POET'S CORNER

SPRING ARRIVES

Over vales and purple mountains Spring arrived, without a care, Trailing birds and bees and flowers

Blithsomenly in sun-drenched air, Dancing in and out the bowers, Lightly skipping on the lea, Scattering now and then a shower

As she tripped along with glee; Till she came to sunny Roseburg In the first faint dawn of day. Then, folding down her gauzy wings, She smiled and nestled there to stay.

Swallows Return to Capistrano on Schedule

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif., March 20.—(AP)—The swallows returned to mission San Juan Capistrano yesterday—St. Joseph's day—right on schedule.

Preceded by a small advance flock, the main band began arriving at 11:40 a. m. and continued to come in flocks of 50 to 100 at intervals.

There was little fighting between the swallows and the swifts and sparrows which occupy their nests under the mission eaves during the winter. The advance group apparently had discouraged the interlopers, and only a few were on hand when the main band of swallows arrived, said Father Arthur Hutchinson, mission padre.

Girl Patient's Father Sues Hospital, Doctors

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Mar. 21.—(AP)—A $10,000-damage suit was filed in federal district court yesterday by Albert O. Snyder, La Grande, Ore., against W. C. Jones Memorial Hospital, Grass Valley, and two attending physicians Dr. Carl Power Jones, and Dr. Harry Benteen, also of Grass Valley.

Snyder sued on behalf of his 11-year-old daughter, Betty Ann, whom he charged was taken to the hospital in May, 1939, for treatment for a gunshot wound in the abdomen.

The complaint alleges the child was burned between the knees and ankles while in the hospital, and didn't receive proper treatment and is scarred for life.

Mrs. America Meets the War

EDITOR'S NOTE: War touches every home and every citizen. This column, based on official government information and prepared by the Office For Emergency Management, shows how the war will affect Mrs. America and her home.

Many women, particularly on the Pacific coast, will be relieved to know that the government is now preparing to provide gas masks for all civilians who are likely to need them. The money has already been appropriated by congress—$100,000,000. Part of this money is being used for gas masks, the rest for auxiliary fire-fighting equipment, stretchers, cots, and other civilian supplies.

Warning: Don't under any circumstances buy masks from private retailers; such sales are prohibited by government order, because the masks are not made according to approved specifications. You can be assured that masks will be furnished to everyone, for adequate protection must not depend upon willingness or ability to buy.

Mrs. America will not only have to do more walking, but she will have to do it on second-grade soles. Eighty per cent of the top grade leather soles are to be set aside for the manufacture and repair of military shoes. Civilians will get the other twenty percent and the entire lower-grade output.

Housewives are getting help in their fight to hold down the cost of living. Quickly following the price regulation on canned vegetables and fruit, a price ceiling has been put on 90 per cent of America's pork products, including ham and bacon. In the struggle with the budget, this regulation will prove pretty important because pork products make up more than half of the whole meat supply of the nation.

If a Victory Garden is to be your next project, stop and consider. There may be a number of reasons why it would not be practical or economical for you to get out and dig. If you live in a large town or city, you probably have no adequate or advantageous place to grow vegetables. If you've never done much more than pamper an occasional geranium, you probably shouldn't undertake this kind of work. Seeds, fertilizer, tools and energy are all at a premium and must be used to the best advantage. A new pamphlet just published by the department of agriculture called "Victory Gardens" will guide you in making a decision. Even if you are an experienced gardener, you will probably be interested in the concise directions for planning and care of a small vegetable garden. The pamphlet may be secured from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., for five cents.

First the war took tin and iridium, copper and lead, away from the jewelry makers, and now it's out a ban or rhodium. Rhodium is a by-product of platinum and is used especially to give a non-tarnishing finish to such articles as compact and cigarette cases. Soon, although there's plenty of gold and silver, there just won't be any "junk jewelry" metals left. The manufacturers will have to use their ingenuity, and that will mean baubles of wood, shells, glass and painted macaroni!

Shirts for your husband, pajamas for junior, housedresses for yourself all have risen so sharply in price that a temporary ceiling has been set to freeze maximums at the prices prevailing between March 7 and 11. This order includes all finished piece goods made of cotton, rayon or their mixtures. Even the frozen prices are not what the government considers reasonable, and permanent regulations at still lower prices are now being worked out.

Mouton, that warm, good-looking, inexpensive fur which has been many a college girl's and young wife's favorite may not be so inexpensive this next season. Mouton is merely the name for shearing (lamb or sheep skin) that has been fur dressed, and all shearlings are in high demand by the army for aviation and Arctic clothing, as well as for gloves, helmets and boots. The price ceiling on shearlings has just been removed so that maximum supplies may be made available for these purposes. So your next mouton jacket will undoubtedly cost more—if you can get it!

Coffee is one food it wouldn't pay to hoard—if you wanted to. As every good housewife knows, roasted coffee does not retain its flavor if stored for any length of time. Anyway, the office of price administration says that stocks of coffee and cocoa in warehouses, both wholesale and retail, are adequate for some time.

Glass to the rescue! It's going to fill one of the biggest war jobs of the year as it turns into millions of jars, bottles, glasses and cups needed for civilian canning

Pooling of Trucking Equipment Probable

PORTLAND, Mar. 21.—(AP)—Pooling of trucking equipment, even by competing operators, may be required soon by the government, Frank E. Landsburg predicted. The district director of the Oregon-Washington motor carriers division of the interstate commerce commission said the plan might embrace both the logging and agricultural industries. Logging operators, he said, might be required to "double shift their operations and keep their trucks working" and if one logger has an idle truck it would be placed in the pool of idle equipment.

Landsburg said the limitation of truck quotas would mean that all applications would be considered "in relation to the war effort." He said 950 applications had been received by his office during the first 10 days of the rationing program. This is three times the quota for March in this district.
