DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS

A brilliant speaker had finished his address before a group of cultured men and women in the city of Boston, at the close of the meeting the speaker was asked of what college or university he was a graduate. With perfect seriousness he replied, "The Fireside University." The questioner seemed puzzled at the answer. Then the eloquent orator told how he was trained in his father's home on a farm in the middle west. The open fireplace was the school room through long winter evenings. It was in such a university that Abraham Lincoln received his training. The clarion call in America today is that we keep our homes, the fireside universities, open to all our American boys and girls. The family altar where the Bible is read and prayer offered to God. Good books must be found in homes and libraries and good magazines on the reading table. Time must be taken by parents for wise counsel and admonition to children. Above all in the fireside university the spirit of Christ must abide. Our homes and our children are our priceless heritages. Let us be careful we do not sell the birthright of our boys and girls for the cheap glamour of a modern world in pleasure, business or social life. Amen.

"There's a lot of talk these days about what the war is going to do to retailers. It's going to be tough, I know... but I've got my own kind of war risk insurance, and I'm sure it will see me through."

1. "Now, even more than in normal times, people want the best they can get for their money. So I make it a point to feature the well-known advertised brands... especially the ones advertised right here in our local newspapers."

2. "When a product's scarce, I try to make sure my customers know exactly why. Of course, that's a lot easier when the manufacturer tells the story in newspaper ads. I often tear out such ads myself and display them here in the store."

3. "When items disappear, I don't just sit around biting my nails, wondering what to do. I get busy, stock new items... and whenever I learn that a new product is advertised in newspapers in my town, I make it a 'must' to get it."

4. "Believe me, it's already paying out, too. With enough satisfied customers, a merchant can weather a lot of storms. And the best way I know to keep 'em satisfied is to give 'em the products they all read about in the ads in our local papers."

War is teaching retailers everywhere a lot about advertising that they've never realized before. More and more, smart retailers are reaping benefits from the newspaper advertising support they get from manufacturers... benefits that are multiplied when retailers, in turn, back up newspaper-advertised products.
