To the Unknown Soldier

In the great national cemetery at Arlington, Virginia, across the river from Washington, D. C., there stands the marble tomb erected to the memory of the Unknown Soldier. A guard of honor maintains unceasing vigil before that monument through which a nation pays tribute to its heroic dead.

You, too, can have your monument to the unknown soldier. It will not be a handsome monument. It may not even be in one piece. It may be disreputable in appearance, covered with rust and dirt, but, nevertheless in your attic, your basement, your garage, your yard, your barn, or your field, you may have, if you wish, your own personal monument for some unknown boy who will die a hero's death upon a distant field.

Your monument may be that old metal bedstead, that broken down kitchen range, the old plow or harrow, or even the countless pieces of scrap metal junk which you have been too negligent, too careless or just too plain lazy to put into the scrap metal salvage campaign.

Perhaps the boy your own particular monument will symbolize will be the one who with desperate fury charges an enemy with cold steel, because he has fired all his ammunition and no more is available. Maybe it will be the boy who makes his body a barrier to enemy advance, because there was no tank to help him in his task. Possibly it will be the boy who dies in screaming agony from the shrapnel of bursting bombs, dropped from the starry sky by an enemy against whom there was no defense because there was not the needed metal to build a fighter plane.

In the years to come that old piece of metal for which you have no present use should be deeply revered in your home. It will be your own personal monument to the boy who died because of your neglect. It will symbolize to you the life blood of a hero who made the supreme sacrifice because you failed.

Censorship Explained In Talk to Kiwanians

The voluntary censorship assumed by newspapers throughout the nation to guard military affairs was explained to the Roseburg Kiwanis club at the regular Tuesday luncheon meeting by Harris Ellsworth, editor of the News-Review. Mr. Ellsworth told of the rules governing the newspapers and cited various applications of the voluntary restriction.

Megal Rebates Bring Fines to Two Men

PORTLAND, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Wallace Traux, operator of filling stations in the Willamette valley, and Arthur Dillon, operator of a transport service, pleaded guilty yesterday in federal district court to violating interstate commerce regulations.

Nelson to Limit Priority Aid to Federal Projects

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the war production board announced today he would limit government construction to projects "directly essential" to the war effort.

Nelson notified the heads of eight governmental agencies that he had given instructions to revoke priority assistance to a large part of non-military construction for the federal government, and said a review now was under way of all military projects of the army, navy, and maritime commission, with the same end in view.

"As things now stand," Nelson said, "facilities and construction, including many projects not related to the war effort, and programs for 1943, with the carry-over of uncompleted 1942 projects will absorb between one-fifth and one-fourth of the total war effort. He added that the aggregate demand for these projects for materials, labor, transportation, manpower, and technical and engineering services, "is so great as to not only jeopardize the various military and essential civilian programs in general, but to force the most essential war projects dangerously behind schedule."

Nelson was represented as having told legislators that the nation's production schedule for 1943 was becoming too big to be met with the materials that were likely to be available.

It was his intention, he was quoted as saying, to see to it that the vital parts of the war machine—the tanks, planes, guns, ship and other equipment—came along as fast as humanly possible. This probably would involve, it was said, a reclassification of the whole program, with priorities on raw materials adjusted so they would flow unhampered into the plants that were making the primary war equipment.

After this demand had been made, less essential items would take their place in the materials line, with civilian needs relegated to the third group where production would have to be geared to whatever supplies were left.

Concerning the NORTHWEST As Viewed at the National Capital

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 21.—Enemy submarines, unquestionably Japanese, are becoming increasingly bold off the coast of Oregon and Washington. Censorship has suppressed many details of the activities of the under-sea boats, but of late the bars have been lowered a little and more information has been made available to the public through the press.

The submarines have traveled at will, despite the dawn patrol of shore-based interceptor planes or the sharp eyes of volunteer watchers on the beach. As yet the navy has not seen fit to inform the public whether any submarines have been destroyed (if any were sunk) south of Kiska. Communications have declared various Japanese subs have been sent to Davy Jones' locker in the Aleutian area. That the armed forces are aware of the presence of enemy U-boats is intimated by the tightening up of the dim-out regulations and more recently by directives to eliminate sky-glare.

There is dissatisfaction with the navy censorship. The Bremer-ton-built heavy cruiser Astoria was sent to the bottom on August 9 with two other heavy American cruisers, but the navy suppressed news of the loss for more than two months. In the same engagement the Australian cruiser Canberra was sunk but the Australian government lost no time in making the announcement. More than quarter of a year laid before the people were told that the carrier Yorktown had been wiped out by the Japanese. No admission has yet been made that cargo boats in convoy to Murmansk were destroyed, although German radio claimed complete destruction; navy merely said the Germans were exaggerating. Navy, it will be recalled, declared there were no Japanese in the Aleutians when the Tokyo radio had already asserted that the little brown men were at Kiska. The policy of censorship needs working over, revamping and placing some confidence in the good judgement of the American people.

Drafting of the teen aged youths will present another problem for employers in the northwest. It will mean that employers of reasonable labor will have to reach down to hire boys 15 and 16 years old—practically high school youngsters. This past summer the 18 and 19-year old boys were employed, but employers declare that few of them took their job seriously and they would skulk around, with apparently no sense of responsibility or appreciation that there is a war in progress and that everyone has a part in the conflict. If the 16-17-year olds will be even more irresponsible.

