OUT OUR WAY

Flynn Answers Charges Made by Senator Bridges

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)—Edward J. Flynn, minister designate to Australia, told the senate foreign relations committee today that when he swore in the late Arthur Elegenheimer as a special deputy sheriff of Bronx county he did not know that was the real name of Dutch Schultz, the gangster.

Earlier an assistant secretary of state testified that Flynn's experience as federal commissioner for the New York world's fair helped equip him to discharge the duties of minister.

Flynn, testifying at his own request, offered denials to all specific charges raised against him by Senator Bridges (R-NH) in opposing senate confirmation of the diplomatic appointment.

The appointee testified immediately after Assistant Secretary of State G. Howland Snow presented the state department's endorsement of the appointment and said the Australian government had approved the appointment before it was sent to the senate.

Flynn said his opponents had tried to imply that Schultz was appointed a regular deputy sheriff, which was "not so."

"He was never appointed as a paid appointee of the sheriff's office," said the former sheriff of Bronx county.

Flynn explained it had long been the custom in New York counties to appoint friends of persons recommended by friends as special deputy sheriffs. He had merely continued the practice, he said.

"A group would come into the office and I would swear them in," Flynn explained. "They received no salary and had no duties to perform. It was merely a gesture of the sheriff of that time to the people with whom he was friendly, who made requests of appointments."

DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS

In the first World war most of the allied nations witnessed a turning to religion, but so far in this struggle there has been no such tidal movement. Indeed, pastors testify again and again to the spirit of spiritual defeatism that has again and again taken possession of many of their own people. If this continues, then we have suffered losses, more tragic than the sinking of ships at sea or the demolition of great cities. It is the faith of a nation in its ideals, which makes it great. It is the confidence of a people in the moral order of the universe which makes them invincible. If we lose these things then we have lost all. Let there be no hindrance to the faith. A practical atheism is taking possession of vast numbers of the people. They have given up the struggle to maintain old and inspiring ideals. They have surrendered to the cynicism that says there always will be a war. They have decided that we will not be able to rise to the new day that will follow the war. Church services, in which men creep into the presence of all the earth are deserted in favor of civilian defense meetings, scrap iron collections and air raid drills. Let us beware. Amen.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

By William Ferguson

25 MILLION EUROPEANS IN THE 14TH CENTURY DIED OF BUBONIC PLAGUE TRANSMITTED BY FLEAS FROM INFECTED RATS! TODAY, MILLIONS ARE DYING ALL OVER THE WORLD BECAUSE OF "INFECTED RATS."

THE NEAREST STAR IN THE HEAVENS IS STILL SO DISTANT THAT IF IT SUDDENLY BURNED OUT, OUR ASTRONOMERS WOULDN'T KNOW ABOUT IT UNTIL THE YEAR 1947.

ANSWER: Rice fields.

Concerning the NORTHWEST As Viewed at the National Capital

By John W. Kelly

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 20.—When Oregon's McNary, minority leader, leaves the floor he asks some fellow republican to "sit in" for him until he returns. He has made the request of various members, among them Vermont's Austin, but Austin is the only one who has thereafter announced himself as assistant minority leader. Austin is unpopular with most of the republicans because of this self-assumed title and his consistent support of President Roosevelt. Some of the newspapers attempted to make an issue that "isolationists" were determined to block Austin's election as assistant leader. What they did not know was that in the republican rule book there is no such office. Austin is hoping for a federal judgeship from the administration.

NYA's Fate At Stake

National youth administration, which is training men and women for work in war industries, has 211 stations and 158 trainees in Washington state and 162 stations and 86 trainees in Oregon, according to Senator Byrd, who wants to abolish NYA. A station means equipment required to teach one trainee to do a specified job. It could be a welding outfit, a lathe, a forge, or any other thing. Aubrey Williams, when he was with WPA, said: "We must vote for our friends," and the reliever did it now a director of NYA. He argues there will be such expansion of war industries that every trainee he can teach will be needed. He says that he pays a trainee $31.80 a month if the trainee lives at home; $10.80 plus $21 for maintenance of those at training centers, and figures it works out as payment at 20 cents an hour. He wants to pay 40 cents an hour, explaining that industries are paying up to 70 cents while beginners learn the "know how." Senator Byrd contends that inasmuch as industry is doing training, NYA is superfluous. Practically all of the war industries in the northwest, aircraft and shipyards, are teaching green workers how to handle tools.

