DAILY DEVOTIONS
DR. CHAS. A. EDWARDS

It may seem ironical to celebrate a day of peace now; the world placing a wreath of remembrance with one hand, with the other hand signalling for a blast of earth-shaking artillery fire. In this newest war which has eclipsed all others before it. But that is a selfish view which forgets the men which Armistice day symbolizes. The day belongs to them under acres of chaste white crosses on foreign soil, in hospitals or the thousands still living, who bear in their hearts the scars of world war I. It is not their fault that the peace they won for us could not outlast man's inherent stupidity. They did not fail us. It is we who failed them. To them it was the one great adventure which was going to outlaw war for all time. Somehow, living or dead, they will share with the world this Armistice day, its shocking disappointment, that the peace was so short-lived; that statesmen could forget so soon the criminal blunders of another day. It is completely fitting that we should observe Armistice day, not that we can logically say peace, peace, when there is no peace, but we must never forget the men who died for their country. Amen.
