and are TAKING OFF such of their troops as they can. Those they can't take off are being hunted down by the Australians. The tanks and heavy supplies the Japs landed at Milne bay are reported to have been ALL LOST. Japan's carefully trained jungle shock troops, you see, AREN'T invincible.

THE unpredictable Chinese are still going strong in Chekiang and Kiangsi provinces (southwest of Shanghai).

They are consolidating their grip on Chubien and its important air field by taking the surrounding strong points, and are said to be in the edges of Nanchang, westward along the railroad from Chubien, which the Japs have held for nearly two years and have fitted out as an important base.

The Chinese are being backed up in these operations by U. S. warplanes. It is the first time they have had air support against the Japs.

BEFORE getting cocky at this point and thinking we have the Japs on the run and will keep them running, read the recent interview with Joseph C. Grew, for 10 years before December 7 U. S. ambassador to Tokyo—a career diplomat and a thoroughly competent observer.

He warns that we are at war with a "powerful fighting machine, a people whose morale can not and WILL NOT be broken even by successive defeats, who will certainly not be broken by economic hardships."

WE'VE suffered enough already as a result of UNDER-ESTIMATING the Japs. Let's not do any more of it.

They are half savages, of course. They are cruel. (Grew gives some interesting detail on that.) But they're TOUGH.

MAKE no mistake on this point, however: WE'RE TOUGH, TOO!

Ambassador Grew says the Japs look on us as "constitutional weaklings, demanding our daily comforts and unwilling to make the sacrifices necessary for victory in a war against a military machine which has prepared and trained itself in Spartan simplicity and the hardness and toughness demanded by war."

Let 'em go on thinking that. It means, THEY'RE UNDERESTIMATING US. That will help.

YOU must have read Larry Allen's thrilling and dramatic eyewitness story of the British naval attack on Rommel's Mediterranean shore positions.

It's a good sample of what we need in the Pacific.

Such reporting gives the enemy no information he doesn't possess already and strengthens the morale of the home front unbelievably.

WE need to have this war in which OUR boys are fighting and dying brought home to us in all its vivid, heroic detail so that we on the home front may LIVE IT day by day along with our boys who are FIGHTING IT. It can't be brought home to us if all we have to depend on in the way of news are cold-blooded, precise navy communiqués.

OUT OUR WAY

BORN THIRTY YEARS TOO SOON

DAILY DEVOTIONS DR. CHAS. A. EDWARDS

Loins girded, lights burning, these are the prime characteristics of those who keep watch and are at all times ready to extend a welcome to their Lord when He seeks to honor their home with His presence or when He beckons them to follow Him. The attitude of the followers of the Christ should be that of preparedness, of eternal vigilance. Our lamps are ever to be lighted, filled to overflowing with good oil, for if the lamp has gone out, it is an ally of darkness and we have been placed in the world to be allies of light. Wherever a Christian is found, there a light glows. Where a light glows, a path is made radiant. Therefore, with loins girt, and light burning, let us be ready to walk by His side. Marching orders may sound at any moment. Perhaps even now we are being summoned. Bind on thy sandals, gird thyself, and go forth with the Master. "I bind unto myself today The power of God to hold and lead. His eye to watch, His might to stay, His ear to hearken to my need. The wisdom of my God to teach, His hand to guide, His shield to ward, The word of God to give me speech, The Heavenly Host to be my guard." (From St. Patrick's Breastplate.) Amen.

Tires, Autos For Ministers Set By New OPA Order

Practicing ministers and religious practitioners are eligible for either tires or an automobile when a car is needed because no other adequate means of transportation is available, the Oregon office of price administration was notified by OPA officials at Washington, D. C., Wednesday.

Under new OPA amendments the use of rationed tires and automobiles is restricted to the locality which the minister or practitioner regularly serves.

Conducting church services is recognized as among the needs to be served by a minister, but organizational or evangelistic activity are not so considered, it was disclosed.

OPA also specified that preferred mileage for ministers and practitioners be restricted, in gas rationing regulations, to those using their cars to serve members of a religious group in a specified area.

Fund Allotted to Aid Tenants Purchase Farms

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(AP)—The agriculture department has allocated to states the $32,500,000 authorized by congress for the 1942-43 program to aid farm tenants to purchase farms of their own. It was estimated the funds would enable 7,000 tenants to obtain farm purchase loans, repayable over a 40-year period at three per cent interest, under provisions of the 1937 Bankhead-Jones farm tenant act.

