American Legion Auxiliary Activities

By MRS. CLAUDE BAKER

"It is good just to be an American," commented Commander Irvin Riegel to the Legion and its auxiliary this week. "No finer heritage could be given a man," he said. His birthright includes many things that the men of other nations can only yearn for, knowing that there is slight possibility that they will ever be realized.

"Being an American," continued Commander Riegel, "carries an obligation that cannot be met by thanks alone; there is a duty to preserve our liberties, that our children may also enjoy them; a duty to defend our nation against attacks from without and within. It will be our future duty to make this country better as a home for all, that we may all rejoice and be thankful."

"The members of the American Legion," Commander Riegel said, "and its million members are grateful for the privileges we enjoy as American citizens and thankful for the strength and courage to carry on our program—to serve God and country."

"We are thankful for our auxiliary," Umppqua post's commander stated with a smile, "for our auxiliary, 600,000 strong. For our mothers, wives, sisters and daughters united in one common cause, to honor the dead by serving the living."

Rev. Perry Smith, legionnaire and past national chaplain of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, commented in a similar vein when he said, "To be thankful is not enough. We must give service or that spirit from truly grateful hearts will live. Only so can our country live," he said. "For God and country we associate ourselves together."

President Bess Riegel in speaking of the program of the auxiliary explained that they are giving energetic services in all fields where the patriotic work of women can be effective. "We need greater strength than ever before," she said, "because of the greater need for the work we are in a position to do. We are urging all eligible women of the Roseburg vicinity to come into our unit now and help us carry forward our great program of service. We have 107 members already since October." President Bess, pleased with her unit, said, "That is a lot of members for the first month."

Hundreds of thousands of women throughout the country are now enrolling in the auxiliary because that is the place where they can enlist for patriotic service, said National Defense Chairman Christine Micelli. The auxiliary is still chuckling over the silly antics of the Legion as they entertained the unit this week. They always do whatever they attempt right royally. And such eats! The women declared they hadn't before tasted the like. Friendship is a warming thing. Those made within the Legion family are most dear. "It's just a sense of friendliness for those who cross our road. With just a helping hand or two for easing up the load. But sometimes it is just a smile that lights the good we've wrought. And that's our thought of friendliness. A smile, a touch, a thought."

POET'S CORNER

WE ARE THANKFUL As we approach Thanksgiving Day, We're thankful in the usual way, For blessings great and blessings small. But most of all— We're thankful good old U. S. A. No cruel despot must obey, That justice still prevails, And liberty regales. Our thanks for this, and even more— That war has not yet touched our shore; For scarcely nowhere else on earth Can words like these be given birth. Then let us now together kneel, And humbly let us make appeal To do our part to keep the peace So dear to all, and that war will cease. —Malinda Oederkirch
