It Must Be Done

IN SPITE of bad planning and some mismanagement at the top, the various salvage drives have been fairly successful. The kick-off, last fall, the aluminum drive was wonderful. Succeeding ventures have been less so, partly because it was pretty generally stated following the aluminum drive that the stuff was really not wanted, was not the right sort of metal, and there was little enthusiasm about it.

Actually, we have since learned, the scrap aluminum was used and the drive did help our war effort.

Then there was the paper drive. Such a drive conducted near a city where a paper converting plant is located would be successful and productive of good. But so far as we are concerned down here in Douglas county, Oregon, hundreds of miles from any place where waste paper can be converted into pulp, and with transportation needed for more vital materials, a waste paper drive did not seem to us to be a very valuable contribution to the war effort.

So when the rubber drive came along, announced very suddenly, publicized poorly and practically not organized at all, it was not on a national scale—much of a success. We did our part here in Oregon but eastern and mid-west states just bogged down. The total was less than 250,000 tons when not less than half a million tons was expected.

Shortly, however, there will be a systematic drive for scrap metal. This will be no flash drive—no blitz. It is being carefully planned and will undoubtedly be well conducted. Scrap metal of all kinds is needed and it is planned to collect every pound of it that lies about. The big fellows have been shouting "wo!" at us and shaking a warning finger and speaking as a national attitude, we have wearied and become cynical.

But let's not for one moment lose sight of the serious fact that salvage is needed and sorely needed for war production. No matter how clumsy the Washington Mr. Bigs are in their attempts to build a national morale that is already a whole site better than their own—we must not slight the necessity of sending scrap—rubber and metal, to the reclaiming plants to help win this war.

a rough QUADRANGLE, with its corners at Kursk, Kharkov, Rostov and Voronezh. You will see immediately that in this quadrangle the Germans have more ROOM FOR ACTION with less danger from Russian counter-attacks at the sides.

THE Germans organize and hold this quadrangle (and are not diverted elsewhere) their next step will be to push another point eastward and again widen the ensuing triangle.

It is the same process as splitting a log with a wedge. A simple, uncomplicated log is easily split. A TOUGH, KNOTTY log is hard to split and requires a lot of power behind the wedge. The Russians have proved that they are tough.

What will happen will depend on how much power the Germans are able to put behind the wedge.

THE tempo of the battle of Egypt is rising again after the lull of the past few days.

Allied (British and U. S.) air-men launch their heaviest assault so far. A GREATLY STRENGTH-

ENED axis air force rises to challenge them. Swirling dogfights ensue.
Results are not apparent as this is written.

THIS Cairo dispatch appears significant:
"The axis seemed to be DRAWING MAINLY ON THE ITALIANS for air reinforcements. LOSING MANY OF THEM." (The Italian air force hasn't been so hot.)

It is significant because it indicates that Hitler is still leaving reinforcement of Rommel to the Italians. The British have so far been able to handle the Italians.

THE Japs claim to have landed a troop convoy safely in the western Aleutians, but otherwise no Jap activity is reported.

One wonders naturally what the Japs are up to and suspects they are watching the battle in Russia and trying to decide whether or not to jump onto Siberia.

ON the home front, there are signs that the price ceiling is beginning to crack.

Nothing else can be expected. It is a makeshift affair, cobbled together as a compromise to satisfy pressure groups intent on improving their position at the expense of the general consuming public (and the war effort).

We are constantly told from Washington (the public meaning US) doesn't know we're at war yet. Political boondoggling such as the makeshift, full-of-holes price ceiling law leaves US in no doubt that it is the POLITICIANS who don't know we're at war.

Pea Crop Starts Spoiling Because Of Labor Shortage

PENDELTON, Ore., July 14—(AP)—With one-sixth of the nation's 1942 canning pea crop at stake, Eastern Oregon and Washington growers today sent out an emergency appeal for harvest help.

Nearly 40,000 acres are ready for harvesting. More than 5000 men, women and children already are in the fields and canneries are working three shifts a day.

But peas are spoiling on the vines because of a labor shortage. Don Robbins, Pendleton manager of the Federal Employment Service, estimated at least 3500 additional men are needed.

Hundreds of women and children are being hired to work in the canneries and drive harvest trucks. They will not solve the problem, however, because they cannot do the heavy field work—tossing the pea-laden vines into harvesting machines.

Other complications make this the most difficult harvest. Normally, Robbins said, an acre yields less than two tons of peas. This year the average is three. And plantings for 1942 were increased 231 per cent over 1941 because of the food-for-victory program.

