Relatives and friends attended a public viewing and the funeral.

Everyone had been so nice to Brown at the hospital that his sister, Emma, decided to take some candy to patients and attendants.

As she entered the ward, her brother looked up with pleasure and said:

"Hello, did you bring any candy for me?"

The family and the hospital disclosed today it had been a case of mistaken identity. The hospital had two Edward Browns on its records, each listed as having red hair and red eyebrows and suffering from paralysis. The man who was buried had been admitted from the home for the indigent at Holmesburg.

Speaking at a dinner honoring U. S. Senator Robert F. Wagner (D.-N. Y.), Willkie observed: "There are some things in which I am so greatly interested that I don't want to see their advocacy tinged with self-interest."

Willkie, who had been mentioned as a possible dark horse candidate in the New York gubernatorial contest, said:

"While I am too old and fat to get into the firing line in this war, and while the people didn't see fit to grace me with a title two years ago, I will go out into the hustings, and fight at the bar of justice, for the rights of minority groups in America. I have no trust or faith in extra-judicial proceedings under which any group will be deprived of their rights, under guise of war emergency."

Soldier Louis Lags; War Dept. Orders Speed

WASHINGTON, June 18—(AP)—Secretary of War Stimson said today that Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis would make no more public appearances, except those strictly for the armed forces until he completes his basic military training.

Louis, who is Corporal Joe Louis Barrow in the army, now stationed at Fort Devens, Mass., has been unable to keep up with the army's military training program, the secretary said.

"The many public appearances which have been made by Joe Louis," said Stimson, "have made it impossible for him to be accorded the same privileges of training as other soldiers, and this is unfair both to him and to the army.

"He has therefore been ordered to a replacement training center to complete his basic military training, and until that has been completed his public appearances, except those strictly for the armed forces will be discontinued."

Stimson said he did not know exactly how much of the basic training course Louis had completed, and could not say how much longer he would be in the training center, where the basic program normally lasts from three to four months.
