Keep 'em Flying

The war phrase "Keep 'em Flying" does not refer entirely to airplanes, or so it seems to us. It has a general reference to planes, flags, sports and that intangible though important something known as morale.

There is a war going on but we must live. Therefore we should endeavor to live as sensibly and as calmly and as nearly normally as possible. And why is that so important? Simply that this is a war in which civilian production plays a part equal in importance to that of the efforts of the armed forces.

Production of needed war materials and supplies will best be maintained by normally efficient workers—not frightened, unhappy workers, living abnormal lives. There is no genuine need for the curtailment of usual activities so long as there is no actual state of emergency on this coast. We should be able to enjoy our usual amusements, the usual school athletic events, and ordinary conventions of various organizations should be held just as usual.

A few conventions are scheduled to be held in Roseburg during 1942. None of them are unusually large—the state convention of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows being the largest—and it does not seem possible that any military or defense problem could be caused by such an assembly.

In this connection it is interesting to note that the city of San Francisco had 98 conventions scheduled for 1942 when the war began. Only one of these has been cancelled. Plans for the other 97 are in full swing.

If there is no objection to conventions being held in San Francisco there should certainly be none to a little convention or so in Roseburg.

By the Old Moulmein Pagoda—THE Old Moulmein pagoda probably isn't lookin' so lary at the sea these days as it did in the days when Kipling and Speaks were providing ammunition for three decades of barton, es in "The Road to Mandalay."

The road from Rangoon to Mandalay is a bloody road these days. Itangoon has been bombed, and so has Moulmein.

But the sun is coming up like thunder out of China, 'cross the bay, and it isn't the Japanese rising sun, either. There are rays of that sunrise plainly visible now at Changsha. There are rays visible in Chinese reinforcements in Kipling's beloved Burma.

Yes, we can hope for a real sunrise in East Asia after 40 years of dark Japanese clouds, and this only had feature of that is the fact that it may encourage the baritones.

Editorials on News

WHOLLY under the thumb of the ruler and are used primarily for propaganda.

War propaganda has two main purposes: To deceive, confuse and terrify the enemy and to ENCOURAGE the people at home.

Tokyo, Berlin and Rome have no scruples about using their press and radio for these purposes. You must take that fact into consideration in reading or listening to ALL news from axis sources.

FROM time to time bits of news given out by the axis prove to be accurate (especially when they deal with axis victories). So you can't afford to disregard them entirely. But in reading them ALWAYS CONSIDER THE SOURCE. Never believe them implicitly. Always check them against other sources.

If you will take a look at a map of the Bataan peninsula, you will see at once the reason for MacArthur's success in holding back a superior force. His front is narrow. His flanks are protected by water or by precipitous mountains.

Always, since war began, small forces have chosen such positions for stubborn stands against superior forces.

The pass of Thermopylae, where Leonidas and his 1400 Greeks held back the Persian hordes, was a narrow front, protected on one side by the sea and on the other by the mountains.

In such positions, the superior attacking force is compelled to make a costly frontal attack. In open country, it can pour around the ends, enveloping and smothering the smaller body of defenders.

THE British have had a narrow front on the Malay peninsula with water on both flanks, but the Japs have apparently possessed sufficient naval superiority to enable them to outflank the defending British BY WATER.

THE war picture, admittedly dark in the Pacific, is brighter elsewhere—at the moment.

The British take Halfaya pass by storm, thus clearing the road along the Mediterranean for supply of the British advanced armies pushing on westward toward Tripoli. In the past, British supply lines have been compelled to detour over a hazardous desert trail 100 miles to the south.

The Russians are reported to be shoving down parachute troops in the rear of the Germans at Moshaisk on the Moscow front. Their hope is to trap the Germans defending that advanced point.

WE must learn to size up each day the WHOLE SITUATION, balancing the bright spots against the dark ones, being not too cast down by the darker places in the news and not too cocksure as a result of the brighter ones.

Only in that way can we maintain national efficiency. National efficiency is all-important.

Letter Given 11 Grid Players of Roseburg High

Eleven football players received their letters in the assembly at Roseburg senior high last Friday. It is necessary to play one-half of the total playing time to win this award. Last season Roseburg played eight games, winning three, tying one and losing four. This is a much better than usual and since only two lettermen will graduate this year, next season should be still better.

Coach Davis presented letters to Tony Anderson and Marcus Wells, seniors; Bob Myers, Eugene Peterson, Ieb Holmquist, Charles Single, Lee Wimberly, Jack Calkins and Bert Young, juniors, and Bill Turner and George Vincent, sophomores. Sam Shoemaker was given the manager's award. Tony Anderson and Bert Young were selected on the Lane-Douglas all-star team following last season's play.

Young Japanese Slain By Store Bandits

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Police throughout British Columbia's lower mainland today pressed an intensive hunt for three holdup men who last night fatally shot a young Japanese as they held up a small confectionery store operated by his parents.

The men shot down 27-year-old Yoshiyuki Uno as the young Japanese attempted to tackle them, running from a living room behind the store when his mother called for help.

An automobile, believed by police to have been used by the holdup trio, was discovered early today several miles from the scene of the shooting. Police also are in possession of a shoe, believed to have been lost by one of the fleeing bandits.

British Announce Loss Of 58th Destroyer

LONDON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The admiralty announced tonight that the 900-ton British destroyer Vimera had been sunk.

