Nazi Drive Aims at Russia's Supply Ports

lian territory won by their Finnish allies.

Hitler's high command, however, asserted that German and Finnish troops had destroyed large parts of a soviet division, captured 700 pillboxes and taken 1,200 prisoners in northern Karelia.

The nazi high command yesterday reported the capture of Tikhvin, 110 miles southeast of Leningrad, in a drive north from the Novgorod sector to join forces with the Finns and thereby completely isolate Leningrad by blocking off the last open route to the eastward.

Crimea Drive Continues

In the Crimea, a bulletin from Adolf Hitler's field headquarters said German and Rumanian troops were continuing to advance against the great Black sea naval base of Sevastopol and the port of Kerch, gateway to the Caucasus.

Details of the new gains were not given. Previous reports had placed the Germans about 20 miles from Sevastopol and slightly farther away from Kerch, with the Russians fiercely defending both points.

Italy Suffers New Losses

In aerial warfare, the Italian high command said British planes again attacked the cities of Naples and Brindisi during the night, and that victims of last week's RAF raid on Brindisi, at the heel of Italy's boot, had risen from 38 to 96 killed and the wounded to 200.

The British admiralty announced that three Italian destroyers were sunk, instead of one previously claimed, and two badly damaged in the battle against an Italian Mediterranean convoy Sunday, in which the fascists acknowledged a loss of seven merchant ships and two destroyers.

Rebels Take Toll

Behind the battlefields, Premier Mussolini's high command reported an attack on Italian troops with bombs and machine-guns at Spalato (Split) in the Dalmatia area of axis-conquered Yugo-Slavia.

The fascist communique said three bombs were hurled at a musical band of Alpine division troops, wounding 24 soldiers and 25 civilians. One of the soldiers later died.

Almost simultaneously, the communique said, a burst of machine-gun fire sprayed a truckload of troops, wounding several.

The communique said 150 alleged communists were arrested as hostages following the attacks.

Meanwhile, Prime Minister Winston Churchill shied at new demands raised in the house of commons for the RAF to bomb Rome.

"Do you really think it is wise to provide a hideout for that rat Mussolini?" asked Commander Sir Archibald Southby.

But Churchill declined to go beyond his previous statement that the RAF would bomb Rome "if the course of the war should render such an action convenient and helpful."

Long-Term Projects Are Advised by C. of C. Head

Chambers of commerce should organize around long-term projects, Arthur Farmer, manager of the Portland chamber of commerce declared Monday in speaking before the weekly forum luncheon program of the Roseburg chamber. The forum meeting was attended by the members of the Kiwanis club, who advanced their club session from Tuesday to Monday because of the holiday. Mr. Farmer stated that the chambers of commerce of the state now are taking up civilian defense work and thus are utilizing the resources generally expended in short-time projects. However, he said, programs should include activities which look well into the future and provide continuing goals.

Indiana Fence Post Center Of U. S. Population

CARLISLE, Ind., Nov. 11.—(AP)—The new center of population of the United States is a fence post alongside a blacktop road two miles southeast of this southwestern Indiana village.

It's a corner post, with a winter wheat field on one side and a bluegrass pasture, complete with cows, horses, and two mules, on the other. Across the road is a corn field.

The new population center, decided by the census bureau at Washington, is in a region of rich, black farms at the edge of Indiana coal fields.

Owen W. Collins and his wife live on a farm nearest the new center and operates a 225-acre farm on land which has been in the Collins family for three generations. Collins said "nothing very exciting ever happens around here," and "so far as I know there never even has been an automobile accident beside that fence post."

The new population center, as decided by the census bureau, is not the middle point from which an approximately equal number of people live in each direction. The selection was made by picking the spot on which the map of the United States could be balanced on the point of a pin if every living person had the same weight.

The new center is about 13 miles west and about 7.9 miles south of where it was in 1930 and about 602 miles west and 22.5 miles south of the center determined in the first American census in 1790.

He Saw Submarines

Leonardo da Vinci, famous painter, visualized the submarine more than 400 years ago. He refused, however, to put it on paper "on account of the evil nature of men, who would practice assassination at thebottom of the seas by breaking the hulls of boats and wrecking them with all on board."

Irishman Sees Red

Patrick W. Ireland of Dublin, Georgia, tried to enlist in the United States Marine Corps at Atlanta, Georgia. He was rejected because he was unable to recognize the color green. Examining officers said all colors looked red to Ireland.

Any capable recruit in the U. S. navy can learn how to make the standard 16 knots and splices in an hour or two, but it takes him two weeks to learn how and when to use them, and to know them by name.
