Menace of Inflation: WHY this sudden furore about inflation, anyway? Who cares? You care, for one.

And that begins to get along to almost everybody. The spectacular losses in a period of inflation come to those who have money.

Many more people have a stake in preserving some kind of stability in the relationship between money and the prices of things than ever before.

So every man and woman working under Social Security has a stake in preventing inflation, even though many of them are apparently not conscious of it.

That is why every effort must be made now to restrain the rising price-wage cycle. That is why the government is trying to sell Defense Bonds.

The prospect of inflation is not something that concerns only the rich. It concerns every man, woman and child in the United States, and the children, perhaps, most of all.

Over the Top: THE goal of $10,750,000 for the United Service Organizations has been passed, National Campaign Chairman Dewey has announced.

The heartening thing about it is not that the goal should be exceeded—so great a country could scarcely fail to reach so small a goal, but in the large number of communities and people who gladly took part.

the army, and requires that they serve longer, the USO campaign will have proved just a starter. But it is an encouraging starter.

Reward of Appeasement

RUSSIA must be industriously kicking itself these days. In the 18 months just before Germany turned on the friend who had tried to appease her, Russia sent Germany a million tons of oil, including lubricants and aviation gasoline.

Now that same aviation gasoline, or its equivalent, is being used to bomb Moscow; those same lubricants, or their equivalent, smooth the way for the panzer divisions in their drive on Leningrad and other vital cities.

By the way, how are our own oil shipments to Japan going?

ing the final attack on it.

THE Germans are reported to be within 30 miles of Rostov, at the mouth of the Don river, which is a logical springboard for a drive into the oil fields of the Caucasus.

Today's dispatches tell us that Afghanistan has decided to expel all Germans and Italians. That sounds like an insignificant incident in a world at war.

Afghanistan closes the last gap in a new front linking Iraq, Iran, Afghanistan and Russia east of the Volga. Back of this front lies INDIA.

The job for which Wavell has been preparing is getting closer.

says today:

"Japan has reached a crossroads in her destiny. The situation calls for iron unity among all the fighting arms and the PEOPLE to cope with encirclement of Japan by foreign powers."

Japan imposes a drastic mail censorship.

Amplifying in an interesting and perhaps sinister way his reference to unity on the part of the Japanese people, he adds: "It is my firm purpose to insure peace and ORDER."

Tojo holds the post of home minister, and as such he controls the civilian police.

The inference is that he is going ahead regardless of the state of feeling in Japan.

THE conclusion is unavoidable that Japan's military leaders have decided that Hitler has victory in his grasp in Russia and that NOW is the time for Japan to get on the winning side.

A Chinese army spokesman says today that Japan has massed 20 divisions at Russia's back door in Manchukuo and that four more divisions are enroute there.)

MEANWHILE:

General Holtz, German commandant of the Nantes region in occupied France, is shot and killed today. He was fired on by two assailants; one using a shotgun and the other a pistol. Both escaped in the confusion and German and French authorities are searching for them.

Hatred of Hitler is growing in the countries he has conquered.

Defense Bond Quiz

Q. Does the Government make redemption of Defense Savings Bonds difficult?

A. Not at all. After a short period the owner of a bond can follow a simple procedure to get his money. See the list of redemption values printed on your bond, and instructions for redeeming it.

A. Yes. They are the same as Stamps on sale at post offices and elsewhere.

Note: To buy Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office, bank, or savings and loan association; or write to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C. Also Stamps are now on sale at retail stores.

Wm. Fox, Ex-Film Tycoon, Sentenced To Prison, 1 Year

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21.—(AP)—William Fox, bankrupt former movie producer, was sentenced in U. S. district court today to a year and a day in federal penitentiary and fined $3,000 on his plea of guilty to a charge of conspiracy to obstruct justice and defraud the United States.

Jointly accused with Fox, retired U. S. Circuit Judge J. Warren Davis and former Bankruptcy Referee Morgan S. Kaufman were tried twice with jury disagreements resulting in both instances. Remaining indictments against the two will be dismissed, the attorney general's office has announced.

