

A note of warning to loyal readers—this week's T. C. is likely to read like a Jap war communique. To my right the phone is howling continuously—calls for Mr. Porter. At the counter Net Moore bursts out with all her "sales appeal" for a two-bit classified and above it all—the basso-profundo of news editor of the day's doings, Chas. Stanton. Well, by gosh, we gotta get started so how about the touchy subject of RUBBAH? Now, I'm not going to pull a Fulton Lewis on you—just want to pass the word around that the town's leading "sole-jur" has the where-with-all to re-sole and reheel your shoes with that bouncing gold, heretofore known as rubber. Yep, the real McCoy, Goodyear if you please. Gather up the family's worn out shoes and leave the whole darned bundle at Shorty's Shoe Repair next to Fisher's.

If you look far enough, and dig deep enough in this tangle of priorities and shortages you'll find some things you can have and probably do need. How about "a roof over your head?" Wouldn't be surprised if you've heard about the likely shortage of fuel for winter—if you have, it's another reason to make a check on your old roof—make sure it's got the fortitude "nuff to keep out the cold and rain and keep in the heat. Coen Lumber Company will be glad to offer any help you need and what's more important—they have plenty of cedar and patent asphalt shingles.

If all this talk about building a better mousetrap is true, Tommy Atkins, admiral of the Handy Stand, is going to have big figures on next year's income tax. You know what? The boy's got a cigarette lighter that actually lights, works, flames, in short, gives the drug to the fag. More than that—if you've got one of the little gems that works like a wet mallet, Tom's got all the supplies to fix it up A-1. (This is just a hunch—but I dare you to ask Tommy just what other significance he attaches to the rating of "A-1.")

I fully expected Mike Gomes to throw all the cuss words in the Hawaiian lingo at me for insinuating that he was maliciously wearing out the tires on his business buggy. The truth, of course, is that he's been making one heck of a lot of deliveries of late. Right now he's working on the prize of them all—a davenport that has really seen the wrath of wear. But "the worse they are the better I fix 'em," said Mike. Now, I've actually seen what a trip to the Gomes Upholstery and Mattress shop can do to worn out furniture. For much less than the cost of a new davenport, chair, or both you can have better than new. Extra padding is added, springs are tied with double instead of single twine, frames are given added strength. The answer to the whole darned discussion can best come from a talk with Gomes, Mr. or Mrs. And say, if you want to argue about the war, the Mr. Gomes is good at that, too.

I know about as much about costume jewelry as you know about the second front. If I had to hand out a blue-ribbon, however, I think that M. Lawson's has about the most attractive selection in town. Just a lot of the pieces are as timely as the raid on Dieppe—incidentally, they, too, stress the Victory theme. If I'm not as uninformed as I usually am, it seems that the pet peeve nowadays is the scarcity of metal costume jewelry. Well, it just AIN'T true at Lawson's. Drop in and I'll chance it that you'll find just the piece you've been looking for. (And ladies, I'll make you a bargain—kindly show your appreciation for this bit of news by admitting to

If your "write" hand gets as tired as mine (this column is wearing it down!) and you're even half as lazy as I, you've got a bit of sunshine to brighten your life comin' to you from this here column which reads as follows from left to right: Sam Shoemaker (the brains behind the Roseburg Book Store counters) has pour voo (that's French) a mighty line of cards—the kind you sign your John Henry to and ship off just like a letter—which will put a laugh into the dreary life of service men from the lowliest buck private on up—for men in the air force, navy, marines, and army (in about a month that's gonna maybe mean ME!) AND—don't let out of sight mean out of mind! Sam's got birthday cards, anniversary cards and the like for both service men and us civilians.

A smile is a great thing and it takes all kinds to make this world a happy one—Frinstance, there's the big, homely grin (that's my .red) then again there's the soft, rare one common to all lovely lil' De-Icers.—AND all kinds of smiles include teeth. This is all a very subtle way of introducing the special this week from the Roseburg Pharmacy. Bob's got "pro" model tooth brushes, brushes that stay bristles (they don't become soggy messes), sanitarily sealed in a box for only thirty-nine cents. And anyone with any cents (PUN!), especially if it's 39c, can buy these wonder brushes and get a can of Carol tooth powder FREE in the deal! So-o-o get down to the Roseburg Pharmacy and cheat Bob Harris in this little gem of a bargain!

Remember that old childhood rhyme 'bout ice cream? I quote: "You scream, I scream, we all scream for ice cream!" Well, that's just about what we did too. Nowadays we've grown into a little more polite way of saying the same thing. Now we just march into Horn's Super Cream Shop (THE COOLEST PLACE IN TOWN!) and Harold Horn (for a nominal fee) serves us ice cream in any flavor we can think of. I just polished off a Peppermint Stick cone which is my favorite. Harold recommends for this week's treat Caramel Fudge, and I'll admit that he has something there all right. With this I'll take my foot off the gas for another week—and, shall we say, dream on.

rooms upstairs in the U. S. National bank building. Mrs. C. E. Roberts is sewing chairman and those spending the entire day assisting in the work are asked to bring their own noon lunch.

YONCALLA, Aug. 24.—A family reunion, the first time in 17 years, of the Thiel family was held at the Julian Thiel home in Rice valley over the weekend. Those present to enjoy the occasion were Mrs. Ida Bray and Gus Bray of Redmond, Ore.; Mrs. Myra Castor of Mulino, Ore.; Mrs. Helen Dunaway and granddaughter Miss Darlene Jones of Reedsport, Lu Starr of Coquille and Mr. and Mrs. Julian Thiel of Yoncalla.

YONCALLA COUPLE MARRY TUESDAY

YONCALLA, Aug. 24.—Coming as a complete surprise to their many friends is the news of the wedding of Miss Mary Handlip, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Melton of Yoncalla and Leonard Bentz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Bentz of Swiss Home. The ceremony took place in Eugene, Tuesday, August 18, with Judge Hurd performing the ceremony with only the groom's parents present. Both the bride and groom are popular Yoncalla young people. Mrs. Bentz is a student in Yoncalla high school. Mr. Bentz is with the U. S. army, the armed force located in Pine Camp, N. Y. The bride will remain in Yoncalla during the duration.

Court Order Means Back Pay for Lumber Tailors

PORTLAND, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The Corvallis Lumber company today was under a federal court injunction order not to violate the wage-hour act.

The company withdrew its defense Saturday in Judge Yankovic a stray lamb.

The court order was expected to mean payment of several thousand dollars in back pay to employees.

Ignorance Won't Excuse Draft Law Violators

PORTLAND, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Violations of the selective service act will not be excused because men are ignorant of its provisions.

That warning came from U. S. Attorney Carl Donaghu Saturday after 20 new violations came to his attention, bringing the total number of such cases now under investigation by his office to 386.