More Oil Sought

Prediction is made by a government official that the fuel oil shortage will be worse in the winter of 1943-44 than in the current winter. The shortage in the east, of course, is due to the immense amount of fuel oil being sent to Africa and to high octane gasoline shipped to that theater of battle for the tanks and airplanes. From Maine to Florida pleasure driving is prohibited, taxicabs cannot deliver passengers to night clubs, theaters or sporting events; "hot spots" in the suburbs have been forced to close as their customers required motor transportation. Churches, theaters, and bowling alleys (and some schools) cannot obtain fuel oil. And next winter, they say, will be no better. What is occurring in the Pacific coast, the encroachments, have started. Rapidly as possible the Pacific fleet is being built. All ships, from battleships to destroyers, use oil for fuel, every merchantman, every transport, every tanker is an oil burner. These ships must refuel somewhere in the Pacific or have enough fuel to get there and back. Naturally such consumption of oil will result in a shortage for civilian users of the west coast.

Every drop of oil sent to Africa and every drop of oil sent to the United States, present in the federal government is being experienced oil men to look for wildcat wells. In oil parlance a wildcat well, or wildcatting, means searching for an untapped oil field. There has never been much luck hunting for oil in either Oregon or Washington. Volcanic action is said to have caused the oil to migrate, despite remaining traces. Government geologists refuse to say there is no oil in the northwest, but suggest that no well heretofore sunk has gone down deep enough. "Deepest well in Kern county, Calif." Under this government spur there are now prospectors studying the terrain of Washington and Oregon, both along the coast and in the interior, east of the Cascade mountains.

Two Ease Conscience By Remitting Money

PORTLAND, Jan. 19 (AP)—The Northwest Electric company received an unexpected $120 in conscience money. An unsigned note, posted here, said the money was in payment for electricity delivered around the company's meter.

R. W. Lawlor, the company's assistant treasurer, said $120 was enough to cover the average residential electric bill for about three years.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 19 (AP)

The city's conscience fund has been enriched by $3 by an anonymous contributor from Cincinnati but the fellow still owes $4. In a typewritten note the conscience-stricken person wrote: "While attending school in your city I removed one of your metal stop signs and carried it to my room in a fraternity house. At the time I thought it was funny, but of course, it was vandalism—or stealing. I hope the money I am enclosing will cover the cost to the city."

U. S. Sub Sinks Two Jap Vessels In Sixty Seconds

SEATTLE, Jan. 20 (AP)—An American submarine, with the amazing record of having twice sunk two ships within 60 seconds of each other, was on the surface during an attack on a Japanese convoy.

"Captain," the lookout shouted, "there's an auxiliary cruiser out there shooting at us."

"Are they hitting us?" inquired the skipper.

"No," the lookout replied. "Well, all right," calmly rejoined Lieut. Commander Thomas B. Klarkring, who dared move his submarine so close to the shores of Japan the crew could see a horse race in progress.

In a navy-approved interview, Ensign Gilson Rohrbach told about the convoy incident.

"The skipper liked to get up on the surface and travel," Rohrbach explained.

"As a matter of fact, the merchantmen were shooting at us, too, with five-inch deck guns but it didn't seem to bother the skipper. He stayed on the surface for an hour and a half trying to get another shot. (Rohrbach had told earlier of the sub sinking two ships in the convoy, damaging a third, then deciding to surface.) Then Jap planes came out and we pulled the cork and went down."

The ensign, who refers to Commander Klarkring as "the sort of fellow who's going to win this war," said:

"I feel as though I've learned quite a bit about Japan. We saw big Japanese cities and Jap trains, bases and ships."

Commander Klarkring, the ensign said, "used to go in so close for torpedo shots that the concussion would be worse in the submarine than a lot of depth charges seem."

Crown Princess Of Netherlands Bears Third Child

OTTAWA, Jan. 20 (AP)—Crown Princess Juliana of the Netherlands gave birth to her third daughter last night, a seven-pound 12 ounce princess for whom a little bit of Canada was proclaimed a little bit of Holland so that she need not be born on foreign soil.

The hospital suite was declared by the dominion government extra-territorial for the confinement period. For all that, the little princess was the first member of the royal house of Orange to be born outside the Netherlands and she is the first member of any European family to be born in North America.

Her father, Prince Bernhard, announced that "she looks splendid." He came from London last week to be here at the child's birth.

Today the little princess was to be given her name and registered with the Netherlands consular general as a Netherlands citizen.

Queen Wilhelmina, in London, was expected to travel to Canada for the child's christening at some future date.

A son to the 33-year-old crown princess would have become automatically her heir to the throne. With the birth of a third daughter, the succession remains unchanged. The Princess Beatrix, who will be 5 on Jan. 31, is next to her mother in the throne succession. The second princess is Irene, aged 3.
