

RHS Basketball Prospects Don't Look Promising

Prospects for basketball in Roseburg high school are not overly encouraging for the 1942 season, according to Jim Davis, coach. The team will be lacking in height and experience, although there will be fair speed and plenty of spirit, Coach Davis reports.

From among the towering Indians, all over six feet in height, only one player, Ed Hughes, is left for this year, and from the reserve squad of last season, only one player—John Ness—remains. Six players from last year's B squad are turning out for practice this year, and show promise of making places on the working squad. They are Gerald Denny, Harold Cacy, Melvin Baker, Lee Wimberly, Sam Shoemaker and Mickey Campbell. At the same time there are several promising sophomores, members of last year's junior high school squad. They are Merlin Anderson, Art Stephens, Ward Cummings, Bill Hohnstein, George Vincent and Jack Maulding.

Other players who survived the first cut of the squad are Craig Dishman, Tom Hastings, Dick Sands, Dick Hendricks and George James.

From the approximately 30 players who turned out to start the practice season, Coach Davis now has reduced the squad to 22 of those showing the most promise, and from this group will be selected the A and B squads to represent the school this year.

The practice of putting young and inexperienced players in a B squad to play games with county teams and with various schools of the state, has been of great value in past seasons in developing material for A squads.

Practice so far, the coach reports, has been devoted largely to fundamentals, as the majority of the squad has had but little basketball experience. Efforts are being made to shape up a team for participation in the conference jamboree to be held at Medford, December 19. Coach Davis also is planning to arrange several games for the holiday season. The first conference game of the season will be played here January 13 against Ashland high school.

Prospects are that the local team will be rather slow in developing but should make steady improvement as the season progresses, Davis states.

Swastika Hangs High as Spoils of War

First flag captured by the American Navy in the battle of the Atlantic, this Swastika hangs as a souvenir in the office of Secy. of Navy Knox in Washington. It was taken from the German freighter Odenwald, although the Odenwald was flying the Stars and Stripes—not the Swastika—when captured.
