fine quality of American citizenship and a practical basis for democratic life.

Umpqua unit of the American Legion auxiliary extends to each teacher a cordial welcome to Roseburg. May we reiterate, there is no subject in our elementary and high schools which cannot be so organized as to furnish an effective influence toward teaching Americanism.

Bess Riege, president, has urged that all those having shrubs for the Rose school park will contact Mrs. Roy Young. If you are making cuttings or thinning will you see her before disposing of them. A shrub sale will be held, she states, in the very near future.

Mrs. Lee Merchant, sewing chairman, has urged that any who will aid in sewing come to the child welfare rooms. The unit will aid the Red Cross this year. Each first and third Wednesday afternoons will find a group at the auxiliary child welfare rooms on the third floor of the Medical Arts building. A cup of tea will help the work go faster.

Listen for the radio program at 5 o'clock Tuesday. At eight the big social for post and unit. Only one business meeting a month is the verdict of the Riegels. Will we enjoy Legion this year?

Player Lack Felt By R. H. S. Coach

Thirteen members of last year's football squad so far have failed to report for practice this season, according to Coach Jim Davis, who frankly is worried over prospects this year because of the apparent lack of interest. Some of the players who had been expected to be prospects for this year's team have moved from the city. Melvin Baker, expected to be one of the stalwarts of this year's team, recently suffered an injury which forced amputation of the fingers of his right hand, after the hand was mangled in a hay baling machine. The thirteen players so far absent from practice are all juniors and seniors with one or two years of playing experience. Coach Davis reports, and their loss is being keenly felt.

WOOL

BOSTON, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

"The request of the government for bids on 8,700,000 yards of military fabrics and one million blankets to be opened next Monday, has been the spark plug to set off a buying movement in wool this week, which has accounted for several million pounds of medium wools at advances of two to three cents in the grease. There has been a good demand also for fine and half-blood territory and Texas wools at prices which are two to three cents higher, clean basis."

"Buying in the west has been more pronounced, also, especially in Wyoming, Texas, New Mexico and Colorado and to a limited extent in Oregon. Sales have been fairly heavy in the bright wool states at rises proportional to the eastern states."

"The piecegoods markets are tightened more or less by the new orders for government goods and consumption continues well above eighty million pounds a month, greasy equivalent."

"Foreign markets are usually quiet and unchanged. England is releasing more British fleece wools for export to this country. "Considerable adult mohair out of the fall clip has been purchased in Texas at 55 cents to the grower but kids held at 80 cents arouse no interest."
