Court Kayoes 49c Wheat Penalty

DAYTON, O., Mar. 14.—(AP)—A three-judge federal court held invalid today federal government imposition of 49-cent a bushel penalties on wheat grown in excess of AAA marketing quotas.

It was a two-to-one decision. The majority opinion made no mention of the wheat control act's constitutionality. Judge Florence Allen, the dissenting judge, held that the act was constitutional.

The case, brought by Montgomery county farmers against Carl R. Helke, county agricultural adjustment administration chairman and Agricultural Secretary Wickard was the first of its kind in the nation.

Federal Judges Robert Nevin and John H. Druffel ruled that an amendment of the wheat act increasing the penalty from 15 to 49 cents amounted to taking the farmers' property without due process.

They pointed out that the penalty increase was imposed after last summer's crop was planted.

Judge Allen maintained that the 49-cent penalty was valid.

The doctor across the street knows everything. He knows it vocally and beligerently. So when, in his best professional voice, he said: "My engine's full of carbon—it's the gasoline I'm using." I let him have it—but good!

"Look, Jim, very little carbon comes from gasoline. It comes mostly from unstable elements in motor oil! It cooks out under engine heat and clogs up your rings, makes engines knock, and raises havoc generally."

"So what do I do?" asked the doctor. "So you use Triton Motor Oil," I replied. "So why—because you say so?" says the great surgeon. "No, because tests prove that you should. 'Show me, brother!' says Doc.

I told him that lab tests of the 9 leading premium motor oils sold in the west showed that Triton contains 38% less carbon-forming elements than any of them—and a neat 86% less than the average of all nine of them!

Then I said that motorists have to make their present cars last for the duration, that it's more important than ever to keep engines free of carbon. He said he knew that already; but I have a hunch the doc will take no chances—he'll use Triton Motor Oil.

In case you are like the doc, and in case you're babying your engine with the finest in the land—then head for the nearest Union Oil station and get a crankcase of Triton Motor Oil and—stay with it!
