Swimming Pool Needed

TREACHEROUS waters of the South Umpqua river have claimed two lives within a period of one week...

Doubtless the construction of a swimming pool will not entirely halt drowning accidents...

Younger people will be afforded a place in which they may safely learn to swim before they venture into more dangerous water...

The two recent tragedies, however, should serve to emphasize one of the cardinal rules of swimming...

Swimming is a great and exhilarating exercise. But, like any outdoor sport, it offers certain dangers...

Steps toward construction of a municipal pool already have been taken. A considerable sum of money has been donated...

There has been time for them to come clear from home. As usual, Rommel gave way before their deadly bayonets.

THE British Mediterranean navy enters the picture for the first time since the present battle began, shelling Matruh.

Appearance of the navy suggests that our side still has control of the air in Africa. Otherwise, naval participation in the fighting along the Egyptian coast would have been too dangerous to be risked.

Egyptian fighting on a decisive scale seems to be still waiting for REINFORCEMENTS ON A DECISIVE SCALE.

Whichever side gets adequate reinforcement FIRST will have the edge.

THERE has been an intriguing development on the Western front.

The British strike BY DAY-LIGHT with new, last-word, four-motor, up-to-now-secret Lancaster bombers at the German U-boat nest at Danzig, on the Baltic.

BY comparison, 12 British planes made a daylight raid on Augsburg, about half as far away from Britain as Danzig, in April, and ONLY FIVE returned...

Truckers Warned To Obey Laws If Tires Expected

Form letters which will be sent to all truck owners whose trucks have been cited for overloading or other law violations, have been sent to all the local war price rationing boards, the state offices of OPM at Portland announce.

The letters will inform the owner of the notice of violation and advise him that his right to obtain new tires or recaps is in jeopardy. Local boards will be instructed to demand explanations of the violations and are empowered to deny new tires to those owners who are found to be abusing the tires they are now using.

Special attention will be paid to overloaded logging and gravel trucks, it was announced. Capacity of these trucks is on a formula basis of which each owner is aware and the boards are instructed to consider each overload as intentional unless evidence to the contrary is produced.

CARD OF THANKS

Not being able to thank you all personally, we take this means of thanking you. We wish especially to thank the Roseburg Lumber Co. and the employees of the mill and woods. Mr. and Mrs. George Rutledge and family.

Concerning the NORTHWEST As Viewed at the National Capitol By John W. Kelly

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 15.—Labor shortage is another item on the headache list of the war industries in Washington and Oregon. There is too much of a turnover (one plant reported almost 50 per cent in one month) and the situation will become worse with the passing months unless Uncle Sam does something about it.

Reasons for the heavy turnover, reports one contractor, is the failure to find a place to sleep. Workers come to town, get a job in a war industry, struggle for a few days trying to locate a room, become disgusted, quit and go to some other town. Wages are not responsible for the men leaving.

To authorities in the national capital this problem has been presented. It has been pointed out that failure of the federal government to build dormitories, units or trailers is jeopardizing the production of ships, of aluminum, of airplanes; that contracts cannot be expedited if the needed workmen cannot be attracted to the jobs and held. Private building is now out of the question, with priorities on everything that goes into a house, and the government housing agency itself has a long standing dispute with war production board to obtain lumber, nails and plumbing. Fifteen or 20 million dollars spent by the federal housing agency in war industry towns of the Pacific northwest would be a blessing.

From San Francisco to Portland is approximately 700 miles and can be covered by truck in 25 hours. From San Francisco to Seattle is some 900 miles and a truck will make the distance in 32 hours. For the freight which is carried by truck to be sent by railroad would require about nine days. This statement has been presented by west coast truck operators in raising objection to the war department's plan to prevent motor truck operators in raising objection to the war department's plan to prevent motor trucks taking a load more than 300 miles. The written order was that trucks should operate less than 300 miles; over that mileage freight should go by rail. Army officials were informed that there are hundreds of communities in

DAILY DEVOTIONS DR. CHAS. A. EDWARDS

"That I might behold the beauty of the Lord." We are charmed and made happy by the beauty in this world of ours. The earth, the stars, the sky, the sea, the hills, the valleys, these are all beautiful. When God created the heavens and the earth and looked upon His handiwork, He saw that it was good. The works of His creation are beautiful, for the Creator Himself is beautiful to behold. Let that expression impress us as we are impressed with His majesty and power and glory. He is beautiful in His love, in His sympathy, in His grace, in His forgiveness, in His understanding, in His goodness and in His mercy. Words are utterly inadequate to tell of all the beautiful qualities and attributes of the Lord. His beauty attracts all who will dwell in His presence and seek to know Him. Let us lift Him up so that all men will be drawn to Him. It is the privilege of every Christian to give to the world a radiant life of God. The psalmist earnestly desired to dwell in the presence of the Lord all the days of his life, and thus, dwelling with Him, would acquire some of His beauty. "That I might behold the beauty of the Lord." Amen.

Nabbed Nazi Spy Had Plans of New American Bomber

NEW YORK, July 15.—(AP)—A German-born former American coast guardsman with a fancy name and a loose tongue was held in $25,000 bail today on espionage charges.

Assistant FBI Director P. E. Foxworth said the accused spy, Washington Glendale Spiegelberg, 35, had on his person plans of the B-24 type bomber when arrested in a long island bar Sunday.

In Detroit, where he was known as plain Alex Spiegelberg, a partner in the Donely Engineering corporation said last night that the spy suspected last night that the spy suspected "had full access to all drawings of the four-engine bomber, manufactured by Ford, during his employment as a process engineer with the Donely firm for the first four months of this year.

The prisoner, born in Berlin while his father was in the U. S. consular service and therefore an American citizen, was found in possession of 18 plans, diagrams, drawings or blueprints of essential bomber parts when seized on the tip of an army corporal who overheard him talking about them, Foxworth said. The FBI said Spiegelberg was a fisherman, miner and sailor in Alaska from 1929 to 1935.

The New York Post said yesterday in a copyrighted story that Anthony Cramer, described by the FBI as an associate of two of the eight nazi saboteurs now on trial in Washington, worked in the Brooklyn navy yard as a shipwright in ship construction work.

Cramer was one of the 14 men and women arrested Monday and accused of aiding the nazis. He now is in custody of the FBI. The post said it had learned from letters of Cramer that the "43-year-old bundsman had access to such closely-guarded secrets as the movement of American and British warships to and from the navy yard and, with scant trouble, could have informed himself of damage to our warcraft through enemy action.

Cramer, a native of Germany, who was naturalized in 1936, was described by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover as a close friend of Werner Thiel, one of the eight saboteurs on trial. Hoover said that Cramer admitted having been given $3,670 to keep for the saboteurs. Most of it was recovered by the FBI.