There should be some readjustment of wages, say the employers. In the work the past summer the youths were paid the same wage as the older, experienced men. The older men, those above draft age, performed twice the amount of work done by the boys and the knowledge that

Jailed Crime Orgy Culprit Refuses To See His Wife

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—(AP)—The state of Illinois chose two charges of armed robbery and one of rape today to start its prosecution of Irwin Kadens, the army deserter whose spectacular criminal career ended with an unsuccessful holdup yesterday.

Assistant State's Attorney Francis McCurrie said he would ask the Cook county grand jury to vote indictments on these charges. He explained that although the state was proceeding with these charges first it did not necessarily mean that Kadens would be tried on them first.

The federal government is still considering what charges it can lodge against him, McCurrie said, and federal indictments may follow. The Illinois charges include Kadens' bungling attempt to rob a west side currency exchange yesterday and an accusation that he attacked a 17-year-old girl.

Kadens' wife, Jeanette, a small, thin woman of 27, who allowed him to enlist in the army and then took over the double duty of mother and breadwinner, went to see the prisoner. Kadens, however, retreated to a dark corner of his cell, turned his back and said:

"I want only to see my kids. I don't want to see my wife or any one else—just the kids."

Mrs. Kadens shed a few tears and left the lockup, announcing she would not bring the two daughters—two and five years old—to visit her husband.

Kadens was placed under a police guard and his belt and shoelaces were removed as a precaution against any attempt at suicide.

Before she was snubbed by her husband, Mrs. Kadens had said: "I can't see him as anything but, because I never knew him as had... He used to do a thousand good things for us every day... I can't believe these things are true... The whole thing is a nightmare, a dream."

Santa Monica Forest Fire Gaining Headway

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Oct. 21.—(AP)—A second blaze broke out today in the Santa Monica mountains north of here to further harass fire fighters waging a losing battle against a conflagration which threatened a prison camp and homes bordering the Pacific ocean.

The new fire was on the Watson ranch near Calabasas, about three miles north of the main blaze. The ranch has been the setting for numerous Warner Bros. pictures.

A crew of nearly 100 was rushed to the scene, and a fire official

"Lifer" to Escape Useless Charge

SALEM, Ore., Oct. 21.—(AP)—District Attorney Hayden said today that the case of Theodore Jordan, state prison life former charged by Warden Alexander with being the ring leader in the burning of three flax sheds at the prison, would not be submitted to the grand jury.

Hayden explained that there would not be much point in adding any sentence for arson to the life term. Jordan has been in prison 10 years, serving a sentence for a murder in Klamath county.

Five other convicts received further sentences when they pleaded guilty to arson charges. The state board of control indicated yesterday it might take out riot insurance on the four remaining flax sheds at the prison. The board recently took out fire insurance after three sheds were burned by convicts.

Riot insurance would cost $1000 a year.

Navy Fund Bill Upped by Senate, Returned to House

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—(AP)—A bill authorizing the expenditure of $15,841,196,997 for war purposes, $15,000,000,000 of it by the navy, was returned to the house today for action on senate amendments.

This supplemental appropriation bill came back with $101,240,266 added by the senate to the amount passed by the house on October 8, including $100,000,000 for war housing and $1,000,000 for a farm labor survey by the war manpower commission.

Also added were two controversial amendments, one making appointments to the manpower commission paying $4,500 or more a year subject to senate confirmation, the other permitting the use of certain funds for the Florida barge canal which was authorized last July 23.

As passed by the senate, the bill appropriates $6,341,196,887 outright, including $5,599,000,000 for the maintenance and expansion of the navy. In addition, the navy would be authorized to begin letting contracts on a $9,500,000,000 construction program aimed at adding 2,101,000 tons of new aircraft carriers, 500,000 tons of cruisers, 900,000 tons of destroyers and escort vessels and 200,000 tons of auxiliary ships.

Cash appropriations for the navy would include $2,862,000,000 for the acquisition of 14,611 planes.

LETTERS to the Editor

MEASURES ON BALLOT SHOULD BE EXPLAINED Editor News-Review: It has been my intention to call a meeting of the Douglas County Taxpayers League, to advise some way to get the voters of Douglas county to read and study the voters' pamphlet, sent to them by the secretary of state, so that they can vote more intelligently on the several proposed new laws and constitutional amendments which will be on the ballot November 3rd; and owing to the busy times and thin tires, I think it best if someone in each town or community would take it upon himself and call a public meeting and have someone who is competent explain the purport of each new bill and amendment to be voted on. It seems a waste of time and money for the state to print and mail a copy of the voters' pamphlet to each voter and then see at least fifty per cent of them thrown in the waste basket, and then have a voter tell you he voted "No," on all the amendments and etc., because he did not understand them.

Here's Right Way To Care for Deer

CORVALLIS, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Make big game hunting this year contribute to the meat supply as well as to sport, Lucy Case and H. A. Lindgren, extension specialists in nutrition and animal husbandry, respectively, at O. S. C., suggest. Unless care is taken much meat is wasted by poor handling.

Here are their suggestions for "bring 'em back dead—but fit to eat." Go prepared to dress the animal in the woods. First steps in dressing are, remove testicles, bleed the animal with head down hill, then remove glands on inside of hocks, to prevent off flavor in the meat. Next remove entrails.

As soon as the carcass is back at camp skin it to hasten cooling. If weather is cool it can remain in camp several days; otherwise rush it to cold storage within a day, unless you have the taste of an Eskimo.

In camp protect the carcass from flies with sacking, except at night, then quarter it for hauling home—taking care not to put it in the hottest part of the car.
