Vote Friday, May 15

TODAY'S issue of the Roseburg News-Review might well be termed a "voter's guide." It is not a guide in the sense that an effort is made to tell the people of Douglas county how they should vote. Rather, it is a guide which furnishes the information whereby voters may secure the facts upon which to base an intelligent choice in their selection of candidates at the May primary election to be held Friday, May 15.

Every candidate who is seeking nomination at the forthcoming election was invited by the News-Review to present his statement to the voters of Douglas county in this candidates' edition. Nearly all accepted the invitation. Those who are not represented are candidates who failed to submit the information requested of them. The statements of policy, sentiment or belief contained in these announcements by the candidates themselves and do not necessarily reflect the views and opinions of the News-Review. This edition is a sincere attempt on the part of the News-Review to furnish to its readers a fair and impartial presentation of the respective candidates for office, without recommendation, in keeping with the policy which this newspaper endeavors to maintain of unbiased reporting of facts and issues.

It is a sad commentary on American political life when election forecasters predict that less than fifty per cent of the voters will go to the polls next Friday. We sincerely hope that these forecasters are mistaken. When the young men of this nation are facing death to preserve a democratic form of government, certainly the least those at home can be expected to do is to exercise those privileges of a democracy which our brave men in the armed services are fighting to defend. The times demand the selection of men who are firmly grounded in democratic principles, and it is the duty of every voter to see that such men are placed in positions of authority from the home precinct through every office to that of chief executive. Whenever the majority of the voters have interested themselves in the selection of candidates their collective judgment usually has proven to be sound. When few voters concern themselves in political affairs, private and selfish interests gain their footholds.

The News-Review today is presenting information concerning the respective candidates. It urges its readers to study each aspirant carefully and to select those men who in their opinions will best serve in the offices to be filled by election this year.

We repeat again that we make no recommendation how you should vote. We only ask that you: Vote! Vote as you please, but Vote!

easy mark a turning point in the war.

LATE news tells of wide-ranging blows by British bombers—The German manufacturing center of Stuttgart, the great Skoda arms works at Pilsen, in former Czechoslovakia, and Nantes, above St. Nazaire, on the Loire river in occupied France, being among the principal targets.

ed on Vichy.

IN Burma, the news goes from bad to worse. The Japs have crossed the border into China, and are now only 670 miles from Chungking. They have driven 500 miles from Rangoon in less than two months. Prospects of reinforcement of the British and Chinese defenders are poor.

THERE are hints of something beginning to develop in Russia.

Timoshenko, who has been gathering heavy Russian forces for weeks, is hitting harder. He has sent a message to Russian residents of German-occupied Ukraine telling them that "the Red army is on its way to liberate you."

He may be beating Hitler to the punch.

A London rumor (it comes out of Germany from sources that are said to have proved reliable in the past) relates that a group of Hitler's chief military aides, including Field Marshal von Brauchitsch, have told the Fuehrer that if his 1942 campaign against Russia fails they will attempt a "new order" in Germany on their own account. Their new order, the rumor goes, would include abolition of the Nazi system.

Hitler is said to have accepted the challenge calmly and to have appointed von Brauchitsch a member of his high command.

CROSS your fingers here. The tale sounds screwy. Keep in mind also that Germany might be stronger with Hitler out and the old German army crowd in.

ON the home front, the war production board orders production of practically all consumer durables made of iron and steel stopped within 90 days. After that, no metal save gold and silver may be used for making things for civilians to use.

Saws, hammers and screwdrivers are exempted from the list, which covers more than 400 products in everyday use.

The implication is that you'll have to fix up your old stuff to make it last.

YOU'VE been hearing for years about total war. You're beginning to get a glimmering of what it means.

If you're a good American, you'll say:

"Bring it on. I can TAKE IT."

Gile Named Civilian Defense Coordinator

Appointment of Robert L. Gile as coordinator of civilian defense activities for the city of Roseburg was announced today by Mayor A. J. Young. Mr. Gile succeeds Victor J. Micelli, who was forced to resign because of his appointment to head a battalion of the Oregon state guard. Mr. Gile has been very active in the county civilian defense organization, and is chief of the air raid wardens.

Plane Crash Kills Prominent Broker

TACOMA, May 8.—(AP)—Rudolph Ehrlichman, widely known Seattle and Tacoma investment broker, was killed in an airplane accident in the Royal Canadian air force Wednesday night, former business associates said here today.

