The North Umpqua road to Diamond lake is not passable at the present time. V. V. Harpham, supervisor of the Umpqua national forest, reported today. The lake, however, may be reached by way of the Union creek road.

Numerous inquiries have been received regarding the North Umpqua route, Harpham stated, but at present the indications are that it will not be suitable for travel until the first of June.

Only partial maintenance has been provided between Rock creek and Big Camas, and the road is in bad condition, due largely to logging operations. At the Diamond lake end of the road there is still considerable snow.

Air Raid Warden Service Here Asks For Volunteers

Due to the departure of a number of men who were regularly enrolled as air raid wardens in the civilian defense organization for the city of Roseburg, additional applications for assignment to duty as wardens in the event of air raid are desired immediately, it was announced today by Robert Gile, commander of the defense setup for the city. The air raid warden personnel has been depleted at the rate of about four men weekly, as men have entered military service or have removed to areas where defense work is in progress, Gile states.

Men willing to volunteer for air raid warden training and service are asked to make application at the office of the chamber of commerce or notify some warden of their acquaintance.

Mr. Gile reported that the city control office will be set up in the city hall Thursday, May 21, and after that time all activities pertaining to the city alone will be conducted from the headquarters there.

He also is again urging residents to stock up with sand from the pile provided by the city for free distribution. The sand is piled at the city property at the end of North Roseburg and may be obtained without charge. Residents are required to furnish their own containers. Every home should have a supply of dry sand for use in combating incendiary bombs, Gile states.

Illegal Taking Of Auto Charged To Walter Browning

Walter Browning, 24, was back in custody here today and was booked on a charge of taking and using an automobile without authority from the owner, Sergeant Paul Morgan of the state police reported today. Browning only recently was released from the state penitentiary after serving ten months of a sentence of one year imposed in May, 1941, on a charge of obtaining money by false pretenses, Morgan said.

Browning was arrested in April, 1941, accused of passing bad checks, but was given a continuation of his case in order that he might enter military service. By the time he had reached the induction center, it was learned that he had issued more bad checks after his appearance in court and he was brought back from Fort Lewis and sentenced to the penitentiary, Morgan stated.

He had been working at the Medford army cantonment and came to Roseburg last Sunday with some friends and is alleged to have borrowed the car of one of his fellow workmen and failed to return it at the designated time, the officer said. He was arrested last night at Roberts creek.

There are 562 states in India under native rulers in contractual relations with the British crown.
