News of Men

From Douglas County

In War Service

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Grimm have received word from their son, George, that he has arrived safely in North Africa. He is assigned to a signal service company.

C. W. Lawson has received word that his son, Kenneth, who has been overseas for the past six months, is now back in the United States. He has been very ill for the past five months but is reported to be recuperating satisfactorily in a hospital in Massachusetts. He is a brother of Morgan Lawson, local jewler.

Technical Sergeant Olaf Peterson, former News-Review employee, son of Mrs. J. A. Peterson of Roseburg, has organized correspondence with a number of Roseburg men in all combat areas, according to word received by his mother. He writes that he is corresponding with friends in England, Africa, Ireland, Alaska and Hawaii. He told of the organization of New Guinea natives into labor parties, and of one who spoke English describing the soldiers he had seen, saying, "Jap, little man; Australian, little bigger man; American, great big man."

DIAL LOG

By SUSAN

Well, folks, to tell you the truth we're so busy talking bonds and selling bonds today that it's sort of hard to get our mind on the day's work that's ahead. However, thanks to all you grand people, the first day of the Second War Loan drive turned out to be a bang-up success. So, again, our thanks to each and every one of you. And now on to Tuesday and Wednesday's programs.

One new show is scheduled for its debut on Wednesday at 6:30. It's "Soldiers With Wings", a new broadcast to originate from Santa Ana. "Wings Over the West Coast" comes from the same Air Force training center, but the new show, which will supplement the Sunday night show, will be a bit different. For one thing the premiere will star Ida Lupino and Ray Milland of movie fame, and Connie Haines is billed as the singing star, so it sounds like tops in entertainment. There's something else new in programs coming up. Next Friday night there's a new local forum starting, but we'll tell you more about it later—right now we have to get busy on the bonds.

Trout Fishing Season Will Open Saturday

SALEM, Ore., April 13.—(AP)—Chamber of commerce secretaries from most Oregon cities conferred here yesterday with state and federal officials on how to help farmers get in their crops next summer and fall, relief to small business, and priorities.

The conference was called by Gov. Snell.

"It is quite evident," Snell said, "that we must depend to a considerable degree upon the willingness of businessmen, housewives and school children to assist in the fields during the coming harvest season.

"The board of control is working on a plan which will be of some assistance locally. (This plan contemplates the use of inmates of the state boys and girls training schools).

"In the event of an extreme emergency, it is hoped that temporary assistance from army camps may be made available."

SECOND WAR LOAN DRIVE

EDITORIAL

By Charles V. Stanton

THE Second War Loan drive is now under way, offering to Douglas county residents the greatest challenge of the war. We have not failed in any respect so far to accomplish everything we were asked to do. We have exceeded our quotas in war savings bonds every month for eleven months. If we succeed in the stupendous task now before us we will have maintained an unbroken record for one year.

Our goal of more than two million dollars is not impossible, but its attainment will require a great deal of hard work and the utmost cooperation of every man, woman and child.

More than one half of the total will be secured through investment of surpluses of commercial banks, corporations and businesses, which heretofore have been buying federal securities handled through the Victory Fund committee.

Two departments have been engaged in the war financing campaign. The one best known to the public is the War Savings staff, which is charged with the sale of War Savings bonds and stamps. The Victory Fund committee has been operating in a manner similar to that of the War Savings staff, but its customers have been banks, financial agencies, corporations and business firms. For the purpose of the Second War Loan drive, these two agencies are united and both will contribute to the huge national goal of thirteen billion dollars.

Thus, one-half, or possibly more, of the county's quota of more than two million dollars will probably come from the sources which ordinarily would buy securities through the Victory Fund committee, but the War Savings staff will have the job of selling to the general public from six to ten times as many war bonds and stamps as have been sold in any previous month of the war.

It's a real job we have ahead of us but it can be done and can be easily accomplished if everyone cooperates.

There should, in fact, be no difficulty if everyone stops to realize the great importance of this campaign now in progress.