Details of the accident were not disclosed, but it was understood that Ehrlichman, former partner of the firm Drumheller, Ehrlichman and White, was one of the eight fliers who recently lost their lives in an accident near St. Johns, Newfoundland.

He was a flier in the World war and joined the Canadian air force about two years ago as flight instructor. At the time of his death he was flight lieutenant with the eastern air command at Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Educated in Seattle, Ehrlichman came to Tacoma with his brother, Ben, about 1921 when they helped organize an investment brokerage firm. He left Tacoma in 1931.

Servant 70 Years In Family Passes

NEW YORK, May 8.—(AP)—It was a bonny March morning in 1872 when a smiling Irish-American lass whose apple-cheeked freshness matched the weather went to work as a mother's helper for the family of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Harrison.

It was March 11 and it was also Ellen McCarthy's 16th birthday. And from that day to yesterday, through 70 years, Ellen remained with that same family.

Death, which came to her yesterday at the age of 86, finally separated Ellen from the family, and it came to her where she wished it to—in the home of Mrs. Joseph H. Fargis, one of the three Harrison children still living.

White-haired and shrunken by age and illness, she had been bed-ridden since last Christmas, but it was there by her side on her last birthday, with St. Patrick's day at hand and green favors piled galore around her 36-candied cake, that "my family" gathered to do honor to the faithful servant they loved so well.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 8.—

Within six months a heavy drain upon the manpower of the northwest states will exceed any of the contributions that section has already given to the selective service. By November or December the United States will have an army in excess of 4,600,000. Six months later it will have an army of 5,000,000. Still later the army will be enlarged, for the offensive against Herr Hitler in Europe will require at least five million soldiers, and in addition to this European expeditionary force American troops will be scattered to the tropics, the Arctic circle, on every continent and dozens of islands. Only the very highest of the high command know what is planned as the maximum strength of the armed forces.

Rejections because of defects will be few. If a draftee can hear a clap of thunder, see a flash of lightning and has two teeth the army will take him. The navy has been more finicky. When congress arranges for benefits to dependents there will be released a vast number of men who have been deferred because of the hostilities they have given to fortune. Married women who gave up their jobs in order to become dependents and keep their husbands at home may as well look for the old jobs again.

With little publicity compared with the task involved, the United States is now building the greatest armed force in its history. There has been no fanfare as draftees were shipped to reception centers; no martial music, no mayor leading the boys to the train, no crowds waving flags from the sidewalks, and no mother or father trudging on at the side of a departing son. It is all phlegmatic, all very casual, very matter-of-fact. War department now realizes that there should be more enthusiasm shown toward departing draftees and Henry L. Stimson, secretary of war, suggests more fervor.

More Cantonments Hinted.
As the program for a tremendous military force unfolds it will be necessary to construct new cantonments, new camps for training anti-aircraft battalions, tank training in the field, more flying fields, training with artillery, paratroops, ski soldiers.

It is rumored that the existing cantonments and forts in the northwest are to be supplemented. These are to be financed out of a $5 billion dollar appropriation (new money) by congress. The little group of army officers who plan the spots where training camps should be located, where new cantonments would be convenient, worked out their program a year ago, but their studies were conducted so quietly and their decision are so secretive that the higher ups, the brass hats, who are supposed to know the inside workings, have been as ignorant of this program as the general public.

A usually reliable source of information boldly predicts that Washington and Oregon will bristle with troops in training on existing and new camps, with attention being given to east of the Cascade range extending to the Rocky mountains. This program, incidentally, is not to be confused with the series of air field developments, which are provided for in another appropriation measure.

All Fit Must Serve.
An estimate of the soldiers to be contributed by the northwest states places it at three times the number already taken into the army. This will siphon most of the men of military age, leaving only those physically incapacitated and others holding key positions in shipyards, aircraft plants and minor industries which are producing bomber doors and similar gadgets for bomber and fighter planes. To maintain the war plants as workers are drafted and their deferment expires, there is discussed the prospect of drafting older men to take their places, although never before has an American been drafted for a war industry. Old established ways of life, however, are rapidly changing and it is explained, if necessary a citizen can be sent to a shipyard if he can serve better there than in a non-essential pursuit.

