DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS

The Communion Table.

An emblem of a historic observance that has come down through nineteen centuries. The supreme act of Christian worship, a holy communion with God, a visible sign of invisible life and peace. My greatest service and glory is in that holy moment when God's people hold memorial of Christ's immeasurable sacrifice and humbly receive the sacrament and by faith receive him. But continually I stand here, the words upon me, symbolic of the unmerited favor and love of God toward man in Christ. The words "in remembrance of me," are a constant reminder to those who enter the sanctuary of Christ's atonement, and their need for a rededication to Christian living. During the communion service I hold the elements the bread and wine, symbolic of a life laid down for others, and the minister reads: Ye that do truly and earnestly repent of your sins draw near with faith and take this holy sacrament to your comfort and devout kneeling, make your humble confession to Almighty God. People of poverty, people of wealth, people of power, all kneel before thee in their common need. For these we pray, that this symbolism of a life given for others may bring them a realization of the selfless life they have been living. May each one who partakes of this sacrament consecrate his life to thee. Amen.

CAN YOU HELP US GET SOME MORE BUTTER, FAT?

Really, now, that was a most peculiar way for the Douglas County Creamery to ask the News-Review advertising man, whose cognomen is properly "Tiny," to help them increase their supply of butterfat.

No, they didn't put the comma in the heading but they did put an exclamation point after their statement that the nation's reserves of butter are getting dangerously low and that every cow owner should bring in every ounce of cream that he can. It is needed now—and it is needed badly.

At least 30 per cent of all butter produced by the Douglas County Creamery is going to feed our boys in the service—you're helping the war effort, helping yourself and helping local industry—when you take your butterfat to the Douglas County Creamery!