Loans include funds to enable improvements, but the department said "only essential improvements"—would be authorized this year because of war restrictions on materials.

Allocations to states included: Oregon $124,180.

Butter Off Blue Food Stamp List

The list of blue stamp food for the month of September remains the same as for August with the exception of butter, fresh plums, fresh peaches and oranges, which have been dropped from the list, according to Ray B. Schwartz, area supervisor of the agriculture marketing administration.

The complete list of blue stamp foods available to families receiving public assistance is as follows, for the period of September 1 through September 30, inclusive:

- Corn meal, shell eggs, dry onions, dry edible beans, hominy (corn) grits, fresh pears, fresh apples, wheat flour and whole wheat (graham) flour, enriched wheat flour and fresh vegetables, including potatoes. With butterfat prices relatively satisfactory to producers during August, it appears that the price support supplied by the stamp plan will not be necessary in September. In case of peaches, plums and oranges, the peak of the marketing season has passed and supplies of these fruits are less plentiful now, Schwartz said.

Concerning the NORTHWEST As Viewed at the National Capitol By John W. Kelly

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 2.—Residents of Washington and Oregon, particularly, will not be satisfied until the navy department "comes clean" and gives intelligent and comprehensive reports on operations in the Aleutian islands. For a little more than six weeks there has been a unified command in Alaska, which is designated as a "sea frontier," and all "sea frontiers" have been placed in charge of the commanding naval officer; the army being made subordinate in such instances. With the exception of Australia and the canal zone the navy is boss of all operations on the Pacific.

Identification of the naval officer in command of Alaska and the location of headquarters are among the many guarded secrets which shroud almost everything in the northland. The unified command was a direct result of the failure, it is alleged, of the army to cooperate with the navy in the early days of the Aleutian invasion by the Japanese; that the army was not disposed to take orders from the navy and when called upon for assistance army had to relay the request to higher authorities.

There appears to have been about the same cooperation as existed at Pearl Harbor, with army and navy ignoring each other. This age-old rivalry of the two armed services (which fostered at army-navy football games) is supposed to have been settled in the Aleutian area with the navy being placed in charge.

However, public relations have not been improved; navy is as determined as ever to keep the public in ignorance of what goes on in the fogs of the north Pacific and this leads to rumors and wild exaggerations of the few known facts that seep out via civilians—there are plenty of such rumors in the national capital. The mayor of Unalaska, who appeared before service clubs in Oregon and Washington and told his story of the attack on Dutch Harbor, scarcely received a "stick" on his talks in the papers of that section, but found Washington, D. C., papers willing to publish his account, which was more complete than the humdrum communiques.

Inflation Curb Awaited Speculation is rife as to what President Roosevelt will suggest in his message to curb wages and prices of farm products and what explanation the commander-in-chief will make in the pending "fireside chat." By a coincidence the war labor board (while the president was telling reporters of the forthcoming message) gave increases to 407,000 steel workers, retroactive to last February. Further, "steel," which has been an open shop, can only employ a worker while he pays dues to the CIO union, and the check-off of dues must be made by the company.

As a matter of fact, the president now has all the authority necessary to clamp down on wages and farm prices without proposing that congress shoulder the responsibility, and when the price fixing legislation was under debate the administration exerted its full influence to place no restrictions on wages. It was the general belief that no price fixing would save off inflation (high cost of living) without some sort of ceiling on wages, the first and principal factor in the cost of anything. To what degree the new proposal will affect wages and living conditions of northwest workers or how a farm ceiling will react on farmers remains to be seen.

Explosives Problem Up Interstate commerce commission is requested by the Idaho, Oregon and Washington representatives of the American Trucking association to permit the movement of explosives in the truck-trailer combinations which predominates in the 11 western states, where is a constant flow of ammunition to the dozens of military establishments in the northwest. The northwest representatives contend that the truck-trailer, if authorized to transport explosives, can carry a larger load, conserve gasoline, rubber and manpower. ICC has the matter under advisement and a decision is expected soon.

Planes Ahead Of Schedule No figures can be published, but the Boeing Aircraft company is ahead of scheduled production on the flying fortresses. The company will shortly be rolling out flying boats for the navy at its second plant on Lake Washington. These are entirely separate operations. While the company has many thousands on the payroll, a large per cent have only six months experience, but they are making time on the aircraft and learning the knack.

It is significant that, as passed by the senate, soldiers can vote for president, vice president and members of congress. The presidential election will not be held until 1944.