Most difficult of all is the time factor. When the peas reach their prime the vines are cut and with in four hours the peas must be inside the cans with lids sealed.

Either 3500 men are to be recruited to make this possible, Robbins said, or it's going to be mighty tough on this area's $5,000,000 pea industry—and on the people who'll be going to the corner grocery next winter for a can of peas.

DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHAS. A. EDWARDS

Service always follows vision. Isaiah experienced an awe-inspiring vision of the flaming splendor of God. The smoke from the altar filled the temple and rose into ethereal haze. High and lifted up, the glory of the Lord appeared in great splendor. God was seated in glorious majesty upon a throne with the train of His regal robes draping temple walls. About Him were His celestial ministers and Seraphims. As their name signifies, they were fiery, flaming, or burning ones. Constantly they heralded the glorious truth of the holy nature of God. In contrast to this inspiring vision, Isaiah realized his own unworthiness. Falling in the dust, he cried out, "I am undone." Whereupon one of the Seraphim took a live coal from the burning altar and touched Isaiah's unclean lips with it, saying: "Thine iniquity is taken away, and thy sin purged." The flaming coal was the symbol of purification. After his cleansing there sounded from that bright shining throne the call to service "who will go for us?" With genuine zeal and ardor, Isaiah answers: "Here am I send me." If you feel a lack of zeal in God's service, wait upon God, until your heart burns with a new vision of God in Christ then go. Service always follows vision. Amen.

Concerning the NORTHWEST As Viewed at the National Capitol

By John W. Kelly

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 14.—Destruction of cargo carriers loaded with bauxite, which would be transformed into aluminum in the northwest, is the fundamental reason why army air force, procurement division of WPB, the forest products laboratory at Madison, Wis., and the Veneer and Plywood people have been in constant huddles. There must be steps taken to husband all the aluminum possible for bombers and interceptors and some substitute must be found for aluminum in non-combat planes. The answer is, of course, plywood, but what kind or type and where it can be produced has been the center of debate.

Eventually, it is believed, the government will have to come to the Douglas fir region, where peeler logs have "made" the industry of superimposing one sheet of wood upon another.

On details there is yet no agreement, but between the lend-lease officials and representatives of the army air force there is an objective of 35,000,000 square feet of plywood a month. If that does not sound important, it is 420,000,000 square feet a year. For this material the federal government is willing to pay a good price; there will be no haggling. The order will be so large that it will be broken up and distributed to practically all plywood plants in position to accept some of the business.

No Copper To Spare

If Donald Nelson has his way no farmer cooperatives in the inland empire can go into the business of manufacturing alcohol from surplus wheat. Theoretically, he explains, the distilleries might be a good thing but he is opposed to building any more distilleries for the production of alcohol (from which synthetic rubber is produced), because he hasn't the copper to spare for the stills. Copper, Nelson informed the senate committee, is just about the rarest metal in the United States.

In addition to taking care of the war needs for copper in this country, said the top man of war production board, we must also provide all the copper requirements of the British, the Russians, the Chinese—all of the United Nations. This is the job that falls on the shoulders of American economy. The domestic shortage is caused by demands made upon us by the allies. This argument made no hit with several of the senators on the subcommittee, who asked one another when Nelson had departed, whether anyone was looking after the interests of America. One of the senators a few nights before was talking to King Peter and inquired what his country was doing, to which Peter answered, "We are conserving our resources."

Great as is the need for copper, the federal government is doing nothing to develop deposits in Washington, Oregon and Idaho. There are rich deposits in Hell's canyon of Snake river and in many other districts, but these are being neglected while WPB is decrying the shortage, and in spite of insistence during the past two years of northwest senators that these properties be exploited and new supplies of copper be provided, nothing has been done. Nor is there any prospect of the government acting through any of its war agencies.

News of Men

According to word received here by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Boyer, their son, Fred, Jr., who now is in Australia, has been advanced to staff sergeant. He reports in his letters that he is greatly pleased by Australia. Mr. and Mrs. Boyer's younger son, Dee, left today for Portland to enter the naval air service. He enlisted and took his examinations last week and was notified yesterday that he had been successful in the tests.

Don Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Wilson, of Umpqua, who was recently sent to La Grande, Ore., to continue his flying instruction, was one of five secondary students to be sent to Lewiston, Idaho, for further training. Don took his primary flying course at Klamath Falls. He was graduated from Roseburg high school and has completed two years at University of Oregon.

