attacks from across the Mediterranean.

Darlan, himself, may have been captured along with the city he surrendered. His fate was not disclosed immediately.

Resistance, ordered by pathetic old Marshal Petain, who professed "bewilderment and sadness" at the attack, seemed confined mostly to French naval and coast guard forces. Inland the French and native populations were greeting the Americans as Americans as friends.

The coastal defense bore the earmarks of mere token resistance, such as the French put up at Madagascar, sufficient only to keep the French homeland clear of Nazi retribution.

The French communique said Algiers was surrendered after coastal batteries had been overwhelmed and American assault forces had penetrated into the city.

Tie With U. S. Severed.

Broken by the attack was the 150-year record of friendly French-American diplomatic relations. Pierre Laval's pro-German collaborationist government notified the United States yesterday that diplomatic relations were severed. Washington received the word with evident indifference, but responded today by handing the Vichy French ambassador his passports.

Before this action, Secretary of State Hull had disclosed that the United States was taking in protective custody all Vichy French ships in this country's ports.

Hull emphasized that the United States had maintained relations since 1940 chiefly for the purpose of paving the way for the current military expedition against north Africa.

Despite Vichy indication that north Africa was rallying behind Marshal Petain's decision to fight, General Giraud, the nazis' escaped captive, remained a potential factor along with the subdued DeGaulist uprising in Morocco.

General Giraud has broadcast that he was taking command in north Africa.

BOSTON, Nov. 9—(AP)—Declaring that the American offensive in north Africa cannot be interpreted as an aggression but is, on the contrary, a first step for the liberation of France, Francois Briere, French consul at Boston since 1937, today resigned his post.

Armistice Program to Aid War Funds Effort

Service Held Sunday.

There will be no morning memorial service on Armistice day as heretofore, the local veterans, conforming to the recommendation of national and state American Legion executive committees, having arranged the service Sunday.

The program was held last night at the First Christian church, where the pastor, the Rev. Len B. Fishback, spoke on the subject, "For God and Country." The Rev. Levi White, state chaplain of the Disabled American Veterans, assisted in the program. A vocal solo was presented by Ralph Church. The service was joined by Umpqua post and auxiliary of the American Legion and by representatives of other veterans organizations.

Due to changed conditions, the national and state committees of the American Legion have urged that celebration be arranged to avoid interference with the production effort. As a result the usual parades and public programs are being generally eliminated. Veterans groups this year are assisting in scrap metal collections, joining bond drives and recruiting campaigns and undertaking other such projects.

Programs at Schools.

F. L. Crittenden, past commander of Umpqua post, represented the American Legion at a special assembly in the junior high school Friday afternoon, speaking on the subject, "American Ideals and the War." An assembly will be held at the senior high school at 11:15 a. m. Tuesday, at which time there will be special music by the school orchestra. Umpqua post of the American Legion will present a new flag to the student body. The Rev. Perry Smith, past national chaplain of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, will speak and will place special emphasis on the service given by former students of Roseburg high school and particularly those who gave their lives in the last war and the current war.

The local veterans and auxiliary members will celebrate Armistice day Wednesday with a party at the Knights of Pythias hall, where they will gather at noon for a potluck dinner, which will be followed by a special program and recreation.

REDEDICATION TO WAR TASK ASKED BY F. D. R.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—(AP)—In a world at war once more, President Roosevelt proclaimed that November 11 should be observed as usual as Armistice day.

"Faith can be kept with those who died in the first world war," he said in a proclamation, "only by resolutely prosecuting to final victory the great war in which we are now engaged, and by crowning that victory with a peace which shall safeguard and extend these essential freedoms."

He had just referred to the championing by the united nations of freedom of speech, freedom of worship and freedom from want and fear.

Mr. Roosevelt, who will make a brief armistice day speech at the amphitheater in Arlington national cemetery, asked the people of the United States to rededicate the nation on November 11 to the "great task of winning this war and building a just peace in order that we and our children may live in a world made free to work toward human advancement."

positions on the island, the navy reported.

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Nov. 8—(Delayed)—(AP)—American doughboys who had been carried into the midst of Japanese-controlled territory probably the greatest airborne infantry movement of history, hacked their way through dense New Guinea jungle today to within striking distance of the enemy's base at Buna.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique today announced that American infantrymen and Australian veterans had penetrated to the Buna area after being transferred from Australian bases by airplane.

How the Americans got there is one of the epic stories of this war. Ferried by huge transport planes to a natural landing strip, even bringing their jeeps, they then pushed afoot across the Owen Stanley mountains on a trail seldom used by white men.

Japanese fashion, they carried rice and a few other rations in bags slung about their necks so as to be self-sufficient for many days.

Within minutes after reaching their destination by air they picked up rifles and other equipment and set off in the direction of Buna to join with the Australians in a full-scale offensive to shove the Japanese into the sea.

Wheat Penalty Upheld By U. S. Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—(AP)—The supreme court held constitutional today legislation imposing a 49-cent-per-bushel penalty on wheat produced and sold in excess of agricultural adjustment administration quotas.

The legislation, passed by congress May 26, 1941, increased the penalty on the excess over AAA quotas from 15 to 49 cents per bushel and prevented the sale or use on the farm of any wheat produced until the penalty had been paid.

Escaped Oregon Convict Found Working on Farm

SALEM, Ore., Nov. 9—(AP)—Harley W. Hickman, 20, who escaped from the state prison annex, was recaptured at Independence yesterday by the chief of police of that city. State Prison Warden Alexander said today: Hickman, during his week of freedom, had worked on a farm near Independence.

He was serving a three-year prison sentence for larceny in Multnomah county.

IT'S RESULTS THAT COUNT

J. C. PENNEY COMPANY

INCORPORATED

Roseburg News-Review,
Roseburg, Oregon.

Roseburg, Ore., Nov. 7, 1942

Gentlemen:

Thursday, November 5th, we used sixty-four inches of space in your paper that brought such outstanding results, that we think you ought to know about it.

The theme of the ad was a clean up of odds and ends. The ad was not large, neither was it startling in copy. It was a plain, simple statement of the fact that we had a very sizeable quantity of odds and ends that we wanted to get rid of. To sell these quickly we reduced the prices to genuine bargain levels. There were no window displays, placards or other forms of advertising.

To make the story short, our store was packed to the capacity all day long.

We write you this because, we believe that as long as advertising is truthful and used in a medium as well read as the News-Review is, favorable results are bound to result.

One idea we want to leave. We did not violate the President's idea of promoting useless spending of money. EVERY ITEM offered will not be replaced in our stock. These were all discontinued numbers and we feel that if our customers would invest their savings in WAR STAMPS the country would be better off.

Let me say in closing that as long as we have our American way of life, we should and will advertise our stores, either as to its merchandise values or some of our services to the Community in which we live.

With kindest regards, I am,

Cordially yours,

B. C. ELLIOTT,
Manager,
J. C. Penney Company Inc.,
Roseburg, Oregon.

Newspaper advertising did its job well for the above client. It'll do the same for you, Mr. Merchant, if you'll give it a chance.

War times are not normal times. Many items of merchandise and help are hard to obtain. Gas rationing isn't going to be easy—

BUT

- Let's keep our chins up.
- Let's keep on doing business as Free Americans.
- Let's continue to tell local residents and farmers and timber workers

THAT

- Roseburg stores are still in business
- Roseburg stores are keeping good stocks—substituting new items where some regular item has been taken out of production.
- Roseburg stores are offering as good or better values than can be found elsewhere.
- Roseburg stores expect to be serving you long after the war is won and
- THAT Roseburg stores are anxious to have your business and to have you save money to