The Vimera was one of Britain's oldest destroyers. She was of the 1917 design, rearmored for escort duty just before the outbreak of war in 1919.

The Vimera was the 38th destroyer Britain has reported lost since the war began.

Oregon U. Downs Huskies; Cougars Beaten by Idaho

(By the Associated Press)

There was a growing suspicion that the University of Washington had put the evil eye on basketball teams in the northern division of the Pacific coast conference; but that's all over now and everybody can get down to work.

The myth of Washington's ju-ju was broken decisively Saturday night by a University of Oregon team which had not looked too much like a myth-breaker before. The score was 54 to 35, and practically everybody but Washington was happy about it. The loss finished off a Washington winning streak of 13 straight games, including pre-season affairs, but left the Huskies still with a slender lead in the conference standings.

Oregon resorted to something the sports writers called a floating zone defense whatever that is—to brow the victory; but Sophomore Bob Wren was even more potent with 13 points scored in the usual manner. Oregon took the lead after Washington had six points and kept it thereafter in the face of the Washington three-wagon offense. The half-time score was 29-16.

The Saturday night victory ended the Oregon-Washington two-game series at Eugene and added a hopeful outlook for Oregon State, which entertains the Huskies tonight and tomorrow at Corvallis. Last year, the first road trip might as well have been the last for Washington; and Oregon State had plans to make this year's jaunt into the Oregon hinterlands equally costly for the Seattle team.

Idaho Beats Cougars. Idaho sprang last week's other surprise, also Saturday night by showing how to beat a champion. The victim was Washington State, division-conference-western champion last year, and the score was 30-28, with Ray Turner running up half of Idaho's points. Idaho took the lead just before the first half ended and made the clay and bare type of play pay dividends the rest of the game. The Idaho-Washington State fracas resumes this week with two games, Friday at Moscow and Saturday at Pullman. And on Saturday, Oregon and Oregon State, to whom the rest of the division is always more or less of an afterthought anyhow, begin their annual face-making at each other with one game at Eugene.

DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHAS. A. EDWARDS

Alfred Tennyson, in his immortal "Morte D'Arthur," gives us one of the finest examples of stewardship outside the pages of Holy Writ. King Arthur, sorely wounded, was carried to "a chapel nigh the field, a broken chancel with a broken cross." There he commissioned Sir Bedivere his only being bright to take his sword, "Excalibur," the symbol of his kingship, and cast it back into the lake from whence it came. Twice the knight, overcome by the wonder of the weapon, hid it among the weeds and told the king the deed was done. But Arthur detected the lie and sent him again to the lake. The third time the knight hurled the sword far out into the lake. An arm grasped the hilt and waving it three times, drew it beneath the water. He saw the miracle as a reward for the faithfulness. Christ in His passing, gave us a command to go into all the world and preach the gospel to all nations. He will never allow us to sit at ease until that command has been carried out. We must fling the sword of the spirit to another to defend the truth. If we have fulfilled our stewardship obligations to Him and have been faithful while miracles of his grave we behold. Amen.

Sacred Heart hospital in Eugene, is able to be up around the house the last few days.

Myron (Pat) O'Dowd, who has been clerking at the Benedict store at Tenmile, has resigned his position there and expects to work for the Beck mill in Camas cutting cord wood.

Wendal Neval is spending a few days at the home of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Neval, at Bandon. Wendal has been receiving treatment at the Doornbecher hospital in Portland and is reported to be in much better health.

Mrs. Maurine Bove shopped and visited friends in Roseburg Wednesday.

Draft Deferment For Shepherders Asked

YAKIMA, Wash., Jan. 19.—(AP)—A flexible price fixing plan and deferment of shepherders from military service was asked by Washington Wool Growers association members in convention here.

Changes in the cost of production of wool should be taken into account to permit price revisions should a price fixing plan be adopted, the growers said. It was suggested the government should guarantee prices for three years after the close of the war if quotations are fixed now.

Shepherders are essential to successful production, they said, in requesting that draft boards grant deferments from military service.

Your Federal Income Tax

No. 13 Returns of Income of Minors

An individual, although a minor, who is single, or is married and not living with husband or wife for any part of the taxable year, is required to render a return of income if he has a gross income of his own of $750 or over for the taxable year. If the aggregate gross income of such minor from any property which he possesses, and from any funds held in trust for him by a trustee or guardian, and from his earnings which belong to him is $750, a return, as in the case of any other individual, must be made by him or for him by his guardian, or other person charged with the care of his person or property. If under the laws of the state the earnings of the minor belong to the minor, such earnings, regardless of amount, are not required to be included in the return of the parent. In the absence of proof to the contrary, a parent will be assumed to have the legal right to the earnings of the minor and must include them in his return.

Where a minor is married and living with his spouse for the entire taxable year, and each has income and their combined gross income is $1,500 or over, they must each make a return or file a joint return. If only one has income and his gross income is $1,500 or over, only that one is required to make a return.

Where a minor is married and living with his spouse for only part of the taxable year, and each has income and their combined gross income is $1,500 or over, or equal to, or in excess of, their total personal exemption (not including credit as head of family or for dependents), they must each make a return or file a joint return. If only one has income and his gross income is $1,500 or over, or equal to, or in excess of, his personal exemption (not including credit as head of a family or for dependents), only that one is required to file a return.