Testifying as a government witness at the Davis-Kaufman trials, Fox said he gave the jurist $27,500 in unsecured loans in what the government charged was an effort to influence decisions on the former movie producer's bankruptcy cases then before circuit court. Kaufman, accused as go-between in the financial deals, and Davis denied ever receiving the money from Fox.

The 56-year-old Fox, a one-time immigrant boy from Hungary, was worth some $35,000,000 a dozen years ago as head of vast moving picture enterprises valued at $165,000,000.

Ruling on Jobless Pay Upsets Order Of Oregon Board

SALEM, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The Oregon unemployment compensation commission lost a supreme court case today which the commission said might cause depletion of its reserve fund out of which jobless benefits are paid.

The decision ordered that benefits be paid to Thomas Layman, faller and buckler for the Crown Zellerbach corporation, for January and February, 1938, when the corporation shut down operations at its Lewis and Clark logging operation in Clatsop county. The commission had denied him benefits on grounds that during those months, the corporation ordinarily shuts down operations because it is seasonal.

Circuit Judge Howard K. Zimmerman, sitting in Multnomah county, upheld the commission, but the supreme court, in today's decision by Justice Lusk, held that the commission exceeded its authority in making the seasonality determination.

"The plea that the fund may be depleted if the commission's decision is not sustained, and that excessive benefit payments are being made in the logging industry x x x might well be addressed to the legislature, but, we think, have no place here or before the commission," the opinion said.

"If the statute is not workable, then the remedy is with the legislature, which apparently has already seen the necessity of change in respect of particular provisions with which we have been dealing," it continued.

Under the unemployment compensation law's seasonality clause, amended by the 1941 legislature, men who work in seasonal industries are not paid benefits during seasons in which these industries are closed down. The supreme court decision showed that the corporation had operated during January and February of some years, hence it could not be classed as seasonal.

DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHAS. A. EDWARDS

I will trust and not fear, Emerson wrote. "Self-trust is the essence of heroism." The Bible sees it differently. When trust in oneself is utterly gone, there is still the real source of heroism: "Trust in God," not looking inward, but outward toward God, who finds the power that will banish fear. At first, this may be a turning to God when one is in desperation. "It is a miserable business, says Plautus, waiting till thrust has you by the throat before you dig the well, and this calling upon God only in emergencies is pretty poor religion, but at least it is a beginning. Gradually, this trust becomes a habit. We no longer have to go through the initial stage of panic before reaching out for help. Eventually we learn to move out from, "what time I am afraid, I will trust in thee," to the calmer, more continuous victory and say, "I will trust and not be afraid." Not to be afraid does not mean refusing to recognize danger, but holding on to values that endure through all danger. It was such values that Jesus had in mind when He said, "Be not afraid of them that kill the body and after that have no more they can do. To be free from fear is better than to be free from danger. Almost everyone we meet these days seems to be fear-ridden, fear of germs, fear of hunger, fear of the future. We need to learn that "perfect love casteth out all fear." Amen.

Tilt Over Courses At Higher Schools Will be Renewed

PORTLAND, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Claude Buchanan, president of the Oregon Taxpayers' federation, said today the University of Oregon and Oregon State college were preparing to renew a battle over science and commercial courses.

He said the matter was to come up at the state board of higher education meeting at Ashland next Monday and Tuesday.

"The university covets the department of pure science that was allocated to the college by the survey commission, enjoined by state law in 1920. No doubt the college will counter by requesting that commerce, that was developed at the Corvallis institution, and allocated to the university, be restored to the college. All of which will mean reinstatement of the principle of duplication of courses at the separate institutions and defeat the principle for which the unified system was created," Buchanan said.

"Taxpayers are entitled to know why the board has chosen to receive the chancellor's recommendation and take action on this important matter as far as possible from the interests involved," he added.

Buchanan said he was making his statement in an effort to call the board's action to public attention.