It is obvious from reading the current news that the United Nations are on the verge of a great offensive sweep. That success is confidently anticipated is shown by the great stress already being laid on post-war planning. The offensive, however, will cost a huge sum of money. Our American soldiers cannot be expected to brave the holocaust of the axis European defense lines without ample provisions of tanks, planes, guns and ammunition. Oregon's quota of $104,000,000 will be enough to finance about six raids by 1,000 bombing planes on Berlin, and we can think of no way in which the money could be more satisfactorily expended.

But there is another most important angle to this campaign. Success of the drive assures not only that our boys shall have ample equipment but we are likewise protecting ourselves from a most dangerous enemy—inflation.

This year the American people will have an income of about forty billion dollars more than they will be able to spend. Unless this money is invested and invested wisely it could result in a financial disaster which would wreck our financial structure and make worthless our surpluses, our investments, our savings and our insurance. The margin between the national income and the consumer goods for sale is so large it becomes dangerous. Some of that money must be taken out of public hands. The federal government has the authority to seize the money by imposing heavier taxes, or it can take the money out of circulation through voluntary loans and thus postpone its use until consumer goods are again available in sufficient quantity to absorb the great money surplus without danger of excessive inflation.

Therefore, the dollars you invest in this second great war loan serve a double purpose. They make it possible to preserve our nation from a tangible foe as well as protecting the nation's financial structure and thereby our own future.

The boys at the front are giving their lives. The least we can do is to lend our dollars.

Barber Price Bill May Face Referendum Vote

SALEM, Ore., April 13.—(AP)—Reports were current here today that several independent barbers plan to refer the 1943 barber bill to the people at the November, 1944, general election.

The bill permits the state barber board to fix minimum prices in any county where 70 per cent of the barbers wish to do so. The object of the bill is to prevent price-cutting.

Carcass of Sea Monster Puzzles Viewers at Ilwaco

ILWACO, Wash., April 12.—The latest in sea monster stories is the one about a 4000-pound critter with eyes like softballs and a 15-foot tail studded at the tip, like a pincushion, with foot-long spikes.

The only difference between this and other sea monster stories is that a carcass goes with this one.

It's a badly decomposed carcass and not everyone will go near it on the beach here.

But Lt. Vernon Saunders of the army did, and he reported it was 40 feet long and three feet wide. It had four elongated flippers, he said, estimating it would have weighed two tons in life.

Perhaps the oddest thing is the head, which is beaver-like, small and out of proportion to the rest of the body, Saunders said.

He sketched his conception of the animal in life and this turned out to resemble both a whale and a salamander.

A considerable segment of town refers to it as "the sea monster." A few fishermen who walked down to look at the carcass were noncommittal.

Services Set Here For Good Friday

The annual Good Friday church service will be held from 1:30 to 3:15 p. m. Friday, April 23, at the First Christian church, it was announced today by the Rev. Melville T. Wire, president of the Roseburg Ministerial association. The service will be divided into 15-minute periods, each presided over by one of the ministers of the city. During each period one of the seven sayings of the Cross will be presented and suitable music will be provided.

The respective periods are announced as follows: 1:30 to 1:45, Rev. Melville T. Wire; 1:45 to 2:00, Rev. H. P. Sconce; 2:00 to 2:15, Rev. Morris H. Roach; 2:15 to 2:30, Rev. Len B. Fishback; 2:30 to 2:45, Rev. B. Ross Evans, 2:45 to 3:00, Rev. W. C. Ross; 3:00 to 3:15, Rev. T. A. Houser.

There will be a brief intermission between the periods, during which those who attend may come and go at will. Th general public is invited to attend any or all of the service.

Crop Harvest Problem Topic at Conference

PORTLAND, April 13.—(AP)—Oregon's trout fishing season will open Saturday in 26 counties.

With certain exceptions the bag limit for trout of not less than six inches in length is 15 fish or 15 pounds and one fish in any one day but not to exceed 30 fish or 30 pounds and two fish in any seven consecutive days or in possession at any one time.

Exceptions to this limit will be found in the 1943 synopsis of angling regulations which is available at all license agencies, the commission said.

The commission urged anglers to fill out "catch report cards" which will enable the state to determine results of fish-planting programs and future policies. The cards are available at license agencies, sporting goods stores and resorts, the commission said.
