HE LOST HIS PANTS

Too young to "lose his pants" at the races, Master Peter Cooper donates his waterproof wardrobe to the current rubber drive—but gladly. He's following the lead of the grown-ups who are turning in everything with a stretch in it—to help snap back at the axis.

Tire Tower

Lots of help in fighting the axis is represented by sky-high pile of old tires gathered as Los Angeles opened reclaimable rubber drive.

Gold Usages

About one-fourth of the gold produced is used as coinage in normal times, with the remainder being consumed in dentistry, jewelry, gilding and gold-leaf work.

Was Largest Army

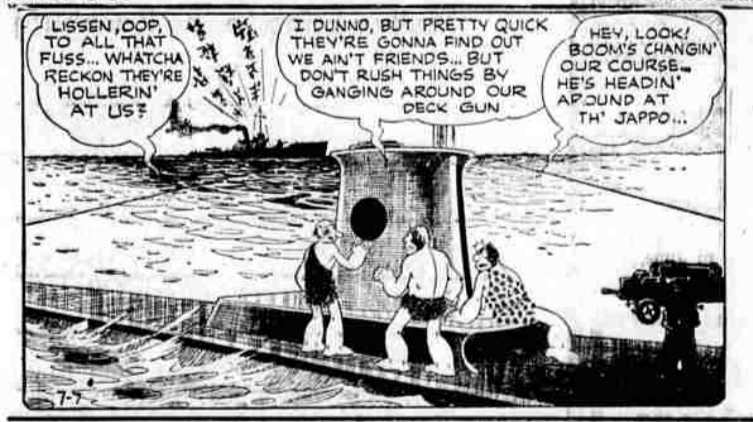

According to Herodotus, the biggest army of ancient times was that of the Persian conqueror, Xerxes, in the fifth century B. C., who had 2,600,000 fighters.