As army and air force expands another development is predicted. The air force now employs several thousand mechanics, civilians, to maintain the fighting airplanes. The new repair base near Spokane will largely engage civilians to tear down and rebuild planes which cannot be patched up any longer at the bomber bases of the northwest. (Another base is planned for Sacramento area). These civilians do practically the same work that an army sergeant does and members of the ground force who are in service. There is among economy-minded officials a growing agitation that the civilians be inducted into service, which would put an end to union scale of wages and save the government the difference between the union scale and the army pay. A meeting at which this matter was discussed was held in the national capital last week. No action was taken, but the idea is simmering.

Alvin York Given Service In Army

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(AP)—

The war department announced today that two outstanding heroes of the first World war—Sergeants Alvin C. York and Samuel Woodfill—had been given army commissions as majors.

Undersecretary Robert P. Patterson said they would be assigned to the army ground forces for infantry work.

He also announced that several thousand army air force mechanics would receive postgraduate training each month in principal aircraft plants turning out combat planes.

York, Patterson noted, was dubbed "the outstanding soldier" of the first World war by Marshal Ferdinand Foch of France and the same praise was given Woodfill by General John J. Pershing of the A. E. F.

Both hold the Congressional Medal of Honor.

200 Torpedo Boats Would Smash Japs, Bulkeley Says

NEW YORK, May 8.—(AP)—Lieut. John D. Bulkeley, whose torpedo boat exploits in the Philippines etched some of the brightest pages in recent naval history, came home from the war today and opined that "with a couple of hundred torpedo boats we could sweep the Japs from the sea."

Lieut. Bulkeley piloted the torpedo boat on which General Douglas MacArthur left Corregidor for a rendezvous with a bomber which eventually landed the general and his party in Australia.

Lieut. Bulkeley said that generally the Americans were outnumbered about 10 to 1 by the Japanese whom he described as "very brave, very courageous and very pugnacious fighters who will fight until they are wounded or dead."

"But we can still lick them," he added. "Generally speaking, we can handle them at odds of five to one against us and as soon as our manpower is on a one-to-one basis, it will be a steamroller."

Shipyard Paychecks Pared for War Bonds

TACOMA, May 8.—(AP)—Officials of the big Tacoma plant of the Seattle-Tacoma shipbuilding corporation reported today its payroll department had been authorized by 3,275 workmen to deduct $57,671 per month from their paychecks for purchase of war bonds.

Income Tax Revtnue Of Oregon to Set New High

SALEM, May 8.—(AP)—The state tax commission said today it would be two weeks before it would know the total income tax collections up to April 1, deadline for filing returns.

Collections will be the largest in history, with some estimates running as high as $12,000,000, compared with last year's $7,000,000.

Bill Suspending Mine Assessment Job Signed

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(AP)—Representative O'Connor (D., Mont.) said today President Roosevelt had signed his bill suspending annual assessment work on unpatented mining claims.

The suspension extends from July 1, 1941 to July 1, 1943.

Leaves For San Francisco—Mrs. James Hawn, of this city, left today for San Francisco to spend the next month visiting relatives and friends. Her husband is now working at the cantonment in Medford.

Pirates, Giants Split Twin Bill

(By the Associated Press)

The first siege between the eastern and western clubs of the major baseball leagues came to an end yesterday with inclement weather erasing all games except a doubleheader between the Giants and the Pittsburgh Pirates.

In the only action the Pirates captured a 2-1 eleven inning decision in the first half of the bargain bill at Pittsburgh and the Giants came back to bag the nightcap, 6-2.

Wilkie pitched five-hit ball in the first game, but a mental lapse by Shortstop Coscarart kept him from a shutout and forced the fracas into overtime. With the bases loaded on two hits and an intentional walk in the fifth inning, Pitcher Carpenter raised a fly to short left. Coscarart caught it, but delayed throwing the ball and Danning loped home from third base. The Pirates, who made 12 hits, finally pushed across the deciding run in the 11th on two singles, sandwiched around a sacrifice.

The second session was a tight left-handed hurling duel between Rookie Dave Kelson and the previously unbeaten Heinzelman until Maynard, a recent recruit from New York's Jersey City farm, broke a tie score with a three-run homer in the seventh.

Society Asks Roosevelt To Abolish Neckties

WALLA WALLA, May 8.—(AP)—The Satscom's first official act was to solicit President Roosevelt's support in banishing neckties for the summer.

Satscom might be a long-sought liberator for the man, who in summer heat, would wear no man's collar or necktie—including his own. The organization's full name is "The Society Eliminating the Stranglehold of Convention on Mankind."

Its credo: "no neckties in summer would save wool, cotton, silk and rayon, and the ties made useless could be reclaimed."