S. Umpqua Falls CCC Wins Banner For Bond Buying

CCC company No. 5478, located at Camp South Umpqua Falls, was recently honored by being awarded the district banner for the largest amount of U. S. savings stamps and bonds purchased during the month of June. Members of the company and staff at the South Umpqua camp broke the previous record for the Vancouver barracks district by purchasing a total of $710 worth of stamps and bonds. With an average enrollment for the month of 127 men, the per capita figure for the company was $5.59.

The flag now being proudly flown at the company headquarters has a red and blue background carrying in white letters the words, "District Merit Award—Save for Victory." It was brought from the Vancouver barracks district headquarters by Captain Leon G. Thompson, company commander, and presented with an appropriate ceremony. A group of savings stamp purchasers accepted it for the company. The banner will be kept by the camp a month and then go to the company winning the July contest.

Men Mostly From Dixie. Company 5478 is made up of men who come mostly from North and South Carolina, Tennessee and Alabama and from other southern states. They first occupied the Umpqua camp last fall after the disbandment of company 2904, made up of local boys. The first part of this year, however, the company was stationed at Medford, where they were employed on an important national defense job at the airport. Returning in June, the boys have been undergoing fire-fighting training and are building and improving fire trails and roads in the Umpqua forest.

The work and training of the men is in charge of a group of forest service foremen, under John R. Montgomery of Lookingglass as project superintendent. Among them are Walter Holbrook, Floyd Smith, Grover Blake, Carl Messing and Henry Rachor. Roy Bolin is camp mechanic.

In addition to Capt. Thompson, the administrative staff of the company includes Charles Trone, subaltern; Dr. O. M. Sanderson, camp physician, and A. L. Malery, educational advisor.

A wartime training course in woodworking is being given at the camp under the sponsorship of Roseburg schools with A. P. Huffman as instructor.

Patrol Boat Grounds Near Golden Gate; All Rescued

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—(AP)—An eighty-three foot U. S. naval patrol boat ran aground early today on the Seal rocks near the entrance to the Golden Gate, but the ship's company of three officers and ten men were rescued.

A navy press relations officer said an effort would be made to float the converted fishing boat at high tide today. He said it appeared the boat was merely beached and not "hung on a rock."

Vacationing—Mrs. Elizabeth Garrett, stenographer in the offices of Attorneys Guy Cordon and Daniel Keohane, is spending her vacation in Portland.

GOP of Oregon Backs War Effort; Boondoggling Hit

PORTLAND, July 14—(AP)—Isolationism was a thing of the past today so far as Oregon's republican party was concerned. Following the lead of the National GOP, the state central committee adopted a resolution Saturday urging the United States to "take such positive position in world affairs upon the inauguration of peace that there may be no repetition of the world chaos now in existence."

Warning the party that National welfare comes ahead of politics, Palmer Hoyt, Portland publisher, said in a keynote speech that there should be no criticism that would deter the war effort. He said, however, that it was proper to criticize improper spending, boondoggling and useless expenditure of lives.

The committee's legislative committee favored enactment of a law that would permit the state capitol building to be used for political meetings of lawfully organized parties. It also recommended a law requiring county clerks to certify the election of precinct committeemen within 15 days after primary elections.

Governor Sprague told the session he was returning to the ranks of party workers when his gubernatorial term expired.

In the only contested election, Mrs. John Richardson, Portland, defeated Mrs. Grace M. Wells, Klamath Falls, for committee vice-chairman. Re-elected were Niel R. Allen, Grants Pass, chairman; Kenneth Nielsen, Eugene, secretary, and John N. Adams, Portland, treasurer.

Appointed to a new executive committee were C. F. Bollinger, Gladstone; Alice Paine, Milwaukie; Mrs. Freda Peterson, Dallas; Mrs. Ada Cox, Florence; Robert D. Lytle, Vale; Mrs. Elsie Baldwin, Hood River; William E. Walsh, Marshfield; Roy Kilpatrick, Canyon City; Fred W. Brown, Portland; Mrs. Julia Lofgren, Portland; Sam Speerstra, Salem, and Mrs. Wells.

Nurse Deputy for State Defense Council Named

SALEM, July 14—(AP)—Mrs. Linnie Laird, Portland, secretary of the Oregon Nurses' association, was appointed today state nurse deputy for the state defense council. The appointment was made by Dr. Vernon A. Douglas, state medical officer for the council.

She will assist Dr. Douglas in organizing trained nurses in the civilian defense medical disaster program.
